Mixed Paints

The paint that is guaranteed to LAST LONGER and go farther than white lead and linseed oil, no matter how skilfully mixed.

We are Agents in Omaha for

We wish to call special attention to the general distinguishing facts about these paints. First—their unsullied reputation for purity and reliability, having been upon the market nearly 50 years, and being better known in most localities than is any brand of white lead. Second—that in this line of paints there is a paint prepared for each distinct purpose for which a paint may be used. For example: there is INSIDE floor paint; then one quite different for outside floors (i.e., floors exposed to wind and sunshine) and this is called PORCH FLOOR paint. Then there is the CREOSOTE paint for barns and roofs, but if it is a metal barn or roof there is another paint made especially for metal surfaces which is called ROOF and BRIDGE paint. Then there is ENAMEL paint and another kind intended for nothing but bath tubs. This is called BATH TUB ENAMEL, and still other enamel for BICYCLES. And so on through the line. Third—The SHERWIN WILLIAMS Paints are all marketed in suitable sized packages. You only have to buy what you need. You can get ¼-pint of enamel or Family paint or a 50-gallon barrel of HOUSE, BARN or BRIDGE PAINT. Parties who intend painting will receive special information if they will tell us what class of work is to be done, and write for our Paint and Brush Pamphlet.

The Senior Class.

(With apologies to Burke.)

CANNOT PREVAIL on myself to hurry over the great consideration of the development of the Senior Class. It is good for us to be here. We stand where we have an immense view of what is and what is past. Neither clouds nor darkness rests upon the future. Let us, however, before we descend from this noble eminence reflect that this growth of our class has happened within the short period of four years. There are those alive whose memory might touch the two great extremities. For instance, my Lady Eleanor might remember all the stages of the progress. She was in 1903, of an age at least to be made to comprehend such things. Suppose that the angel of this auspicious girl, foreseeing her many virtues, should have drawn up the curtain and unfolded the rising glories of her school, and whilst she was gazing with admiration on the then scholastic grandeur of the institution, the genius should point out to her a little speck, scarcely visible in the mass of general assembly, a small seminal principle rather than a formed body, and should tell her: "Young lady, there is the class of 1907, which at this day serves for little more than to amuse people with stories of piles of books and bashful mistakes; yet shall before you are right and president, show itself equal to the whole of the preceding classes which before have attracted the envy of the Freshmen. Whatever all former classes have been growing to by a progressive increase of improvement brought in by varieties of students, by a succession of civilizing conquests, you shall see added to this class in the course of four years." If this state of her class had been foretold to her would it not require all the sanguine credulity of youth and all the fervid glow of enthusiasm to make her believe it?

Yet she has lived to see it. When we speak of the wonders of this body, fiction lags after truth, invention is unfruitful and imagination cold and barren. I choose therefore to enter particular details because generalities which in all other cases are apt to heighten and raise the subject, have here a tendency to sink it.

The first thing that we have to consider with regard to the nature of the subject is athletics. Surely it is an awful subject, or there is none on this side of the grave. Pass by other things and look at the manner in which the pupils of the aforesaid class have carried on this pursuit. While we follow them among the tumbling football games and note the skill of our players, we hear that basket ball games are preparing and ably are the Seniors represented in this hardy industry; that there is not a game that is not witness to their toils. Nor was the carnival of 1905 more discouraging, for in this second place was secured.

But the athletics, though a very important factor, will lose much of their weight if not combined with the success in music and art. And, pray, what in the world is equal to the harmony produced by the violins of Helen Sommers and Caroline Conklin, to the bird-like notes of Ruth McBride and Elizabeth Hamling, to the captivating melody seduced from a piano by Cecil Berryman, to the concord of sounds with which Stanley Letovsky fascinates those who study in the library after school, or in other words, to the latter youth's ability to wield the baton? There is something new and catchy in the posters of Bess Gould and Louise McBride, while the sketches of Alice McCullough decorate the Register to our admiration.

I put this consideration of the ability of the class in front of our deliberation, because this consideration will make it evident to a blunter discernment than ours that no partial, narrow contracted, pinched, occasional system has been used to train such a body. It will show that it was not considered as one of those minima which are out of the eye and consideration of the teachers, not a paltry excrescence of the school, not a mean dependent who might be neglected with little damage and provoked with little danger. The noble Misses McHugh will tell you that all branches of English were carefully inculcated in growing minds, worthy Dr. Senter will testify that the formulae for lime—water, slaked lime and lime—have been branded on the consciousness of every individual, Misses Snyder and Paxson will authorize the statement that Latin prose was not lightly treated on Friday, while Mrs. Atkinson will support the belief that the pupils were not confirmed in the pleasing error that Washington crossed the Rubicon in 1492. There has been nothing wanting to the necessary operation of school government. In full confidence of this unalterable truth I now move a resolution:

That the members and officers of the class of '07 in the Omaha High School, consisting of two hundred and twelve pupils, being sensible of the kindly interest of the faculty in the Omaha High School, which has prepared them with armament for the battle of life, heartily and feelingly thank them, though unable to express to full extent their overwhelming gratitude nor their appreciation.

F. S., '07.

To the Seniors.

Time swiftly flies as swallows on the wing.
Life's ways and duties beckon and we perforce must leave
The friends and pleasures of the past, to which we fain would cling.
We sometimes murmur at our lot and often do we grieve,
But to our friends, the Seniors, in spite of wind and weather,
Our bonds of truest friendship will ever hold together
Until we meet again.

II.

Some of you life's busy duties go to share,
Others, loyal to their Alma Mater, soon will stand.
But what 'ere your work or pleasure, may fortune guide you there,
And life's truest and best be ever near your hand.
Seniors, to whom we soon must bid adieu,
May good health, good luck, good fortune wait on you Wherever you may be.

III.

Classmates, to you I need not say farewell,
We bid farewell to pleasant years now past.
Our memories will cling more firmly as the years can tell,
With you our friendship we will ever still hold fast.
As into the busy world you enter,
Our best wishes 'round you center.
Naught seven! 'Tho' scattered by time's blast, God bless and prosper every one of you.

R. B., '08.
AGEE, TOM

"Thy rapt soul sitting in thine eyes."
Tom is a devotee to science and is right-hand man to Doc Senter and Mr. Bernstein.

AIKEN, NANETTE, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).
Dispenses all sorts of useful knowledge each morning in 264. Ruth is her favorite heroine.

ALDRICH, MARCIA, L. T. C. (3-4), Latin (3-4).
Marcia has been with us but two years. During that time she has pursued the even tenor of her ways with little disturbance.

"I know what study is; it is toil hard through the hours of sad midnight watch."

ANDERSON, MABEL, M. F. S. (2-3-4).
Mabel is the exponent of industry. She gets marvelous marks. Latin is her hobby and she can almost talk it.

BARROCK, HATTIE, L. T. C.
Hattie is a very pretty girl—her picture shows that—and she knows all about Burke and Conciliation, etc.

BEDFORD, EDWIN W., Football (1-2).
"Well, there is yet one day of life before me and whate'er betide I will enjoy it."

BAKER, OLIVE
"Much study is weariness."
After a year at High, Olive tried a year at Brownell. Realizing the advantage of High, however, she returned and has since pursued (?) her studies here.
BELLAMY, IONE, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).

"Be sure of it. Give me ocular proof."
Ione is of an inquiring mind, yet is sometimes hard to convince, especially in regard to Latin constructions.

BROGAN, ALBERT, First Lieut. Co. F.

"His cogitative faculties immersed in cogitability of cogitation."
Albert always knows his lessons perfectly; he is a joy to Miss Florence's heart.

"Dainty, fetching Antoinette,
In her pale pink bobbinette,
Hear her frow-frow through the halls,
Who says boys don't care for dolls?"

"Wisdom's self
Oft seeks so sweet retired solitude."
Anna won the D. A. R. medal. Congratulations.

BERRYMAN, CECIL, 1st Lieut. Band.

"His very foot has music in it as he comes up the stair."
Cecil is musical and possesses the soulful eyes and sweet smile of a true musician.

BECKETT, ALMA E., Elekades.

She is a tall and stately maiden with raven black hair. She is somewhat talented in both artistic and musical lines.

BLOOM, INEZ, M. F. S. (2-3-4).

"She was a maiden tall and fair,
With coils and masses of golden hair."
Inez is a shark at basket ball, and stands high in everything.

Chief decorator at the Senior Fair and a fervent admirer of his own handiwork. It is only a man with a name like his that can be both useful and ornamental at the same time.
BUSK, MYRTLE, M. F. S. (2-3-4).

"As merry as the day is long."

Myrtle is small and she loves to talk and then to talk some more; she is quite a conversationalist, in fact.

BUCK, DAVID, Webster (1-2-3).

"Melancholy
Sits on me as cloud along the sky."

BROWN, BERTHA, L. T. C. (1-2-3), Treas. (4),
Ger. Soc. (1-2-3-4), Treas.

We might make a pun about Bertha always being in a Brown study, but no, we will refrain. Suffice it to say she makes a good impression in her classes.

CHARLTON, ELIZABETH, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), Alumni Ed. (4).

"When she is sad she is very, very sad,
When she is gay she is witty."

Bess is the very embodiment of tears and laughter; now gay, now sad.

CARMICHAEL, BESSIE

"Be to her virtues very kind;
Be to her faults a little blind."

CARRUTHERS, ANNA, L. T. C. (1-2-3-4).

"Be silent and safe; silence never betrays you."

This is Anna's governing principle of life.

CATHROE, MAY

"She that was ever fair and never proud
Had tongue and heart at will and never loud."

CHAPMAN, MAMIE

This looks very sober, but Mamie is not ever thus; she frequently smiles, though she never talks much.
CHILSON, LENNA
Lenna is continually at sixes and sevens with herself, but she gets along comfortably with others, more especially those of the "opposite sex."

COOK, HELEN, L. T. C.
"She reads much,
She is a good observer."

CHRISTENSEN, HENRY, 2nd Lieut. Co. C.
"And still the wonder grew
That one small head should carry all he knew."

CONKLIN, CAROLINE, Secy. of A. A. (2), M. F. S. (1234).
"Ah, me! what hand can touch the strings so fine,
Who up the diapason roll
Such sweet, such sad, such solemn airs divine,
Then let them down again into the soul?"

COOK, MARY A.
Mary is one of these girls who is inclined to take a serious view of life; has several principles and lives up to them strictly.

COOPER, MILDRED
Her arrival is usually heralded by a laugh which is peculiar to Mildred only. She is clever, but never applies herself when she thinks it unnecessary.

COCKE, MARGUERITE, Ger. Soc.
"True happiness, if understood, Consists alone in doing good."
That is the secret of Marguerite’s cheerful and happy disposition.

COLL, JULIA, L. T. C.
She is indifferent to masculine charms and was never known to make any disturbances in the course of her High School career.
CUMMINS, FRED, Self-Reliance Club.
"There's such a charm in melancholy
I would not if I could be gay."
He possesses a deep voice and an intellectual expression.

CRAIG, L. VIRGINIA
"I do profess to be no less than I seem."

CURRY, RUTH, M. F. S. (4).
Ruth sees naught but the merry side of life and contributes her share to the general store of mirth.

CROCKER, FLORENCE
"It is tranquil people who accomplish much."

DAVIS, BESSIE, L. T. C., Ser. Arms (2-3-4), Sec. (3).
"Of manners gentle, of affection mild."

DAKE, MARIE, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).
"Silence is the perfectest joy; I were but little happy if I could say how much."

DAHLQUIST, CLARENCE, Webster (3-4), Lieut. Bugle Corps.
A child he seems in whom we find no guile. Let the picture speak for itself.

DALZELL, WILL
Will talks like a dictionary; more than that, he understands himself. He is always ready to argue, and is the delight of many a teacher's heart.
DEVALON, ESTHER, L. T. C. (1-2-3-4), Sec. (2), Pres. (3), Latin Ed. (4),

"She don't never get mad none."
Moreover she has a dimple that Will Dalzell anyone.

Dellecker, Rogene, M. F. S. (2-3-4).

"Her bright locks of sunny glow Adorned her brow of snow."
Say, girls, where's Irma?

Drennigan, Katherine, L. T. C., Sec. (4).

"Here's a sigh to those who love me,
And a smile to those who hate;
And whatever sky's above me,
Here's a heart for every fate."

Dolly is noted for his dimples and his athletic abilities; the latter have been less noticeable since the introduction of "anti-frat" care.

DROSTE, ELLA, German Soc. (1-2-3-4).

"Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low—an excellent thing in woman."

EGEN, THELKA, German Soc. (1-2-3-4).

She is speedy. Don't misunderstand—we refer to her manner of speech and walk only.

FAHS, MARY

Mary is inclined to look serious, but this is merely a disguise. Burke is her favorite author (?).

Finlayson, Joseph, 1st Lieut. and Adj., Battalion Ed.

"Vain pomp and glory of this world, I hate ye!"
Fink is very good to look at and as the poet says, "His eyes are songs without words." But alas! he fears the feminine!
FULLER, LORI HAWTHORNE (2-3-4), Pres. (4).
Lori is dainty and petite, takes a serious view of life, but that she may outgrow.

FOSTER, MILDRED, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), Sergt.-at-Arms (3).
"She hath a most winning manner and a sweet voice."
Mildred is mild, modest and musical, but by no means mulish.

GORDON, ELLEN
"'My tongue within my lips I rein,
For who talks much must talk in vain.'"

GOODRICH, HOWARD
He has an amiable disposition and wears a perpetual grin. Follows the desire of the moment regardless of consequences.

GRACE, MAY
"'Wisdom! I bless thy gentle sway
And ever, ever will obey.'"
May intends to put her wisdom to good use and teach the young idea how to shoot.

GOULD, BESS, M. F. S., (1-2-3-4), Vice Pres. (4), Sergt.-at-Arms of Class (3).
Bess is very artistic. She draws well—anywhere. She has no particular hobby, and usually takes things as they come.

GRAHAM, GEO. E., Sergt. Co. C. (3).
"'His reasons he spake ful solemnly.'"
At least so says Chanceer.

"'Low gurgling laughter as sweet
As the swallow's song i' the south.'"
A ladylike youth with a persistent giggle and a propensity for blushing.
GRAHAM, MABEL, Pleiades.

"A merry heart goes all the day." Mabel is an ambitious maiden and likes to please people.

GREENE, MAE, L. T. C. (1-2-3-4), Treas. (2).

Exceedingly shy; knows a great deal, but keeps it to herself for fear others will know as much.

"Who spoke no slander—no, nor listened to it."

Louis does not talk very often; when he does, what he says counts for a good deal.

GULGARD, FRANK, 1st Lieut. Co. E.

"He hath a wisdom that doth guide his valor to act in safety."

However, he doesn't often act, deeming it better to "let it alone."

HASKEN, ANNA

She is a nice, substantial maiden, lively and genial, with a smile for everyone.

HANDSCHUH, ALBERT, D. D. S. (3-4), German (1-2-3).

"To be happy is not the purpose for which you are placed in this world."

No relation to the packer; was largely responsible for E.'s winning the flag in 1905. She is greatly addicted to society "How-do-you-do."

GRiffin, JULIETTE, M. F. S., Dramatics (4).

"I was the heroine of the Senior play; I'm Juliette, Juliette."

She is a piquant personage, pretty and genial. Her friends never fail to do justice to her fudge.
HUNT, NELLIE, Pleiades.

"Every why has its wherefore."
Well, why? On all subjects has her own ideas, to which she holds tenaciously.

"An affable and courteous gentleman."
Has a most charming smile. As the star in the Senior play, Frank made a "big hit."

"She has a glowing heart, they say, Though calm her being seems."

HAYWARD, IDA

"It's good to be merry and wise, It's good to be honest and true."
That is Ida, every bit of it.

HOWELL, EUNICE

The masculine sex holds many charms for Eunice, who is usually surrounded by an admiring bunch. She is a frivolous young lady who turns her work off easily because she never does it.

HOWARD, HELEN

"Her look composed and steady eye Bespoke a matchless constancy."
To whom? Well, never mind.

HOLMES, LEOTA

"Her looks do argue her replete with modesty."

HOUSKA, MARIE, German (1-2-3-4).

"Auxilium non leve vultus habet," which, being translated, is, "A pleasing countenance is no slight advantage."
JONES, FLORENCE

"'Tis beauty truly blent whose red and white Nature's own sweet and cunning hand laid on.'"

Florence is exceedingly jolly and in for all the fun there is going.

Made her debut at the fair when her beautiful rendering of 'Ach de lieber Augustine' delighted her hearers. Very popular with the boys. None under six feet need apply.

JOHNSON, LEE

"What care I when I can lie and rest, Kill time and take life at its very best.'"

JOHNSON, MURIEL, M. F. S., Treas. (3).

"So fair in face, so warm in heart."

Muriel is a charter member of the M. F. S., and is always ready to perform any tasks placed upon her both in the society and out.

JETT, DANIEL

"He was a scholar and a ripe and good one.'"

Daniel once fell from his usual standard of A and received a B; has scarcely recovered.

JAQUITH, ELEANOR, M. F. S., Treas. (2), Girls' Basket Ball (2), Secy. Junior Class (3), Pres. Class (4), Senior Editor.

"Ne'er in this work day world was seen
A form so witching fair.'"

Eleanor has the distinction of being the first girl president of a class; 1907 is justly proud of its choice.

Utterly indifferent to anything save his own repose; recites with an aggrieved air (when he does recite).

JACOBSON, DELLA, M. F. S.

Della is especially strong along some lines, particularly the needlework department.
KING, ETHEL

"Early to school, Early away,
Makes Ethel happy, blithsome and gay."
But we don’t mean anything, of course.

KAVAN, WILL, Ger. (2), Webster (1).
Will became known for his nomination top in the Senior Class election. The cloquence he displayed was truly marvelous.

KOCHER, EMIL G., 2nd Lieut. Co. D.
"His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And say to the world: This is a man!"

KIEWIT, ETHEL, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).
"Blessed is she who hath a powerful friend."
Ethel is Miss Kiewit’s niece (fortunate mortal), and inherits her good qualities;
moreover, she is a M. F. S.

KLOPP, ADAH, Vice-Pres. Elaine (4).
Adah is a happy little girl, very accommodating and affable. Once wrote a story for the Register.

KELLER, HAROLD

"If he takes you in hand, sir, with an argument,
He’ll bray you in a mortar."
Is famous because he’s Doane’s brother. He is now at Annapolis.

KENNEDY, MARGARET, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), V.
Pres. (1), V. Pres. A. A. (2), Sec’t Reg.
Stock Co. (3), Class Ed. (2), Athletic Ed.
(3), Dramatics (4), Editor-in-Chief.
She hath supported athletics,
Hath had her lessons well prepared,
And many offices hath collected,
She with the auburn hair.

KELLER, DOANE

"And is a pipe delighteth."
Extremely fond of his teachers and Shakespeare’s plays.
KOHR, GERTRUDE

Her knowledge of history surpasseth understanding; she must be studious, for, considering her age, she could never have gleaned her knowledge from experience.

KREBBS, MABEL, M. F. S. (3).

One of those cheerful, light-hearted persons on whom no care, not even chemistry, weighs heavily. She is calm and not easily fussed.

LEWIS, ETHEL

Ethel is a Nut Browne Maide and also a very nice little girl, but a firm believer in woman’s rights.

LEVY, DOROTHY, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).

Sometimes known as Dorette. She has the matinee habit quite badly. Her beau ideal is a combination of Romeo and Raffles. Well-a.

LEWIS, ALBERT, 1st Sergt. Signal Corps.

A super-talkative, hard luck member, possessed of a never understood flow of language in recitation.

LETOVSKY, STANISLAV, Capt. Co. E, Director High School Orchestra.

‘‘Three-fifths of him genius, two-fifths sheer fudge.

Stanley is a musician whose aspirations and inspirations are bounded only by the infinite expanse of the ethereal regions.

First came into prominence when he was a Freshman and was used as the corpse of Julius Caesar in the Senior burlesque. He has notorious aspirations toward debating—and girls.

LEARY, MABEL

The ideal of Mabel’s dreams is a man like unto Aeneas; she dotes on Virgil; takes it as a recreation.
MASEK, MAMIE, Latin.

"Her eye was blue and calm as is the sky in the serenest noon."

Mamie appears as serene and calm as the quotation implies, and in addition her Latin translations are excellent.

"His own estimate must be measure enough for him."

He is occasionally seen playing "chauffeur" with his auto. Was a member of the Senior "troupe."

MONSKY, HENRY, Ger. S. Pres. (4).

When, in the course of human events, it became necessary for the Senior class to have a class meeting, Henry showed his parliamentary skill.

Deserves a tablet in the Hall of Fame for writing the dialogue of the Doll Show. Usually has an engagement in 101 1st hour.

"Blessed is she who has relatives amongst the faculty."

Rosina is Squib Editor of this renowned journal. You may judge of her proclivities and capabilities. Made famous by her dramatic rendering of "Under the Buggy Seat."

MILLS, IRENE, M. F. S.

Noted for her classical profile and her high Latin marks.

MOORE, FRANKLIN

"As sober as a judge."

He is a quiet and industrious man who never says anything unnecessary.

MASON, NANNIE

"She is pretty to walk with
And witty to talk with
And pleasant, too, to think on,"
McARTHY, EDMUND, 3rd Lieut. Co. C.
"A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays and confident tomorrows."
Edmund is an ex-member of the bachelors' union.

McCAGUE, ANNA, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), Treas. (1), Pres. (3).
Always calm, never in a hurry, but she gets there just the same, and among the first, too. Yes, she is one of the famous Mc'agues, and she has managed to live up to their reputation most beautifully.

McBRIDE, LOUISE, M. F. S.
"In framing artists, art has thus decreed
To make some good, but others to exceed."

McBRIDE, RUTH, Sponsor Hosp. Corps (3),
Vice-Pres. Class (3), V. F. M. F. S., (3).
As shown above Ruth has had her share of offices, but in case there are any more to spare, she would like a try at them. Yes, she is one of the three talcented McBrides, and she is the one who sings.

"A merrier man
I never spent an hour's talk withal."
Roger assumes a very aggrieved air if the exuberance of his spirits is restrained often. "Say, that's a keen stunt."

McCULLOUGH, ALICE, M. F. S. Sec. (2), Class Ed (3), Staff Artist (4).
"Shine out, fair sun, till I have bought a glass
That I may see my shadow as I pass."
Alice is very, very artistic, and holds down the chair of staff artist of the Register.

MCKELVY, RUSSELL, M. F. S.
A merry madcap maid whose specialty is broken bones—ankles, arms and hearts preferred.

MURPHY, RICHARD, Vice-Pres. Senior Class,
1st Lieut. Co. B.
"I care for nobody, no, not I,
If nobody cares for me."
Dick is a typical son of Erin, the genuine article, a bluff, straightforward fellow, who talks with a half-aggrieved air.
NEFF, MARION, Pleiades, Latin.

"Devoted, anxious, generous, void of guile,
And with her whole heart's welcome in her smile."

NELSON, ANNA

"Under all speech that is good for anything there lies a silence that is better. Silence is deep as eternity, speech is as time."

NORRIS, CORRIE LEE, M. F. S. (3-4.)

Her voice is too musical to describe. She hails from the "sunny south," but has attended the O. H. S. long enough to be liked by all who know her.

NELSON, MABEL, L. T. C., Ger.

She is quite a shark at Latin, can translate Virgil forty miles a minute.

OAKLEY, WAVE

Wave always gets her lessons and gets them cheerfully. She is seldom if ever seen without Gertrude Kohr.

O'LEARY, KATHERINE, L. T. C.

"O blest with temper whose unclouded ray
Can make tomorrow cheerful as today."

A jolly, good-natured girl, always ready for a good time, and thoroughly knows how to enjoy one.

PARSONS, HARRY, 1st Lieut. Co. A., Treas. C. O. C.

A flaxen-haired personage, languid and passive. Shows his military genius as first assistant to Ryan in Co. A.

PRALL, HELEN

"Of gentle hand and heart,
Averse to every active part."
PULS, EDITH, Ger. Soc., Vice-Pres. (4), Pleiades.
Tall and stately is this maiden. Her motto is, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

"Eyes 'iest looks like p'serves taste." Those same eyes look with favor upon Creighton College and Culver Military Academy.

"Thou sayest an undisputed thing In such a solemn way."
Joe "struts" through the halls like a peacock, his beautiful countenance marred by a bored expression.

RIEPEN, HELEN, Pleiades Ed.
Helen plays basket ball on occasions, and is known as a lover of Fair Women; perhaps because she is one of them.

Had the honor of being a sponsor before those articles were out of date. Her name has been the occasion of many a would-be joke. (See last year's Annual). She is also an actress of some fame.

ROE, MIRIAM
Miriam is a maiden who constantly undervalues her own worth, which is not small. She boasts of having kept peace with the faculty—she has done more—she has taken tea with some of them.

ROBERTS, ANNE, L. T. C. (1-2-3-4).
Anne is a prominent L. T. C. member, and, of course, is a nice girl; she combines the virtues of the L. T. C.

RIPPEY, JOHN, Lieut. Co. E., Tennis Champ. '06, '07.
"Gazing on the youth before us, we could but note the whiteness of his hair."
John is an industrious youth, an athletic one also.
SHERWOOD, FLORENCE, L. T. C. (1-2-3-4), V.
Pres. (3), Secy Class (4).

Since Florence represents the best elements in the O. H. S., we conclude that the crassness of her periphrasis has not rendered her impervious to the infiltration of new ideas.

SANBERG, EDITH

"What shall I say to you? What can I say Better than silence is?"

SWEET, LEWIS, Vice-Pres. C. O. C., Capt. Co. C.

"Behold the child by nature's kindly law, Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw."

Louis has survived the rough life of High for four years, and is still an unsophisticated youth.

SAUTER, MABLE, Ger. and L. T. C.

Did he seek her? Doe Senter did one day when Mable broke six test tubes in succession.

SWEET, ELIZABETH, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), Latin.

Sweet by name and by nature also.
Noted for her motherly air, contract'd in keeping Louis straight. "Why, Louie!"

SALMON, MABEL, Basket Ball (2-3-4), Capt.
(3).

As yet has kept peace with the faculty.
Basket ball is her pet stunt.

ROSENGREN, PAULINE, L. T. C., Sergt. (3),
Pres. (4), Latin Soc.

"Poet, esteem thy noble part,
Still listen, still record,
Sacred historian of the heart,
And moral nature's lord."

RYAN, HARRY E., Capt. Co. A, Gold Medal in

"You know I say just what I mean—Nothing more nor less."
SCHAUB, CATHERINE, Pleiades.
Catherine is a "shark" in German;
She once got 99 in a test. "Nuff said."

STAPLES, IRMA, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4).
"She is the fat one, I am the slim one."
That is Rogene and Irma—always together—never far apart.

SHELLER, FLORENCE
"A fig for care and a fig for woe!
Let the world slide, let the world go!"

SIMPSON, CLYDE V., 1st Lieut. Sig. Corps,
Ger. Soc.
"'Tis good in every case, you know,
To have two strings unto your bow."
Better yet, to have six, according to Clyde; that is his probation list for a sponsor.

SNELL, EDNA
Edna is a fair maiden who hails from Benson; however, we don't hold that up against her.

SCHRUM, WINFIELD, 2nd Lieut. Co. E.
"Men of few words are the best."
His true worth has never been fully appreciated, but we hope it will some day.

STARKEY, GOLDIE, L. T. C. (2-3-4).
"I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therein to be content."

SHAFFER, GRACE, Basket Ball (2-3), Pleiades Vice-Pres. (4).
"Be as kind and gracious unto me
As I am confident and kind to thee."
A well-liked member of the class, for she has a smile for everyone.
STROMBERG, MABEL, M. F. S. (2-3-4).

"And Franch she spak ful faire and fethysly,
After the scale of Stratford alte Bowe,
For Franch of Parys was to hire un knowe."

SUTHERLAND, JESSIE.

"I would study, I would know,
I would admire forever."

SWANSON, MAYME, L. T. C., Basket Ball (2).

A frivolous, happy-go-lucky maid, frequently seen talking to two or three boys, but always seen talking.

SWEENEY, RALPH, 1st. Lient. Co. D.

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

Can study for hours at a time and never know what he has been reading.

"Her cheeks are like the dawn of day."

Francis keeps the books for the M. F. S. and lives in the thriving metropolis of Florence. To these distinctions she owes her fame.

THOMAS, ROWLAND, Lieut. Band, C. O. C.

Prom. Com.

"Now crack thy lungs and split thy brazen pipe."

Plays (?) a horn in the band. Explanation of musical strains occasionally heard when band is practicing.

TALBOT, MABLE

Yes, she is Talbot not a bit too tall. They say she is fond of Fort Omaha, and intends to study "wig-wagging."
THOMSETT, RUTH, Pleiades.

"I'll be merry and free; I'll be sad for nobody."
Ruth has a happy disposition and an artistic ability of no mean quality.

THOMPSON, MAYONE, Browning (1-2).

"When you do dance I wish you a wave o' the sea that you might ever do nothing but that."

UNITT, DORA E.

"Let other bards of angels sing, Bright suns without a spot; But thou art no such perfect thing; Rejoice that thou art not."

VAN CURA, Otto, Ser. Co. B.

A studious boy who is an authority on chemistry. He is quiet and clever, the joy of his teachers' hearts.

VAHLCAMP, VIOLA

She seems to have a joyful sense of her blessings and looks on the bright circumstances of her lot. She appears perpetually contented.

"Oh, fie upon this single life; forgo it!"
Although as first lieutenant quartermaster, he has an office of his own, he can usually be found in the Register room.

WOTAWA, EDWARD, Capt. Co. B, Silver Medal; Orchestra.

A solemn visaged youth, whose silent reserve suggests awful possibilities. When wearing his glasses he assumes an intellectual expression.

WALKER, VERA, M. F. S. (1).

"Her very frowns are fairer far Than smiles of other maidens are."
WHITE, HARRY, 2nd Lieut. Co. A.

"I well believe thou wilt not utter what thou dost not know, And so far will I trust thee."

WOLFE, META

Yes, we could pun but we won't this time; Meta is given to very becoming blushes, and we wouldn't wish to cause one.

WOOLVERTON, THERON, Vice-Pres. Webster, Treas. Latin (3), 1st Lieut. and Commissary.

Theron left High for Lincoln in February, but the climate of that burgh didn't agree with him; he came back in less than ten days. Anyhow, the girls are much nicer here.

WILLIAMS, ETTA

"That of hire smyling was ful symple and coy."

WOLFE, EDNA

Edna pursues the tenor of her school career with a serious air; this she carries ever about her.

WARD, GRACE

"The man that blushes is not quite a brute."

So also with a girl. Grace is an adept in the art, if art it be.

WATKINS, ELMA

"Life is real, life is earnest."

And with this thought ever present, has Elma pursued her course at High.

WELSH, JOHN, Sec. and Treas. Webster (2), Sergt. Co. A. (3), Senior Hop (4)

"My hosiery, my hosiery, The cash I spend on thee!"

Jack is a fastidious youth, noted for the idiosyncracies of his socks.
WOOLEY, FREEDA, Secy. Latin Soc.

"And e'en her failings leaned to virtue's side."

Freeda is a "hero worshipper," only her "heroes" are usually of the fair sex.

ZABEL, FRANCIS

"A pretty girl and proper, too."

At least we have never heard anything improper of her, for which she should be thankful.

YODER, RUTH, M. F. S. (1-2-3-4), Pres. (1).

"Lovelier than the rose so red."

Noted for her creamy fudge and her admiration of cowboys; the wilder and woollier, the better.

ERNST, PAUL

"Wisely and slow
They stumble that run fast."

HOLMES, EUNICE

Eunice had a write-up last year by some mistake, and it hardly seems fair to give her another.

LONG, RUFUS

"What's in a name?"

Without a doubt Rufus would be just as "long" as he is, be his name what it might.
ANDERSON, SAMUEL

"Let none presume to wear an undeserved dignity."
He refused a lieutenantcy because he wanted the practical experience of the hospital corps.

ARMS, HARRY

"Arma virum quae amo."
Anyhow, we hope he is a hero, or will be some day.

AYER, WELCOME

"I like the camp.
I love its noise and stiff parade."
Welcome hails from Fort Crook, and therefore is quite military.

BUCK, MYRON, 1st Sgtg. Co. E. (3), Basket Ball (3).
"Ye who dwell at home, ye do not know the terrors of the main."
Myron left our ranks this spring for Annapolis. We wish him luck.

BUSCH, ALBERT

Albert learns all his lessons by heart, and then forgets the important parts.

CARSON, EDITH, M. F. S.

"Her raven curls have broken hearts in envious girls."

CLOSE, ESTHER

"I deny, sir, that my name describes me!"

CRAIG, GRACE

American history is Grace’s long suit. Her hero is George Washington, because he was so fond of the ladies.

CRAIG, ROBERT

"It is sometimes expedient to forget what you know."
At least one would infer Robert thinks so from his occasional recitations.

CONLEY, ARCHIE

"Knows what he knows as if he knew it not; What he remembers seems to have forgot."

DAVIS, ALICE

"I am an observer of nature and humanity."
Which accounts for her somewhat serious aspect.

DEVITTE, IRENE

"Her sunny locks
Hang on her temples like a golden fleece."

EDLING, MAMIE

Mamie is taking the normal course, and intends to pursue the gentle art of pedagogy.

EDSON, JESSIE

Jessie is a quiet girl who always wears a sweet smile for her friends. She does not say much, but never mind.

EDWARDS, WINIFRED

Winifred is a pretty girl; she eats little, sleeps little and talks less.

ELLER, IDA

Ida is independent and often gets into scrapes, but it doesn’t phase her, for she skates like a dream.

ELSasser, BERTHA

Bertha has frequently been mistaken for Margaret because of her hair.

GOLDSTEIN, ROSE

"Black was her hair as any blackbird’s feather."

GROBECK, MARTIN R.

Martin is a sunny-faced lad, much freckled. He hides his good nature behind a stoical expression.

HAARMAN, AUGUST

"I am the very slave of circumstances."

HAMEL, RENA

"There can no fault be found with her manner or her sentiments."

HARING, MARY

"Debted in personage, conduct and equipment."

HUDSPETH, HELEN, Basket Ball (3-4).

Helen is a star basket ball player, having won quite a reputation in that art.

HUTTON, SADIE

"The seasons all had charms for her—she welcomed each with joy;
The charm that in her spirit lived
No changes could destroy."

JAMIESON, LAURELLA

Laurella is very fond of girls and quite charitable to the opposite sex.

JOHNSON, FRANK, Football (3-4), Basket Ball (4).

Frank is a hero of the gridiron and a marvelous basket ball player. Is always ready to receive a ball, but shys at English questions.

JULYAN, NELLIE

"Be brief, for it is with words as with sunbeams—the more condensed they are the deeper they burn."

KENDIS, CHARLES

"Looked unuttered things."
"Can’t go to sleep at night until his hair is parted and brushed."

LESTER, GRACE

"The deepest rivers make least din,
The silent soul doth most abound in care."

MATTSON, ALFRED

"Thirty days hath September,
April, June and Alfred Mattson."
A handsome youth, successful in all things but those pertaining to study. The fair sex can scarce withstand his grace and expert skating.

McMASTER, JEAN

"A girl who is not afraid to say her say Though the whole town’s against her."
McNAMARA, JOHN
"I pity bashful men who feel the pain
Of fancied scorn and undeserved disdain."]

MILLER, AMY
"Sweet are the thoughts that savory of content,
The quiet mind is richer than a crown."]

PEBRIN, VERA
"Give thy thoughts no tongue."]

PETERSON, HILDA
"When the heart is light with hope,
All pleasures, nothing comes amiss."]

PHALEN, MAUD
This is another instance in which we Could pun; we refrain, since Gennings says
"Truth is better than punning."

PICKETT, LESLIE
"You Cassius hath a lean and hungry look;
He thinks too much."]

They say Pa Drouke is after Less as a
Fielder for his 1910 team.

RENCH, CARL
"Blessings on him who first invented sleep."]

Carl once aroused himself from his Lethargy and wrote an article for the Register which would have made him famous if it had been interpreted."]

RUSNER, ANNA
"I am sure care's an enemy to life."]

Therefore Anna always is happy and gay.

SCHUDACK, CLARA, Ger. Soc.
Clara has a very good alto voice which stands the German Society in good stead. They claim they couldn't continue without her.

SEAY, RUTH, English A, History A, Latin A, Reviews A.
"Nuff said.

SEIHOE, LILLIE
Lillie works hard, but retains her cheerfulness, notwithstanding.

SHIVERICK, ROBERT
"We grant, although he had much wit,
He was very shy of using it;
As being loth to wear it out,
And therefore bore it not about."]

SHORT, MABLE
Her name doth well become her, but permit us to add a word—she is short and sweet.

SNYDER, WILLIAM
"He was a good man and a just."]

THOMPSON, LUCY
A gay-looking brunette who enjoys life at its fullest. Furthermore, she comes from that good state, South Dakota.

TWADDELL, GEORGIA
"The most profitable and praiseworthy
Genius in the world is untiring industry."]

WATSON, WILHELMINA
"I hate nobody; I am in charity with the world."]

WAYNE, FRANK
As sleek and contented looking a cherub as can generally be found. He has a very pleasing and captivating smile.

WEISE, LESTER
"I know thee for a man of many thoughts."]

WILLSON, LEOTA
"Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well."]

Freshman.

S OFTEN HAPPENS, this year's Freshman class is of "unusual promise" and expects to be heard of in the next year or so. For Freshmen they have already done unusually well. In the class contest for the Lincoln statue fund they, under the leadership of Isaac Carpenter, came in a close second to the Sophomores. During the football season several Freshmen went out for practice and practiced faithfully, and they expect to aid materially toward a successful team next fall.
Of the Freshmen, Warren, Howard and Ray McWhinney made the team, Howard at end and half, McWhinney at center. Edward Burdick played forward on the basketball team and did very praiseworthy work at goal throwing. In the tennis tournament last fall Hugh Charlton and Kenneth Hatch were runners-up in the doubles. The class is represented on the Register staff by Jasmine Sherraden and Leon Nelson, who are both proficient in the art of dealing out Registers. The class of 1910 has done well. May they continue in their path of glory.
The Junior Class.

Vice President,
Grace McBride.

Secretary,
Louise Northrup.

Treasurer,
Sam Reynolds.

Sergeant-at-Arms,
Merle Howard.

Lucile Patterson.

Teacher,
Mr. Woolery.

President, Ralph Doud.

The Junior Class! The boys are foremost in football, basketball and baseball. The Juniors not only provide members for their own teams, but help constitute High School teams.

The Junior boys are victors in the field. The captain of the High School football team, Merle Howard, is a Junior and he is followed by six other strong players of '08—Standeven, W. Prentiss, F. Latenser, C. Nagle, E. Clark, H. Smith. Why does a Junior hold that most prominent office? Because he is superior to his higher class men. There are four Junior representatives on the basketball team and four on the baseball. It is known widespread that the O. H. S. baseball team is one of the best in the state. Are we not exceptionally well represented?

Last year our boys won the championship of the indoor track meet in the inter-class athletic contest. The athletic carnival has not yet taken place, but there are about thirty Juniors already out for the track meet. Tom McKell, a well known Junior, is in great form and will probably win the medal for the best all around athlete in High, and perhaps in the Lincoln and Bellevue meets.

Although our glory is not in debating, we are able to keep up with our fellow students. In March the Ciceronians, a strictly Junior society, debated with South Omaha, and although the opponent proved the stronger, we feel sure that by next year this society will furnish such debaters as can not be beaten by any High School.

On November 19 the class organized and after an exciting struggle the above officers were elected to represent this unsurpassed class. Maroon and white were later chosen as the class colors.

The campus is soon to be beautified by placing a Lincoln statue in the southeast triangle. The High School and Omaha people are fascinated with the idea, but we, the Juniors, have better grounds for our pride than any one, for the idea was suggested by our class teacher, Mr. Woolery.

The Priscilla Alden and Browning Societies include the majority of the Junior girls. The two societies have advanced wonderfully in these three years of the High School and show remarkable talent in the literary line.

If you, while glancing over this page, have been impressed by our exceptional success we feel sure you will envy every member of this loyal class of 1908.

The Supplementary Class

Successful learning

in deans of the class is not only a result of the students' individual efforts, but also a product of the class atmosphere.

The main goals of the class are:

1. To achieve a high level of understanding for the material covered in class.

2. To encourage students to ask questions and participate actively in class discussions.

3. To promote a sense of community and cooperation among students.

4. To develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills.

The class atmosphere is characterized by:

- A positive and supportive environment.
- Active participation from all students.
- Regular feedback from the teacher.
- Opportunities for individual and group projects.

In order to achieve these goals,

students are encouraged to:

- Attend all classes regularly.
- Prepare for class by reading the assigned readings.
- Participate in class discussions and activities.
- Seek help from the teacher or peers when needed.

The success of the class depends on the efforts of all students.

If into your possession this book shall chance to fall,
You will learn the Seniors’ history, present, future, past and all.

How four long years ago to this great school they came.
Their struggles and their triumphs, their wisdom and their fame.

They didn’t make the blunders that the Freshmen now disclose;
Or did they, like the Soph’mores, ever walk with upturned nose.

As Juniors they were wiser than any heretofore;
And their glorious fame as Seniors has spread from shore to shore.

They survived Miss Paxson’s study room; likewise her icy glare.
Miss Rooney’s never caught them running up or down the stair.

They translated Greek and Latin with such scholastic art,
That they won a “cosy corner” in Miss Snyder’s tender heart.

Mr. Woolery’s wholesome smile grew broader every day,
’Twas due to Seniors’ knowledge in solid geometry.

They were experts in debating, but what else could they be,
And they taught all other High Schools how to “twenty-three.”

In chemistry, experiments were done with greatest skill,
Of acids and of bases they all got their fill.

They displayed such skill and courage as one scarcely ever sees,
When their flag from off a spire they floated in the breeze.

They revealed especial genius in a feature called the “Fair,”
This needs no explanation, for of course you all were there.

The time and space are far too short to sing with rightful praise,
Due tribute to each Senior here, who now upon you’ll gaze.

But ever may the setting sun and heaven’s tender blue,
Nineteen hundred seven’s class again recall to you.

R. Y., ’07.

Four Things.

Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true;
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellow men sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and Heaven securely.

—Henry Van Dyke.
The work in our literary societies for the past year has truly been a successful one. Taken as a whole the society work has perhaps been the best this year that it has ever been, and it should be a matter of great pride to us to consider it in that light. Professor Woolery, the head of the literary society work, has said: "More pupils have taken active part in society work than ever before. Society enthusiasm has been especially marked during the year, with large membership; in most of the societies excellent programs are prepared and produced by the society members themselves, and in general the societies have had a successful year."

Certainly had any visitor happened to stray into the High School on "Society Day" and, being of rather bold and daring nature, decided to push open the door of a room where any one of the boys' societies meets, he would have been greeted by a program which would have surprised as well as pleased him as his ears met with the bold, clear notes of some excellent debater or heard the polished, even voice of some gifted orator, rivaling even Cicero in his spirited discussion of the vital topics of today. Or had he, on the other hand, wandered into the sacred meeting place of a girls' society he would have met with a program plainly rivaling the other in excellence. He might have stood at the door listening to some recitation, original story, essay, or poem. Or had he been still more lucky he might have heard the soft strains of a violin or the interesting number of some society "paper," such as the "Browning Oracle" or the "Puritan Chronicle." Or perhaps he would have happens upon a program devoted to some special subject, for many of the programs have had some special theme to which all the numbers have pertained. For instance there have been non-sense programs and very literary ones, comical programs and serious ones, and even some have been miniature plays. Or if the stranger had come on a Wednesday he might have visited the German Society and have been interested in the program, especially if he understands and speaks "Der Deutscher." Still another very worthy society might he have visited on some Friday alternate from the regular "Society Friday," the Latin Society, where the ancient customs of the ancient Romans are studied. This society, by the way, ranks among the first of its kind to be founded and also in the excellence with which it is carried on.

But let us seriously consider for just a moment the good which we have derived from these societies. Do we not find at least some benefit which we have received from the work of the year? For one thing we have had training in the art of speaking and expressing our thoughts before other people. It is a part of our education to be able to stand up, look a company of people in the face and express our thoughts clearly and well. The society work has helped at least a few of us to gain a little more ease in this line. Then, too, we have had a little profitable practice in writing poems, essays, stories and the like, and in this way, too, we have been helped.

So let us be thankful for the good times and the work in our societies this year, and let us make up our minds for the future to "push" the work harder than ever before.

N. C., '88.
ALTHOUGH the Purple and White does not have quite as many victories to boast of this year as usual, they have a standard for the good, clean, never-give-up sort of athletics that is not equaled by any other school in the state or perhaps the United States. An era of miscalculated circumstances seemed to have reached the old O. H. S. this year. In football we had three different coaches; in basket ball no gymnasium to play our home games in; while the baseball and track teams up to date lack that incidental but most necessary thing in all forms of athletics—MONEY.

But nevertheless in spite of all discouragements the High School of 1908 will start the year with the brightest prospects that it has had for years. For from football, baseball and basket ball teams we lose but one man, while from the track team we will not lose a single man unless it is our mile runner. Does this not show that all our efforts are not in vain?

Let us look for a moment at the football team. At the beginning of the season we defeated the supposedly second Creighton team, but this team included five of the first eleven’s stars. Yet in winning this game we paid a dear price, for Claude Neavles, one of our heaviest and most reliable men, was disabled so badly that he was unable to play any more for this season. We next defeated Nebraska City, but in so doing we lost Harris, our left half, on account of injuries. Hard luck was not satisfied with this, but had to take Paxton, our strongest line man, from us after the Harlan game. So ill fate followed us till the end of the season, taking with it not only those mentioned but also Koran and Howard, our ends. The climax was reached when we played South Omaha with five substitutes in the lineup and held the southerners to 5 to 0. The followers of the Purple and White have this fact to glory in—their team played every game scheduled, with all the odds imaginable staring them in the face, without a moment of hesitancy, and with this one thought in view, to fight for the old O. H. S. as long as they were able to stand in their places. The members of the team are as follows:

Left End—Howard (captain). Right End—Koran, W. Howard.
Left Guard—Latenser. Left Half—Harris, Prentiss.
Center—McWhinney. Full Back—Johnson.
Right Tackle—Neavles, Clark.
Subs—Sears, Standeven, Smith and Carpenter.

As far as basket ball is concerned we need to say little, because all who saw the team play recognized at once that the team was one that the High School should be justly proud of. Our percentage in winning games was very good, for we lost but one game, the first with Lincoln. We administered defeat to the South Omaha team, which team had been defeated but once before. The only reason that the O. H. S. did not hold the basketball championship of the state was that they had no gymnasium in which to establish their prowess. This trouble will all be done away with next year, so you can look for the 1908 basketball championship of Nebraska and Iowa, under the protection of the Purple and White. The members of this year's team are:

K. F.—Burick.
R. G.—Nagle.
L. F.—Arnstein.

Subs—Kiewit, Howard, Sweely.

Baseball in the High School has started out the most promising of any form of athletics this year, unless it is the track team. During the last of March the baseball squad elected John Mc намara captain for this year. Under his leadership the team has developed into a fast, hard hitting, run gathering bunch that is formidable to any team in their class and dangerous to the next higher class. In their first game with the Fort Omaha soldiers they defeated them to the tune of 6 to 4, getting ten or eleven hits to the soldiers' four. On Saturday, April 27, they defeated the strong team of the Iowa nutes by the score of 15 to 10. The grass diamond was chiefly responsible for the mates' runs, as Adams held them to only four hits, while the High School knocked two pitchers out of the box and had the third very badly scared. We certainly wish the team the greatest success possible and urge them to keep up the good work so encouragingly begun. The lineup Saturday was as follows:

S. S.—McKinney.
P.—Adams.
L. F.—Howard.
1st B.—Prentiss.
2nd B.—McWhinney.
3rd B.—McNamara (captain).
C. F.—Arnstein.
C.—Nagle, Burick.
R. F.—Rogers.
P.—Craig, Lange, Brown, Gohering, Travis.

The track team as yet has not elected its captain, but each class captain is working to get his squad of men, and all feel cheerful concerning their chances on May 3rd. After this meet the team to represent the O. H. S. will probably be picked to go to Lincoln on May 17. That this team will be heard from is assured because of the showing made by the various classes in the recent preliminary meet on or near the campus.

So let us not knock, but boost the athletics of High School and always remember the well known yell:

Purple and White.
Purple and White.
We're from Omaha,
We're all right.
0-M-A-HA-HIGH-SCHOOL.

FOOTBALL TEAM.

BASKETBALL TEAM.

AFTER THE GAME—JOHNSON AND HOWARD.
The Senior Fair.

GOLDEN afternoon, a perfect moonlight night, streams of gaily-dressed girls and boys with voices happy and expectant, men and women, too, with pockets full and faces eager, crowded cars that empty their burdens at the foot of Capitol Hill, all faces turned in one direction.

Within, lights, music and the sound of merry voices, troops of Senior girls in gay colors and an immense throng of friends and patrons.

The background for this gay picture is our familiar corridors, transformed into a fairy scene, the white walls festooned with thousands and thousands of blue corn flowers, with golden centers, the colors of the classes; the stairs carpeted with rugs and decorated with pillows; candy stalls with arched canopies of cardinal red, striking a note of contrast.

Those who are so inclined, and there are many, approach the candy booths, where more than the candy attracts them, for fair girls stand ready to serve “Every-day,” “Saturday” or “Once-a-Year” candy, and even Century candy it must be, for there near the booth stand George and Martha Washington to herald its fame.

“George and Martha came to town,
Dressed themselves up dandy,
Just to see the Senior Fair
And buy some home-made candy,
Dave O’Brien’s chocolate’s good,
Balduff’s chips are snappy;
Buy the kind that they sell here
And make your girl quite happy.
Here are fudges rich and brown,
Fifty cents a pound, sir;
Here’s pinoche clear and sweet,
The finest ever found, sir;
Buy a pound for your best girl,
She will ne’er forget it;
She’ll wear the smile that won’t come off
After she has ‘et it.”

Others of a less frivolous nature approached the tables on which were staid-looking gingham aprons or beautiful opera bags. The boys buy both for mother or—some one else.

The office containing the art booth is filled both afternoon and evening, not an unwonted condition for the office at any time. The display of these wonderful posters did much to increase the outside interest and appreciation of our school. But the postal card views of the High School are especially appropriate for the art booth, for they are drawing cards indeed.

The wings of the Winged Victory across the hall shelter a recess, where are served ices and cake by pretty and gracious girls, many customers feasting, for the most part, on the latter.

The north end of the hall is very attractive, and the class spirit is shown in pennants of all sorts and sizes. Again the strolling singers hail the passing throng:

“Let us rally round the pennants
Buy one of every kind;
Here are blue and gold and purple,
Every one you’d like to find.”

Probably more questions were asked at this booth than at any other, and the dialogue carried on was invariably the same. “This costs one dollar.” “Who made it?” Answer apparently not satisfactory. “That one costs one dollar and a half.” “Who made it?” Answer again apparently not satisfactory. “This one costs three dollars.” “Who made it?” Answer apparently completely satisfactory, for the pennant is borne off by him without a word or a look to see the colors or to what class his precious treasure belongs.

Strains of music are heard, and the crowd divides, some going into the library to the musical furnished by the talent of the Senior class; this is one of the finest parts of the whole fair, and one most worthy of appreciation, and it was proved that our musical talent is truly wonderful.

The other division of the crowd hastened to the second floor to see the much-talked-of play, but when they reached the upper floor they were convinced by the number of people there that there were “unexpected guests” outside as well as inside. But a “play for ten was a play for twelve” many times over and there was no question among the waiting crowd of “Who should take in who?” but they all rushed in pell-mell to find any seats they could. The play was a grand success, and much honor is due to the good work of those who took part in it. As the people come out from the play, the most delicious punch, served by Japanese maidens, awaits them.

Vigorous players again scatter the crowd and wait some gently to the north end of the building, where anyone who wished could see a freeze-out by being shown carbon dioxide at its freezing point, all for a nickel.

Some visit the gypsy wagons, where the future is enrolled to them, and this alone would have brought many to the fair.

The greater crowd of the people, however, are on the first floor again, and no one can resist the persuasive calls of the players, who, with white sweaters and blacked hands and faces, beg you “to be sure and not miss the ‘Sweet’ doll.” But inside the wonder was greatest, for the old Dutch woman with her strong accent and bewitching (?) spectacles entertained the delighted audience from the minute the little girl with her “lithp” and laugh admired the French doll, who threw kisses out into the audience regardless of where they fell, and the Dutch dolls floated over the dikes in their wooden shoes and danced, while Buster Brown tried his best to press the strings which “would not work until he foundt he was smart no more.” But Tige was there in all his glory and in his muzzle, which was obtained especially for the performance, at which the mayor was. We can account for the mayor’s presence only by the fact that he is a “Dahl”-man himself. The Jap doll danced across the stage, followed by shrieks of laughter, while the Willie boys and the top were greater puzzles than the Sphinx, and, lastly, the rag doll won the sympathy of all the audience by their constant fear that she would fall limp from her chair. None of the toys were broken, although the tin soldier fell off his platform, and the Jack-in-the-Box bumped up the lid of his box with a vigor that almost broke his crown. So this unique feature of the fair ended in laughter and mystery as to where these great life-size dolls had been found. Little did they know that the so-called dolls were munching chocolates in the green room while not engaged in throwing kisses and dancing. The people at last wended their way homeward, weary, with empty purses, but amply repaid for any injury done to their hats or purses.

No one looked on the dark side of things that night, except, indeed, for the few minutes that the lights went out. As the people went from one place to another, all marveled at the smoothness with which everything was done, and the common question was, “Whose is the hand that guides this class?” The enthusiastic answer always was, “Our president, Eleanor Jaquith, is the ‘power on the throne.’”

The lights are out, the halls deserted, and all is silent. When we return there will be little sign of the gayety of the Senior Fair, except perhaps the rolling up of rugs and the piling up of sofa cushions. But the devotion which all seniors have for the fair is shown by the great willingness with which they leave their class rooms to help in any way they can on “the day after.”

Battalion.

As one glances over the work of our battalion during the year about to end, one cannot help but pronounce it most successful, and especially such is the case when one pauses to consider the difficulties under which we have been laboring. First, there was the trouble in selecting officers to command the five hundred, then five weeks during which the officers had to direct our progress without the guiding hand of a commandant. Last year, under the supervision of Captain Stogsdall, the cadets held the most successful camp in their history. We venture to say there is not a boy in the ranks that did not personally feel the loss of Captain Stogsdall, who, during the three years he was in command, greatly raised the standard of our battalion and gave it the reputation it now has—known throughout the middle west.

It is true during the short period in which we were without a commandant the discipline fell off somewhat, but our present commander, Captain Welsh, took hold of affairs in an admirable manner, instantly setting matters aright and creating a great interest in the drill, so that now many boys look forward with anticipation to the short semi-weekly hour of drill. All battalion formations and ceremonies have been gone through, and it is expected that by the first of June the cadets will be proficient in all movements.

The Cadet Officers' Club, composed of the commissioned officers, met early in the fall and chose the following officers: President, Carrol Burkhart; Vice President, Louis Sweet; Secretary, George Graham; Treasurer, Harry Parsons; Sergeant-at-Arms, Arthur Wakeley. The club, with the aid of Captain Welsh, has about perfected the plans of the annual encampment, which it is now thought will be held at Ashland from June 3rd to the 8th, inclusive. The difference in railroad rates since the new state legislation will probably necessitate the payment of something over three dollars from each of at least three hundred cadets for the whole trip, but the committee is doing all in their power to keep expenses down.

The annual competitive drill is to be held Tuesday, June 11th, at the Creighton Field, as usual. As all of the companies have shown about equal proficiency in the manual, great interest is manifested in "compet." and "bets are about even."

As yet no sponsors have been announced, but let us hope that some will soon be forthcoming. Better late than never. A new flag has been ordered and is expected to arrive soon. Which company will be the first to put a silver plate around the staff? Here's to the best one. May it win!

"That," replied the courier, "is the Roman legions filing through the Alps."

THE place to get your spring suit is from the tailor where you get the most value.

THE Nicoll System—because of careful, close purchases, a thorough study of styles throughout the country—means the greatest value to you.

WE have just made some model coats from the advance style information which we have just received.

WE want you to come in and see them—for they represent the proper styles for spring.

THE coat this year is more becoming even than last year. It's of a good sensible length, and fits the body somewhat closely. There are some new ideas in the cut of the collar and the cuffs.

SOME new fabrics have just arrived and the showing is at its best. Some of the fabrics are in single patterns, so why not see them today—tomorrow the pattern you would like best may be gone.

COME in if only to see the new models—you will be welcome whether you buy or not.

No college man wants to be ridiculous in his dress.

He would be, however, if half the pictures of so-called "College Clothes" that are advertised were true to life.

But he must have style, and he and his fellows go a long way toward setting the styles for young men.

It is up to us to follow his lead and the student who gets his clothing of Browning, King & Co. is sure to be, in the matter of dress at least, at the head of his class.

It is up to us to follow his lead, and everything else in furnishings of the most tasteful selection.
