Words are as dust that is blown by every wind, but works performed with love and loyalty will be remembered.

To this test of time and memory we leave this O-Book --- a book which is more than the bound pages of printed material and pictures, which is an epic of a great school and its life written through four short years by the class of 1924.

It is not the work of one or two, it is the product of the willing and unselfish service and talent of many.

The Editor
Dedication

To Vice Principal E. E. McMillan
With
Admiration for his inspiring achievements
With
Appreciation for the service he has rendered Central High School
With
True conception of the strong personality which has won our hearts and uplifted our ideals
With
Congratulations extended by the whole school and a wish that success may accompany him in the new responsibility with which he has been honored
In high Esteem and True Friendship
We Dedicate this Annual
In Appreciation of the Faculty

By the Class of 1924

And so we go, but them we leave behind
Whom four fair years have taught us to esteem
And love as of our number. They, it is,
Who make our steps less light on these last days
At Central, for one lesson we have learned
In these four, joyous years, and that more rich,
More sweet, more fraught with gladness than the rest
That they have taught, and it in substance is Companionship with those who are our friends,
Pilots, and inspiration, the dear bonds
That bind us to what was and what shall be
In our loved school. They are the part of us
Who will keep ever fresh within our minds
The thought of Central. And, tomorrow, say,
If haply you or I return to halls
No longer by our fellow students graced,
Yet shall we hope to feel the welcoming eyes
Of them, our Faculty, look into ours.
With hearty handshake Mr. Masters then
Will greet us back, and Mr. Woolery
With kindly words will meet us. Dr. Senter,
Meeting with twinkling eyes our glad return,
Will stay his work for us, and our Miss Towne,
Never too busy with her busy life
To be our friend or counsellor, shall pause
And chat a moment. And Miss Taylor, too,
Even as of old within the little room
Which oft' we visited shall lift her head
And smile up at the opening of the door.
And some there'll be as he, our dean of boys,
Mr. McMillan, who has gone from here,
Whom we will miss and seek apart. And so
We might pass musingly from name to name,
For each of you, dear Faculty, is loved,
Honored, idealized, by some of us
Above all others. Nor will we forget
The tireless efforts you have spent, the time,
The worry, the encouraging interest
In what we did—nor will we these forget,
Nor that you were our comrades to the end.

—Charlotte Root ‘24
The splendid working organization of Central high is due to the efforts of the Administration staff consisting of Mr. J. H. Beveridge, superintendent of the Omaha Public Schools, Mr. J. G. Masters, principal, Mr. E. E. McMillan, and Mr. J. F. Woolery, vice-principals of Central high.

Mr. Beveridge has always displayed an active interest in Central and is ready to lend a helping hand whenever it is necessary. Mr. Masters has contributed to the building and strengthening of the school not only in scholarship, but also in athletics and every other activity in which Central is engaged. Through his influence the National and Junior Honor Societies were organized and the school has been able to enter in district and state scholarship, music, debate, dramatic and athletic contests. In a like manner Mr. McMillan and Mr. Woolery have done their share in strengthening and directing Central.
THE newly entering freshman student, unused to the complexity of the day's program at Central, and the senior, learned in the lore of high school life, has each his own conception and appreciation of the work of that active group, the deans. Fundamentally, they are Central's advisers. But the work of Miss Jessie M. Towne, dean of girls, of Mr. E. E. McMillan, dean of boys, and of Dr. H. A. Senter, dean of the faculty, is far more than that of a mere advisory board.

Miss Towne administers scholarship funds, looks after failures among the girls, and gathers statistics about the students. In order to be in closer touch with the incoming freshmen girls, she plans to meet them all in small groups.

Mr. McMillan advises the boys, assists Mr. Gulgard in looking after the interests of the Regiment, and helps in the making of preparations for camp.

Dr. Senter has complete charge of all supplies in the school, manages the bookroom, and looks after lockers. He has kept a valuable record of the achievements of Central from an early date in his collection of all the annuals and Registers of past years, and in a book of clippings concerning Central students.

The great wheels turn, the roaring engine throbs,
The mighty mechanism heaves and sobs;
Unseeming is the power that controls
And welds the destinies of youthful souls,
But unobtrusive back behind it all,
Watchful ever lest one belt shall fall,
Lest screws untwist, or wheels cease their revolving.
Observing close, all puzzling problems solving.
The engineer, to him who guards and helps, we owe
More boundless debts than he shall ever guess or know.

HAVING banqueted upon Latin and Greek, having feasted upon French and Spanish, the student invariably returns for a cool, refreshing draught at the fountain of his own beloved language.

The Central high school English department, progressive in its division into constructive and literary courses, is a thing of pride even as they who have made it what it is.

Under the supervision of Miss Sara Vore Taylor, head of the Department of Constructive English, a class in Advanced English Composition was formed last semester. The purpose of the class is to develop self-expression and self-criticism among students who have exceptional ability in writing.

A lecture course in English VIII for the purpose of better preparing students for college has been worked out by Miss Jessie M. Towne, head of the Department of English Literature. Miss Zora Shields, librarian, has helped to systematize the work of the English VIII classes by compiling a complete bibliography of all the material in the school library pertaining to the history of English literature.

The students, too, have done their part. In the state scholarship contest held at Lincoln, Olive Williams, Lester Lapidus and Gladys Reynolds represented Central in advanced English composition; Kenneth Abbott, Leoline Clarke, and Charlotte Root in English literature; and Neva Hefflin, Gertrude Marsh and Maxine Boord in Freshman composition.

Truly, these are but the signs of the growth that will enable Central to pour her steady stream into the waters of the crystal fountain.

Approximately 2,200 students studied some branch of mathematics during the past year. With the development of the technical features of modern life, mathematics has taken an ever larger place in the curriculum of schools. The object of teaching high school mathematics is regarded as threefold: to prepare pupils for entrance to colleges and universities; to train them in accuracy, method, and logical thinking as a help to related subjects; and to give them the direct assistance which mathematics lends to the solution of problems arising in life.

Central's Mathematics Department, of which Mr. J. F. Woolery is the head, offers instruction in two years of algebra, one and one-half year of geometry, and a half year of plane trigonometry.

History

HISTORY concerns both nations and individuals, and through it the causes of the present conditions of the different peoples can be traced. The student is interested in history because he himself can make it—can add to it constantly. Who knows how many future presidents, or distinguished diplomats, or famous generals will say that it was Central high where they first learned the fundamentals of the history which they themselves will be making? Freshmen begin with Ancient History and through the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years come down to modern times. Many are the historical personages he becomes acquainted with through these periods; many are the battles he sees fought; and many are the nations that rise and fall before his vision.

The History Department of Central high school is headed by Mrs. Ada I. Atkinson. This year she has introduced the use of printed outlines of the periods to be studied and printed lists of reference books dealing with each chapter.

ANCIENT languages! For the very reason that they are ancient, that around the study of them floats a mist, as it were, of other ages and peoples and of their lives and works—students of the Latin language and the Greek have a sort of reverential fear lest in the study of them they may do something to cause that mist to fade into oblivion.

Caesar, the celebrated Roman statesman, historian, and general, is alive to students of today as Latin, the language he wrote and spoke is studied. So likewise is Virgil, the poet, and Cicero, the orator and essayist. And it is when here in Central one studies Greek, a language remarkable for beauty and elasticity, that one becomes acquainted with Homer, Hesiod, and Socrates.

The Ancient Language Department of Central high school, headed by Miss Ellen Rooney, has succeeded this year in developing a closer relationship between the Latin classes by a series of vocabulary and syntax contests.

In the Scholastic Contest held at Lincoln, Central was represented by Jane Leeper, Ruth Pilling, and Claude Mason in Caesar; by Wilma McFarland, Mary Alice Race, and Frances Elliott in Cicero; and by Helene Henderson, Eleanor Brown, and Carol Ray in Virgil.

Modern Language

The growing spirit of internationalism brought about by the great events of the last few years has wrought many changes in the education of today. Modern languages, at one time merely appendages to ancient languages, have risen to a position of equality with the latter, and for those who are interested in scientific work are more popular than they. Colleges are now demanding modern languages as well as Greek and Latin, which were formerly so necessary to entrance.

The growth of the Modern Language department has been very rapid. It has been necessary to add several new classes to take care of the increased enrollment in French and Spanish this year. To the student, looking forward to the exigencies of life beyond college, the department offers the best that can be secured in thorough preparation. Central graduates taking advanced work in this line in college have made records which show the existence of good foundational work at Central.

"Sweet lady with pleasant, cheerful voice
Who must love the friends that
Her sweet words and smiles have gained,
For every one of them, I know,
Loves her."

DISSEMINATING wisdom in Central high school has been the chosen work of Miss Stringer, head of the Natural Science Department. While guiding the steps of her pupils toward truth, she has kept for her pupils an unfading youth.

When, twenty years ago, Miss Stringer came to be the head of the Natural Science Department at Central high school, the school had two biology laboratories and two biology classes. As students began to appreciate the possibilities of biology, the enrollment increased rapidly. Then, in 1915, the natural science course of study was revised and given its present form. Although formerly botany, geology, and agriculture were offered, because of the increasing demands of the biology enrollment, geology and agriculture were discontinued.

As one student expressed herself, "From the study of the microscopic Amoeba, of the darting, ciliated Paramecium, of the tiny, gliding Planaria, through the phases of evolution to the study of the human body, Central students have learned that facts are not stupid things when brought into connection with some general law."

CIVICS, Economics, and Modern Problems, the three divisions of the Social Science Department, represent some of the most important features of education requisite to good citizenship. Lack of knowledge of his country's governmental mechanism is today the shibboleth of the unintelligent man. To know at least the fundamentals of economics is of the greatest value to anyone who desires to make of himself a power for the good. Modern Problems, dealing with social conditions of today, points out the mistakes of modern life and the remedies which are most potent. It presents to students the problems which they may thus be enabled to contend with in later life.

In the Social Science Department, community life is represented in its three aspects—Social, Political, Economic—presented to pupils in such a way as to be easily understood. The only safe-guard for patriotism is the knowledge of one's country, which may be obtained through the medium of the Social Science Department.

The Physical Science Department offers a year of work each in chemistry and physics. Physics I deals with mechanics and heat, and requires fifteen experiments in mechanics to be completed by each student. Physics II requires fifteen experiments on heat, magnetism, electricity, sound, and light. Seventy-five experiments are worked out in Chemistry I and II.

The seven physics classes, which are under the instruction of Mr. Frank Gulgard and Mr. J. G. Schmidt, have a total enrollment of about one-hundred fifty while seventy-five students take chemistry under Dr. H. A. Senter.

In the scholarship contest held at Lincoln, Central was represented by Willoughby Conner and Lester Lapidus in physics, and by Edward Albert, Morris Hurwitz, and George Beal in chemistry.

BUSINESS training, a subject that is becoming more and more important, will develop accuracy, concentration, quick-thinking, and efficiency in the student of today. In the acquisition of knowledge as well as in the attainment of business success, these qualities are of great importance. They are lubricants to oil the machinery one uses in life.

The Commercial Department in Central offers three semesters each of bookkeeping and penmanship, four of shorthand, and eight of typewriting. Bookkeeping III and penmanship III were offered to students for the first time this year.

In the State Contest held at Technical High School this year, Mildred Bobbitt won first place in Junior typewriting; Frances Whitney, first place in novice shorthand; Olive Williams, third place in spelling; and Edward Albert and Ernestine Dunaway, third place in novice shorthand.

The Mechanical Arts Department, of which Mr. C. H. Thompson is the head, offers at present a course consisting of Manual Training I and II, Mechanical Drawing I and II, Machine Drawing III and IV, Architectural Drawing II and IV, and Stage Craft.

In manual training the students learn the use and necessary care of tools, joinery, turning, pattern and cabinet work, and have some mill-wright experience.

In Mechanical Drawing I, work in free-hand and block lettering, geometric construction, orthographic projection, working drawings, tracings, and blue printing is given. Mechanical Drawing II offers work dealing with developed surfaces and intersections, threads, bolts, nuts, line shading, rivets, isometric drawing, tracing, and blue printing. The classes are run on the principle of a draughting room and the grades are given according to pay, the student who gets A being higher paid than the one who gets C. Work covering technical sketching, machine parts, gears, freehand and mechanical perspective, and working drawing is done in Mechanical Drawing III and IV.

Architectural Drawing III and IV deals with lettering, preliminary sketches, standards and conventions, display and competitive drawings, working drawings, details, and mechanical perspective. The students secure notes on local and state building codes and complete a set of plans for a house, the type and approximate cost being specified by the instructor.

Stage craft deals with lighting, effects, scene building, scene shifting, and the care of stage property and equipment.

THE making of blouses, hats, and dresses that even the most exclusive modiste could but regard with satisfaction, the cooking of tempting dishes of which any chef could approve, and the planning of artistic decorations that would delight the eye of a professional, are the fascinations of the Household Arts department for the high school girls.

Household Arts II, IV, VI, and IX offer courses in sewing. The kinds of materials, the use of the commercial pattern, the alteration of patterns, and the art of cutting and constructing are taught in Household Arts I. Household Arts VI is divided into two parts: special millinery, and advanced dressmaking and millinery. A project course in sewing is offered in Household Arts IX. The projects may be made for use in the home, for trade, or for Philanthropic purposes.

Household Arts VIII deals with interior decoration and home management. This year the class visited St. Cecilia’s and Trinity Cathedrals, the World-Herald Bungalow, and the Building Show in order to learn about the types of architecture and the artistic furnishings of homes.

Study of the nutritive value, cost, balanced meals, fancy cooking, dietaries, the serving and preparation of foods as well as practice in preparing breakfasts and luncheons is offered in Household Arts III, V, and VII. Luncheons were served by Miss Morrissey’s classes so that the students might learn table service and the cost of foods.

The Household Arts department held an annual reception for the girls graduating from the course and for their mothers on May 9.

The music department has made wonderful progress within the last five years, having grown from a small number to over three hundred members. Glee clubs, band, orchestra, harmony, history of music, and directing are the courses taught.

The Senior Glee Clubs and the harmony and history of music classes are instructed by Mrs. Pitts. The Glee clubs are made up of the more mature and better trained voices selected from the Junior clubs. The Girls’ Club has forty-two members; the Boys, thirty-four.

Mrs. Swanson directs the three Junior clubs of over one hundred and sixty members, and also teaches classes in harmony. The Junior clubs are very important since they supply the foundation of the Senior clubs. This year they have played an important part in furnishing music at various school functions, in addition to giving a splendid spring concert.

Mr. Cox has under his direction the band and orchestra. The band has become one of the leading activities of the school, while the Senior orchestra has become an indispensable factor in supplying music for the Road Show, opera, and senior play.

A LITTLE more than four years ago Central's dream of a dramatic department came true, a department which would be tied up with all the other interests of the school, which would produce a high type of drama, and which would merit the respect of the student body. Miss Lena May Williams came to Central to make the dream a reality.

Today Central high school has one of the finest dramatic departments in the country. The courses in expression are arranged to develop the art of reading and a deeper appreciation of dramatic values.

The drill organizations connected with the expression department have been created to aid in the carrying on of big outside activities. These organizations, such as Speakers' Bureau and Stage Art, under the direction of Miss Floy Smith, and Stage Craft, under the direction of Mr. Louis N. Bexten, have contributed constantly to the artistic beauty of stage productions.

The Art Department is one of long standing in Central high school. Under the supervision of Miss Ruth Tompsett it had become so large by the beginning of 1922 that Miss Mary Angood was employed. In September a second room was given over to Miss Angood, who introduced new lines of work. The department now gives instruction to over 160 students.

A variety of courses, which range from the elementary work of Art I and II to the more specialized forms of design and craft problems are offered. During the first semesters, the elements of composition, color, and perspective are studied, and instruction in lettering is given. For the more advanced students there are courses in costume design, which include a study of figure drawing; in commercial art, which gives training in advertising problems; in the development of decorative design from flower motifs; and in cartooning.

The various types of work offered embrace numerous mediums—pencil, charcoal, crayon, water-color, both transparent and opaque, and India ink.

The courses are planned to give the student a good foundation so that he may specialize after the first year.

THE "Gym" department, which has grown very popular in the past few years, attributes the greater interest in girls' athletics primarily to the introduction of such sports as hockey, baseball, and basketball, in addition to the regular class work. Class teams have been organized, and a plan whereby individual effort and superiority in some form of sport is rewarded has made the O-Club of prime importance.

The girls are given military drill, apparatus work, broad and high jumping, and rope-climbing. In addition the Freshmen girls play games, and the more advanced classes are taught folk dancing.

THE thoroughly satisfactory, efficient, and harmonious management of an institution as large as Central high school is no slight task. All the more to be wondered at, then, are those two seats of organization and order, perfected through years of experience, the Office and the Bookroom. The Office and the Bookroom are the machinery which keeps the school going, the force which holds it together. The duties of both Office and Bookroom are manifold. The former must manage the work of the school, prepare courses of study, enforce rules, and keep complete records of every student and teacher. The latter must keep supplies on hand for sale to the students.

—Kenneth Abbott '24
AN average circulation of 300 to 450 books daily to students by the Library shows the important part which this institution plays in the school life of Central. The phrase, “to help students in every way” might well be the motto of the Library. The answering of questions concerning the various courses, the supplying of reference books to supplement texts, the furnishing of new, vivid books with beautiful illustrations, and the providing of novel reading in the form of more copies of the old standards as well as the new has become the indispensable work of the library.

Special lines in art, music, modern poetry, and modern dramas were introduced extensively last year. Ten new magazines, Industrial Arts, L'Illustration, International Studio, Drama, Nature, Poetry, G. S. T., Radio News, School Arts, and Theatre Arts were furnished by the Library last semester. Several expensive new books were added to the illustrated case, among which were An Argosy of Fables, a book containing twenty-four colored illustrations, The Poster of the XIIIth Century in London, and The Art of the Greeks.

With the aid of many modern improvements, the cafeteria, under the supervision of Miss Mabel H. Carter, has accomplished the task of feeding a large number of hungry students and faculty members daily during the past year. Despite the use of such facilities as the newly installed ice-water faucets, the electric dish-washing machine, and the electric heated container, twelve women are kept busy preparing, serving, and clearing away meals.

The enlargement of the cafeteria has made it possible for 1400 to 1500 people to be served conveniently and comfortably. Statistics show that 3500 to 4000 lunch checks are sold daily, and that 350 bottles of milk, 500 sandwiches, 125 pounds of meat, 5 bushels of potatoes, 11 cakes, 19 gallons of ice-cream, and 150 dishes of pudding are consumed.

Aside from the regular serving of the noon meal, the cafeteria has prepared dinners for twenty banquets.

The Project Room

How would you like to step into fairyland, as it were, and view real little castles, graceful gondolas, pageant wagons, beautiful paintings, theaters, covered wagons, and little dolls dressed like famous personages you have read about?

Just step into Project Room 130, and your wish will come true. There in one corner of the room you will see an old medieval castle with high turrets and a raised drawbridge. Beside the castle stands a large Shakespearean theater on whose stage a scene from the Merchant of Venice is being enacted by small dolls, three inches in height.

In other parts of the room you will see models in clay, drawings of maps and of costumes, a model of Shakespeare's home and of Anne Hathaway's cottage, a model of the Globe Theater and of the Gutenberg Printing Press, and dolls dressed as Wamba, King Richard, Shylock, Hamlet, and other well known characters of fiction. These are but a few of the 416 projects made voluntarily by students of English and history. Authorities have pronounced the collection one of the finest in the country.

Last year a Project Play was given in the form of two scenes from Ivanhoe.

The project method in education was introduced in Central in 1916 by Miss Genevieve Clark, who is the present head of the Project Room. Last year the Project Room committee, composed of Beulah Singers, Dorothy Cooley, and Lea Rosenblatt held two open-house days each week for visitors.

THE January class of 1924 acknowledges the invaluable services of Mr. Verne Chatelain, Miss Alice West, and Miss Lena May Williams, the class sponsors, in helping to maintain that true Central spirit of cooperation and enthusiasm for which the class was so highly complimented.

We were indeed fortunate in having a sponsor so active and interested in school affairs as is Mr. Verne Chatelain, the pilot of our class. By his own perseverance and untiring energy he led the January class through one triumph after another. Every day class affairs, the banquet, the baccalaureate sermon, and the graduation exercises were under Mr. Chatelain’s guidance.

Miss West, with her sparkling personality and experience as a senior sponsor, was most necessary to the success of many class functions. It was Miss West who spent all of her leisure moments in planning with us the social event of our senior year, our class banquet at the University Club.

Miss Williams was the choice for honorary sponsor, and it was she who helped in the selection of a class entertainment. With her assistance Henry Lawrence Southwick was brought to Central in “Twelfth Night.” Together, the sponsors planned and assisted the class with the reception for President Southwick which preceded his appearance in the Shakespearean Comedy.

It was also due to the efforts of the sponsors that the January seniors succeeded in securing $410 worth of advertising for the O-Book and in going over their one hundred per cent goal for student association tickets and for subscriptions for the O-Book.

They have helped us through all of our difficulties as they have rejoiced in our success. Looking back over the months in which our sponsors guided our activities, we realize how much they gave up to be with us and to make our class a success and have a better appreciation of them and their services.
Shirley Elaine, Mascot

THE January Class of 1924, take great pleasure in presenting to you our adorable little mascot, Shirley Elaine Chatelain.

This wee little girl was born August 27, 1922, in Louisville, Nebraska. She was a remarkably good baby and early showed evidence of her sunny disposition. She cut her first tooth at the age of ten months and triumphantly completed her first step when she was one year old.

The beauty of our dainty little mascot is not disputed. Her deep blue eyes have a bewitching twinkle when she smiles, and Shirley Elaine is always smiling, thus showing her dimples to the best advantage. Our little mascot hasn’t, as yet, decided in favor of the shingle bob, for her soft golden locks are cut in a straight baby fashion.

Shirley has already taken up a number of hobbies, and she enjoys indulging in each of them every day. She just must find time for these various amusements between seven o’clock in the morning, when she begins her day, and seven o’clock in the evening when she is tucked into her bed. A small puppy dog and a big rag doll are her constant playmates and, as such, they must share her pleasures. She is a lover of all animals and was never known to be afraid of them. Most of all, our tiny mascot enjoys looking for her Daddy for any evening her tiny face may be seen pressed against the window-pane as she patiently awaits his homecoming.

We have chosen a very modern mascot, too, for she is a confirmed radio fannette and loves dancing. When music is played she keeps time with her dimpled hands and bobs up and down in the motions of the dance.

Shirley made the class especially proud of her at the reception for Mr. Southwick when she received her friends in such a calm, cool manner that she completely won the hearts of all. Since we have such a dear little girl for a mascot, one who is so modern and yet so sweetly old fashioned, do you wonder that we are just bursting with pride?

_Helena can always be found in the ranks of anything worth while._

WALTER BRAWNER
O-Book Staff (4).

_A happy, cheerful fellow who can make the piano sing the "blues" and other popular masterpieces with marked ability._

OLIVER GRAHAM BUTLER

Oliver's spirit of co-operation makes him a valuable member of the class.

MARY ETHELYN CLARK
Vice President Greenwich Villagers (4), Student Club (4), Type Club (4).

_We never see Mary without a smile._

MARIE KATHERINE CLAUSSEN

_A charming personality and a gracious sense of hospitality._
CORBETT D. CRABTREE

Corbett is an asset to any crowd; for real fun making call on Corbett.

RUTH ARDEN A CROCKETT

O-Book Staff (4), Type Club (4).

Ruth’s cheery disposition and willingness to help have won many friends for her at Central.

RALPHA DAVIS

National Honor Society (4), Editor January O-Book (4), Managing Editor Register (4), Student Control (4), Class Reporter (4), Pageant (4), Student Club (3-4), Lininger Travel Club (3), Rose and the Ring (3), Gym Exhibition (1), Girls’ Camp (1).

Dependable, regardless of any obstacles which might present themselves, efficient, and capable is Ralpha. A representative Honor Society student.

ROBERT W. DETWEILER

It certainly is a delight to please “Bobbie” just to see him smile.

MARTHA ESTELLA DOX

French Club (4), Student Club (3-4), Secretary Sophomore Class (2), Purple White Week (2).

Martha is a sure cure for the blues.

ELLEN EVANS

Student Club (4), Greenwich Villagers (4), O-Book Staff (4), Speaker’s Bureau (3-4).

Ellen’s two big talents are drawing pictures and drawing friends.
HELEN HENNINGER
O-Book Staff (4). Lininger Travel Club (3-4).
Helen's initials stand for Hidden Humor.

LOUISE GWENDOLYN HILLMAN
A quiet girl whose twinkling eyes give us an insight to a delightful character.

DOROTHY JENNINGS
O-Book Staff (4). Student Club (2).
Cute. Peppy. Likable—Those are the words that best describe Dorothy.

RICHARD ALLEN KUCHARO
We have wondered if Richard's ancestors were Puritans. A real gentleman clothed in his dignity.

MABLE CONRIETTA IMA LARSEN
Type Club (4). Student Club (1-2). Purple White Week (1).
If all were as thoughtful and good natured as Mable, this would be a mighty fine world.

PAUL MITCHELL
O-Book Staff (4).
The girls say that his feet are very obedient on a dance floor.
BARBARA A. MOSCROP
O-Book Staff (4).

We love her happy disposition, and we admire her versatility of talents.

DOROTHY CHRISTINE NIELSEN

Dorothy doesn’t have much to say but when she does, she has a good word for everyone.

HAROLD F. PARKER
President January Senior Class (4), O-Book Staff (4), Engineer’s Club (3).

It is needless to state we fully approve of him. Suave, modern, peppy and powerful in all his school career; that is Harold.

OTIS WILLIAM PEDERSEN
Business Manager January O-Book (4), Engineer’s Club (3-4), Business Manager Senior Entertainment (4).

Otis has executive ability combined with a personality and a broad grin that makes him a favorite with both students and faculty.

DORIS E. PROHASKA
National Honor Society (4), Vice President January Senior Class (4), Pageant (4), Declamatory Contest (3), Student Club (3-4).

When Doris is unable to express a thought in words, her eyes fill the void.

HAROLD WILLIAM REID
O-Book Staff (4).

Harold is quiet and droll, but there is usually a calm before a storm.
MARCELLUS RICHIE
Marcellus' quiet way has made many friends for him at Central High School.

GRACE L. ROSENSTEIN
O-Book Staff (4), Student Club (1-2-3-4), Declamatory Contest (3), Publicity Manager Senior Entertainment (4).
Our impressions of Grace—Black bobbed hair, dark eyes, unlimited pep, salesmanship, and efficiency.

DOROTHY SEYBOLD
O-Book Staff (4).
A pretty girl and a loyal friend. What more need be said?

ROBERT J. SKLENICKA
Greenwich Villagers (4), Spanish Club (4).
Here is a fellow who never has much to say, but his wit is delightful.

DOROTHY ONA TRUE
Secretary Senior Class (4), French Club (4), Pageant (2-4), Opera (3), Glee Club (3-4).
Always gentle and quiet, with friends sincere, Dorothy is indeed "True Blue."

ROBBIE ELEANORA TURNER
Robbie is full of pep and school spirit. She is of value to her school and a most pleasant friend.
PHILLIP VAN LUVEN

Phillip is very reserved, but once you are privileged to know him, you never forget him.

PHYLLIS ELVINA WEBERG

Greenwich Villagers (4), Pageant (4), Student Club (1, 2, 3, 4), Gym Club (3, 4), Student Control (4), Glee Club (4).

Phyllis is a delightful creation of pep, energy, and enthusiasm. One wonders how all this can bubble so successfully in a girl so small.

ISRAEL J. WEISS

Second place in third year Latin Contest.

Israel is the scholar of the class.

FRANCES WILSON

O-Book Staff (4), Speakers' Bureau (2, 3, 4), Manager Senior Entertainment (4), Pageant (4) Opera (3).

Frances radiates energy and vitality.
Prophesy

"While glancing o'er the newspapers in 1936,
Most likely you will read there some news items like this."

Harold Parker, well known New York hamburger merchant, recently received at the death of a distant relative a vast estate in the center of the Sahara. Mr. Parker informs us that a troop of dancing girls will also be a part of the inheritance. He expects to take up his residence soon.

Madame Martha Dox, the famous Russian dancer, is directly responsible for the Crown Prince of England renouncing his throne according to the former Prime Minister, Roland Preisman. It is feared that the Bolsheviks, who have grown very strong under the leadership of an outlaw by the name of Otis Pederson, will assume the reins of government. The Crown Prince's wife, formerly Miss Helena Bonorden of Omaha, Nebraska, and recently made the Princess of Duchroy by an act of Parliament, has fled to France. It is rumored that she has sought refuge with the far-famed Madame Barbara Moscrop Spooks, spiritualist.

Advertisement: Send for a bulletin which explains fully the new course of dramatic art as taught by the Prohaska School of Expression at once. Easy terms. Address Miss Doris Prohaska, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Paul Mitchell, model for M. Jacques, well-known tailor, while promenading the walks of Rivera, was hit and seriously injured by an unknown car. He was taken immediately to the Hotdog Hospital where Dr. Philip Van Luven, assisted by Miss Ruth Crockett, gave surgical aid. This was Mr. Mitchell's first experience in displaying the latest men's styles.

Theatre Treats

The headliner this week at the Orpheum is a delightful one-act comedy entitled "Hot Stuff." "Walt" Brauner and "Dolly" Jennings, two "Folly" favorites, with a host of pretty girls will tangle you up in a maze of clever dances and songs.

Next week the Rialto will star Dorothy Seybold in one of Robert Sklenicka's most recent and lavish pictures, "Her First Fried Egg." Miss Seybold is an engaging heroine and will be remembered as the dashing lead in Ben Turpin's latest production, "Her Fake Grandfather."

Mrs. Richard Kuchar, wife of Governor Kuchar of Nebraska, today filed a suit for divorce naming his secretary, Miss Dorothy True, as co-respondent.

In Cupid's Net

'Tis rumored that Mr. Robert Detweiler, the leading criminal lawyer of the West, has at last succumbed and is to be married to Miss Mary Clarke, who operates a string of beauty parlors from Chicago to San Francisco.

Miss Ralpha Davis, editor of one of the most radical, red magazines in the country, "The Bull-dog," states her intention of establishing a colony in Africa with herself as dictator. Rumor has it that she has been disappointed in love. With her will go Miss Phyllis Weberg who will attempt to instruct the natives in "The Art of Keeping an Attractive Personality."

Miss Lydia Reed, recently returned missionary, states that there is a very wide and promising field for such worthy activities. "There has been no attempt at civilization," said Miss Reed when speaking before "The Lift The Fallen Club" luncheon sponsored by Miss Mable Larson, president, and Mrs. Louise Hillman Burgess, "except the school at Bangpore established by the highly esteemed Professor Oliver Graham Butler." According to Miss Reed the U. S. Consul in Africa, Mr. Marcellus Richie, has done much toward establishing friendly and sympathetic relations between that country and ours. At present he is in America seeking financial aid from Congress. Miss Frances Wilson, a prominent member of the House of Representatives and Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, is also vitally interested in the project.

URNISHED words are vain,
And silver phrases idle
To pay our fullest tribute
To your worth!

O we call it gratitude
For the service you have rendered
All regardless of yourself,
But ever thoughtful
Of the benefit for others?

It sincere appreciation
Of the happiness you’ve strewn
By your merriment of spirit
And your bubbling, laughing way?

It golden fettered friendship
Bound by links that you have wrought
With the sweetness of your nature?

YES—these are the thoughts and feelings,
These and more besides,
For one whose tireless efforts
Have helped to make this book.

He has joyous spirits,
In a great accumulation;
And by his merry way
He has won our admiration.
FLORENCE DRAKE
Miller Park
Giv[er an icy pond.
Smooth with a crystal gleam;
Giv[er a pair of skates.
And Florence will be supreme.

WILLIAM CARTER DRAPIER
Saunders
Corporal Company F (4).

A jolly good scout,
An unfailing friend;
And even at that
His virtues don’t end.

ARTHUR A. DREESEN
District 57

Happy-go-lucky with a thatch of red hair,
Who looks as if he’d never mingled with care;
A smile for all people, a bright sparkling eye.
“Art” Dreesen has friends, these are some reasons why.

A very jolly fellow,
When he talks and when he sings;
Advocates the telephone,
And often "she" gets rings.

LUCILLE DUNKIN
Senior Glee Club (2, 3, 4); Pageant "Nebraska" (2); "Mam'zelle Taps" (3); Road Show (3); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Girls' Band (4); L. T. C. (4).

A student conscientious,
A worker faithful and true;
How better could one be fitted,
When service there is to do?

GEORGE J. DYHRBERG
Miller Park
Engineering Society (3); Keen Key Klickers (3, 4).

He is quite convincing,
Just in his element,
When he starts in to persuade us,
By his clever argument.

EDWIN CHARLES EDMONDS
Windsor
Second Lieutenant Co. C. (4); Road Show (3); Hi-Y (3, 4); Class Basketball (4); Student Control (4); Road Show Orchestra (4).

"Ed's" called a worker
And a bachelor in one;
We never knew that "Eddie"
From a pretty girl would run.

DAN S. EGBERT
Saunders
Captain Co. D (4); Hi-Y (2, 3, 4); Speakers' Bureau (3); Student Control (3, 4); Football Reserves (4); O-Book Staff (4); Chairman Central Committee (4); National Honor Society (4).

A leader likeable and wise,
A merry hearted man;
We're proud because he puts things through,
We like him 'cause he's Dan.

EDITH ELLIOTT
Dundee
Student Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Register Staff (4); Proofreading editor O-Book (4); State Scholarship Contest (3, 4).

One of the hardest workers in the school,
A conscientious student with a heart of gold,
One who is willing and serving ever,
Whose virtues are wondrous and manifol'd.
HAROLD ERICKSON
Columbian
Hi-Y (1, 3); Purple and White Week (1); Golf (4); Greenwich Villagers (4).

Golf and art—an unusual combination—
Indicative of unusual determination.

ALBERT F. ERNST, JR.
Saunders
Hi-Y (2, 3, 4); Sergeant Co. E (4); Class Basketball (2, 3, 4).

A fellow full of fun and pep.
His dancing’s gained him quite a “rep.”

He’s a right good fellow every time.

LETHA ELIZABETH FOWLER
Miller Park
Girls’ Camp (1, 2); Student Club (4); Keen Klickers (4); Sketch Club (4); Senior Play.

Quiet and persistent,
She works both hard and well,
A maid who is endeared to us
More than words can tell.

FLORENCE LUCILLE FRITCHOFF
Sioux City, Iowa

She’s bonny, she’s dainty,
She’s friendly, yet shy,
To all those who know her
Her friendship ranks high.
J. HARRY FRYXELL

"Mam'zelle Taps" (3); Class Track (3); Senior Glee Club (3, 4); Hi-Y (3, 4); Football Reserves (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); "The Bohemian Girl" (4); Road Show (4); Track (4).

He makes a fierce gypsy.
He has a fine voice;
For a true model of Central
Harry is our choice.

ARTHUR GEORGE FUNK
Lothrop
Hi-Y (1, 2, 3, 4); Senior Play.

Quiet in whate'er he does,
But well liked by all he knows.

ZADOC SUMMERS GALBRAITH
Monmouth Park
Hi-Y (1, 2, 3, 4).

Talk is cheap, some people say,
But Zadoc talks so much,
We wonder in between times
Why he doesn't "get in Dutch."

MARGARET GANNETT
Dundee
Greenwich Villagers (4).

Mere trifles will not her affection end,
The truest kind of a loyal friend.

ANNUNCIATA GARROTTO
Holy Family
Spanish Club (3, 4); L. T. C. (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Glee Club (4); "The Bohemian Girl" (4).

She can sing and she can play,
And her smiles are those that stay.

MAX GEISLER, JR.
Henry W. Yates

Full of laughter, full of fun—
Giving help to everyone.

ARLENE FAE GILMORE
Plattsburgh, Nebraska
Student Club (3); French Club (3).

To be a first class tutor like Arlene
One needs her knowledge to teach, I ween.
SAMUEL K. GUFFRIDA
Comenius
Mathematics Society (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Junior Glee Club (4); Central Committee (4); Senior Play.

Would the world were made of such as he
As loyal and true as true can be.

MAX A. GIVOT
Spanish Club (3, 4)—Treasurer (3).

Initiative and ambition
Scale toward a high position.

HARRY GOLDMAN
Cass
District and State Commercial Contests (4); State Scholarship Contest (4)

Harry’s one of those spellers who went to Peru,
And brought honor to Central by seeing it through.
We know he’ll succeed because he’s just that kind,
For in just that one contest he showed a keen mind.

ROSALINE GOLDSTEIN
Centerville, Iowa
Student Club (4); Declamatory Contest (4).

’Tis an art to carry others
Into the realms of bliss
By a haunting strain of music
Light as a fairy kiss.

A dainty blonde with tiny hands
Who garners A’s at will.
A future Ruth St. Denis.
In Terpsichorean skill.

ISABEL GRAETZ
Field
Purple and White Week (1); Speakers’ Bureau (3, 4); Student Club (4); Declamatory Contest (4); Register Staff (4); “Everyman” (4); Senior Play.

Can time from memory disseeve
An eye so bright, a wit so clever?
MARION GRAETZ
Clifton Hill
Purple and White Week (1); Junior Glee Club (4); Senior Glee Club (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Road Show (4); Senior Play.

He's just a plain good sport,
Gives Central loyal support,
Sings in the Glee Club, carols with joy,
Who says he's not a capital boy.

DEWITT S. GREEN
Lothrop
What a jolly, good natured lad,
And what a way with the ladies he had!

ETHEL GREENBERG

A clear tongued orator,
How well his words bear weight,
Small in stature,
But in true worth ever great.

SANDBORD GRIFFIN
San Diego, California
Since he's just as nice as he looks,
He'll out-do the heroes of story books.

RUTH GRIMMEL
Dundee
Purple and White Week (1); Speakers’ Bureau (3, 4); L. T. C. (3, 4); Student Club (3, 4); French Club (4)—Sergeant-at-Arms (4); Road Show (4); Senior Play.

She's peppy, she's clever,
And active and sweet.
Success is quite certain
For work is Ruth's feat.
HANNAH HABLER
Central
Orchestra (1, 2, 3, 4).
Energetic—Oh yes! Very much so.
Why, Hannah's a dear, and not a bit slow.
In talking and speaking and that sort of thing;
For the words seem to fly on a good able wing.

McGREW HARRIS
Henry W. Yates
Second Lieutenant Company A (4); Winner Individual Competitive Drill (3); Student Control (3, 4); Class Basketball (4); Road Show (4); "The Bohemian Girl" (4); Spanish Club (4); Senior Play.
Central's proud to claim him—
A booster loyal and true.
A worker who is willing
And splendid is McGrew.

HELEN MAE HARTMAN

We wonder what's more winning
Then Helen's friendly smile.
Her charms ever win her pals
And other hearts beguile

VIRGINIA HELENE HENDERSON
Monmouth Park
Student Club (3, 4); French Club (3, 4); L. T. C. (4); State Scholarship Contest (4); National Honor Society (4).

Good natured and obliging,
She goes her helpful way,
In every word she speaks a volume,
In every subject wins an A.

HAZEL LUCILLE HENRY
Franklin
French Club (4).

Her wonderful giggle,
Entrancingly merry,
To realms of gay mirth
Is destined to carry.

DOROTHY MARIE HESBACHER

A charm of speech and manner,
A voice of purest gold
Endears us all to Janet,
And draws friends manifold.

LLOYD W. JEFFRIES
Franklin
First Lieutenant Company B (4); Class Basketball (2, 3, 4)—Captain (3); Class Track (3); Engineering Society (3, 4); Football Reserves (3); Hi-Y (3, 4); Student Control (4); "The Bohemian Girl" (4).
Here's a fine fellow and an S. C. member,
He has a name that Central will remember.

HULDA PAULINE JENSEN
Beals
Captain Volley Ball and Baseball (1); Student Club (4); Keen Key Klickers (4).
Her manner is calm and pleasant,
Her sweetness is ever present.

VERNER JENSEN
Henry W. Yates
Underneath a quiet smile
Here's a friend truly worth while.

ALICE D. JETTER
Saunders
Greenwich Villagers (4).
Shy and retiring
You'd think at a glance.
But her pep and her spirit
Do surely entrance.

MARGARET ANTOINETTE JOHNSON

He could lead the band with skill,
And he bore a "lieut's" commission.
Who can truly his place fill?

JOHN B. PLATNER
Columbian
Captain Adjutant (4); Hi-Y (4); Road Show (4);
O-Book Staff (4); Central Committee (4); State
Scholastic Contest (4); National Honor Society (4).

Girls don't seem to bother him at all,
Be ware, John, pride walks before a fall.

GERTRUDE POLLARD
Park
Purple and White Week (1); Student Club (2, 3);
Student Control (3, 4); O-Book Staff (4).

Gertrude's quiet and modest, but full of bubbling fun,
And when it comes to doing favors, she's always on the run.

CLYDE ARNOLD POPE
Saunders
Purple and White Week (1); Senior Glee Club (3);
Hi-Y (4); Track (4).

You'll never find him with time to waste,
And he's always obliging no matter his haste.

ELOISE POWELL
Dundee
Register Staff (3); Student Club (3, 4); Calendar
Editor O-Book (4); French Club (4).

Such a good natured miss is Eloise,
She'll do anything if you merely say "please."
She's never too busy to help someone out.
With a smile on her face—but never a pout.

ESTHER HELEN POWERS
Webster
Student Club (2, 3, 4).

So quiet is our Esther, folks, and yet
She leaves a memory we cannot forget.
MARIE ELEANOR PRICE
Saratoga
Student Club (2, 3, 4); Girls’ Camp (3); Keen Key Klickers (4); Greenwich Villagers (4); Road Show (4).

What is more lovely, we’d like to know,
Than a smile that is with you wherever you go,
And a nature that’s sunny and jolly and gay,
And a heart that is golden, and sings all the day?

CAROLINE PROEBSTING
Columbian
Student Club (1, 2, 3, 4).

What more could be said of Caroline?
Than—when she makes friends it’s for all time.

ROBERTA JUANITA-PROBST
Plattsmouth, Nebraska
Spanish Club (4); Junior Orchestra (4).

Her jolly, sparkling, merry eyes
Reveal her mind—so gay and wise.

VIRGINIA LOUISE RADCLIFFE
Saunders
The sweetest personality,
With smile-wreathed face,
A maid who’s blessed with charms
And youthful, girlish grace.

A. CHRISTINE RASMUSSEN
Park
One of the nicest girls we know—
You’d like to know her too—
Because she’s such a loyal friend—
Such a friend—true blue.

GERTRUDE E. RASNICK
Kellom
How dark her eyes, and how black her tresses.
How neat and well she always dresses.
MERRIAM RAU
Franklin
Although her manners
Unassuming are, and shy,
Her every task well done
Meets the approaching eye.

CAROL RAY
Park
Register Staff (4); Central Committee (4); State Scholarship Contest (4).
In everything she does she tries her very best—
When it comes to conscientious effort, she'll stand the hardest test.

ALICE READER
Walnut Hill
Student Club (3, 4); Student Control (4); City Editor Register (4); Activities Editor O-Book (4);
National Honor Society (4).
A peppy city editor,
For news she's on the look-out,
And when she does her work,
She knows what she's about.

DOROTHY EVELYN REUBEN
Lothrop

(3, 4); Declamatory Contest (3); “The Enchanted Year” (4); Register Staff (4); O-Book Staff (4);
“The Bohemian Girl” (4); Senior Play.
Her hair is dark; her eyes are brown.
And she dances light as a thistle down.

BETH REYNOLDS
Columbian
Purple and White Week (1); Pageant “Nebraska” (2); “Captain Crossbones” (2); Junior Glee Club
(2); Senior Glee Club (3, 4); Student Club (4); “Mam’zelle Taps” (3); “The Enchanted Year” (4);
State Glee Club Contest (4); O-Book Staff (4); Senior Play; National Honor Society (4).
Because of her brains and ability,
Efficiency, sweetness, and loyalty,
Loved by all, her worth’s a reality.

GLADYS REYNOLDS
Columbian

There are those like Gladys
Whose selfless service true
Whose nature sweet and helpful
Makes boundless praises due.
RUTH HARRIET RICHMOND
Columbian
Volleyball (1); Student Club (1, 3, 4); French Club (3, 4).

Here is the friendship fair that never swerves,
The truth that wins, the honor that deserves.

DOROTHY RIDDLE
Sioux Falls, South Dakota
Junior Glee Club (3); Stage Art (4).

Sweet maiden! In her merry mind
Where joy and knowledge blends—
She bids the shadows slink behind,
For she is rich in friends.

ANNA RIFE
Comenius

Her eyes are so lovely,
And her smile is so sweet.
We feel that in knowing her
We've enjoyed a rare treat.

RUTH RIGDON
Saunders

Ruth has the wealth of the inner, unquenchable fire;
Poise and charm, what more could a maiden desire?

ALBERT RITCHER
Central Park
Purple and White Week (1); Track Reserves (3); Track Squad (4); Engineering Society (4).

So quiet he is,
With eyes so blue,
But he's always there
When there's something to do.

MARGARETTE RIX
Lothrop
Sergeant-at-Arms (1); Student Club (2, 3, 4)—Cabinet (4); Student Control (3, 4); Speakers' Bureau (4); Associate Business Manager Register (4); O-Book Staff (4); French Club (3, 4); Secretary (3).

Peggy's fame at Central
Is gained by quality and style,
A girl who's always up to date
And stunning all the while.
FORD ROBINSON
Field
Second Lieutenant Co. F (4); Purple and White Week (1); Pageant "Nebraska" (2); Hi-Y (2, 4); Spanish Club (3); Slide Rule (4); Movie Corporation (4).
That he’s really a senior
Is quite hard to believe,
Though he’s witty and clever,
Size and stature deceive.

FRANCIS ROBINSON
We wish to introduce you to a boy
Who makes the kind of friend that’s a joy.

GERTRUDE ROMM
Kellom
L. T. C. (1, 2); Student Club (1, 2, 3, 4).
Laughing lips and merry eyes,
Before her smile all sadness flies.

RUTH ROMSTEDT
Lothrop
Purple and White Week (1); Student Club (1, 3, 4); L. T. C. (4); Greenwich Villagers (4); Speakers’ Bureau (4); “The Enchanted Year” (4); Hockey (4); O-Book Staff (4); Road Show (4).
Now “blondes aren’t vivacious”
Has oft been the truth,
But blonde and vivacious
We must call our Ruth.

CHARLOTTE ROOT
Pawnee City, Nebraska
Organization Editor O-Book (4); City Editor Register (4); Central Committee (4); Poetry Contest (4); State Scholarship Contest (4), National Honor Society (4).
There dwells within her soul
A thing not in our ken,
A lovely, soft, ethereal thing
That she transmits by pen.

IRENE ROSENBOROUGH
Dundee
Purple and White Week (1); Student Club (3, 4); French Club (3, 4); Basketball (3); Baseball (3); Hockey (4); O-Book Staff (4); O-Club (4).
Want to know a little girl
Of very merry mien,
A dandy sport, and nothing short?
I’ll tell you who—Irene.

JOHN B. ROSENZWEIG
Mason
Color Sergeant (4); Football Reserves (3); Hi-Y (3); Stage Crew (4); Student Control (4); Senior Play.
The cleverest cut-up that we’ve ever known,
The jolliest fellow in school,
Good-looking and witty, he’s ever alert
To prove that he’s nobody’s fool.
RUTH A. RUHNKA
Lothrop
Student Club (4).

A wonderful little girl.
Good-natured, full of glee.
Few maidens are quite as merry
And quite as gay as she.

DOROTHY RUTHERFORD
Dundee
Student Club (3, 4); L. T. C. (4); French Club (4); Gym Club (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Road
Show (4); Senior Play.

A handsome young person.
All full of pep.
When she takes the boy's part
It's love the first step.

EDITH CAMPBELL SADLER
Franklin
Purple and White Week (1); Student Club (4);
French Club (4).

Quiet and demure is she;
Few maidens dress as well as she.

DONALD SAMUELSON
Nukker Oarj
Baseball Reserves (3); Sergeant Company F (4);
Class Basketball (4); Hi-Y (4).

Though he's not very wide and not very long,
When you pick him for a friend, you just can't go wrong.

VERNON C. SANDWALL
Purple and White Week (1); Band (1, 2); Hi-Y
(1, 2, 3); Greenwich Villagers (4); Glee Club (4);
Feature Editor Register (4); O-Book Staff (4);
Road Show (4).

Our editor of "Squawks"
Whose wit is bubbling o'er,
Artistic—here is proof that Verne
Is versatile and clever.

WILLIAM SANTOLI
Colgate, Oklahoma
Reserved, accommodating, a mighty fine friend—
You can't help but like him—
He's a perfect godsend.
LEWIS L. SAWYER
Creighton
Friendly and smiling
You never find him idling.

LOIS E. SCOTT
Lothrop
Girls’ Basketball (4).
A basketball player of fame,
In swimming too, she’s made her name.

ELDRIDGE B. SCURR
Denver, Colorado
Hi-Y (4).
Silent, serious, and dark,
Through quietude he’ll make his mark.

If we should travel long the journalistic way,
We’ll see her name inscribed in fame some future day.

WALTER SENTER
Field
Second Lieutenant and Quartermaster Second Battalion (4); O-Book Staff (4); Engineering Society (4).
A hard and digging worker,
An optimist is he,
Unusual boy whose father
Taught him chemistry!

FLORENCE SEWARD

City and District Champs (4); National Honor Society (4).

There's strength in everything he does,
And force in each remark,
Convincing in debating skill
A dextrous business shark.

BERTRAND EMMETT SHIELDS
Saratoga
Friendly he is,
And gay as can be.

HARRY J. SHIRK
Saunders
Stage Crew (3, 4); Student Control (4); Hi-Y (3, 4)
We have it first hand that he's thought woman-shy.
But when it comes to a test, we know he'll not fly.

CLOVER SHOOK
Beals
In whatever she tries she's quick as a whip,
And a mighty fine student who's there with a zip.

DONALD SHOUP
West Side
Purple and White Week (1); Orchestra (2, 3)—President (3); Hi-Y (1, 2, 3, 4)—Junior Council (2, 3); Hi-Y Camp Conference (4); French Club (4); Junior Glee Club (4); Speakers' Bureau (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4); Engineering Society (4)—Vice-President (4); Student Control (4); O-Book Staff (4); Senior Play; Central Committee (4).

For a fellow his size he makes a lot of noise—
But—in this respect, he's like all other boys.
EMIL SHUKERT
Saratoga
Purple and White Week (1); Hi-Y (1, 2, 3, 4); Sport Editor Register (4); Chairman Reception Committee (4); Class Basketball (4); O-Book Staff (4); French Club (4); Chairman Property Committee Senior Play.

We’ve heard a lot of “personality”
But Emil has it in reality.

WENDELL SHULTZ
Lothrop
Hi-Y (2, 4).

You all have heard the saying,
That “Ignorance is Bliss”;
But why he is so happy
Is a fact we always miss.

LESTER SIMON
Henry W. Yates
Purple and White Week (1).

We’ve never seen Lester when he’s not full of fun,
We’ve never seen Lester when he’s not kidding someone.

ERNESTINE EVELYN SINGLETON
Howard Kennedy
A girl who will succeed along the business way.
In bookkeeping she unflinching wins an “A.”

CAROLINE ELIZABETH SMITH
Lothrop
Student Club (1, 2, 4); Central Committee (4).

“She’s all my fancy painted her,
She’s lovely; she’s divine,”
Though quoting’s slightly out of date
’Tis such a fitting line.

HUGH CASSELS SMITH
Saunders
First Lieutenant and Adjutant Second Battalion (4); Assistant Manager Senior Play.

A manager who’s capable in every single way,
Whether it be Road Show props or Central’s Senior Play.
MARTHA SONGSTER
Monmouth Park
Purple and White Week (1); "Coronado in Quivera" (3).

Sometimes serious—always wise;
Merriment sparkles in her eyes.

THELMA SPARKS
Bartesville, Oklahoma
O-Book Staff (4); Register (4).

The Latin teacher's keen delight,
She values knowledge over fame,
A loyal little friend, with wit
As sparkling as her name.

DOROTHY STAFFORD
Franklin

Girls' Number Register (2); Pageant "Nebraska" (2); "Mamzelle Taps" (3); Senior Glee Club (3, 4);
"Bohemian Girl" (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4).

When a girl has so merry and jolly a way,
There's not enough nice things about her to say.

EDITH STERNER
Keen Key Klickers (4); Girls' Band (4); "The Enchanted Year" (4).

She's a dainty, charming little lass,
A sweet member of the Senior class.

FLORENCE STEVENSON
Park
Junior Orchestra (4); Girls' Band (4).

Florence was made for service,
She gladly gives it too,
Her friends we may count many,
Her enemies—but few.

RUTH STEWART
Lincoln, Nebraska

"The Enchanted Year" (4); O-Book Staff (4);
"Everyman" (4); Basketball Team (4).

Did we speak of an all 'round girl?
Of one who is wholesome and true?
No matter how far we'd look, Ruth,
We'd always come back to you.
ARThUR W. STORY
Central Park
Hi-Y (4).

Quiet and reserved, yet in you
We're sure there's something deeper, too.

HERBERT E. STORY
Central Park
Second Lieutenant Company F (4); Senior Play (1); Hi-Y (4).

You might think him a Freshie if you consider by length,
But brains prove the fellow—and mental strength.

RUSSELL W. SUHR
Fremont, Nebraska
Orchestra (3); President Senior Glee Club (4); “The Bohemian Girl” (4); Road Show (4); “The Enchanted Year” (4); Senior Play State Music Contest (4).

To what heights of fame he soon will reach
We really can't be sure,
But with his splendid talent we expect
A lot of Russell Suhr.

FRANCES HELEN SWANSON
Franklin
French Club (4).

Beautiful hair,
A lovely face,
Maidenly charm,
And pleasing grace.

GILBERT CARL SWANSON
Saunders
Purple and White Week (1); Hi-Y (3); Tennis (3).

Once at a thing he pursues it with will,
Able, steady, and a true friend is Gil.

STANLEY A. SWANSON
Miller Park
Sergeant (3, 4); Track Team (2); Speakers' Bureau (3, 4); Engineering Society (3, 4)—Vice-President (4); Tennis Tournament (3, 4); Class Tournament (3, 4); Debate Squad (4).

He ever flashes quick retort,
At arguing he's nothing short.
HAZEL TATMAN
Waterloo, Iowa
Student Club (3, 4); Junior Glee Club (3, 4);
French Club (3, 4); L. T. C. (3, 4); Road Show (4);
"The Enchanted Year" (4); Senior Play.
Smiles a-playing with her lips,
Laughter in her eyes,
Merry Hazel Tatman
Pep personifies.

RUDOLPH TESAR
Comenius
An ambitious, merry-hearted boy
Sparkling eyes, and full of joy.

VIVIAN TIZARD
Field

Extremely pleasant to everyone
With a manner that beams like the sun.

MILDRED TOPP
Castellar
Scholarly, very wise,
With friendly smiles in her eyes.

JAMES ALFRED TROTT
Bridgeport, Nebraska
Character is written across his face,
Few so steadfast can take his place.
IDA TURNER
Kellom
Orchestra (1); Spanish Club (3, 4).

Giggle of merriment,
Bubbling over with pep,
As a jolly young optimist,
She's gained quite a "rep."

MARY VANCE
Lothrop
French Club (4); Student Club (4).

Mary is a mighty cute lass
With loads of friends and lots of class.

IRENE VAN DAHL
Saunders
An aureole of shining hair,
Peppy and clever and pretty and fair.

GERALD VASAK
Vinton
Corporal (4); Extempore Winner (4); Interclass
Debate (4); Debate Team (4); National Honor Society (4).

Logical with keen command
Of words meant to impress.
Debating teams with him a member
From vict’ry scarce digress.

MAURICE VEST
Franklin
Junior and Senior Orchestra (4); Second Lieutenant and Aide (4); Central Committee (4); National Honor Society (4).

Maurice is a splendid fellow
To this we’ll all agree,
For one more happy natured
We’ve yet to live to see.

RICHARD VETTE
Windsor
Second Lieutenant Company D (4); Class Basketball (1, 2, 3); Golf Team (3, 4); Hi-Y (3, 4); Senior Play.

Dick’s pleasing smile and his quaint drawl
Have won him the good will of all.
CHARLES J. VRANEK
Lincoln
Engineering Club (3, 4).

Here's a boy who's forging ahead every day,
With pep, with push he's making his way.

RICHARD WALKER
Farnam
Senior Hi-Y (3); Group Picture Editor O-Book (4); Chairman Senior Banquet Committee (4); National Honor Society (4).

Always brilliant,
Always there,
With witty retort,
"High up in the air."

LOIS Gwendolyn Walmer
Saratoga
Student Club (3); Road Show (3); Gym Club (3, 4); Secretary (4): "The Enchanted Year" (4).

Tiny, petite, and demure.
A sweet little girl to be sure.

Purple and White Week (1); Hi-Y (1, 2, 3, 4); Speakers' Bureau (3, 4)—Vice-President (3); Costume Committee "Mamezelle Tape" (3); O-Book Staff (4); Boys' Costume Committee Senior Play.

John is a schoolmate whom we all like,
The kind of a boy who wins,
Always brimming with cheerfulness,
And sparkling with good-natured grins.

BERNICE MARION WELCH
Field
Student Club (1, 4); Interclass Debate (2); Speakers' Bureau (2, 4); Junior Glee Club (3, 4); Make-up Class (4); Debate Squad (4); Senior Play.

A sweet little girl, who's very pretty,
She sticks to a thing till it's done.
And it will be done well, you can be sure,
She's the kind that puts work before fun.

ROBERT A. WELLER
Lothrop

What a jolly, good natured lad,
With a wonderful voice that thrills!
Everything’s merry when Herbert’s around,
And the whole world with fun he fills.

ROBERT E. WHIPPERSMANN
Monmouth Park
Band (3, 4); Road Show (3, 4); “Everyman” (4); Senior Play; Concert Band (4).

An actor whom we all admire
In real life as well as on stage,
Whose character we rank very high,
When measured by critical gage.

HELEN WILLIAMS
Chicago, Illinois
Orchestra (1, 2, 3, 4); Pageant “Nebraska” (2); Junior Glee Club (2).

When she draws with sweet intent
Her bow across her instrument,
Far to ethereal depths we’re sent.
OLIVE IOLA WILLIAMS

Junior Honor Society

THE Junior Honor Society, which is Central's own local organization, was founded last May through the efforts of Principal J. G. Masters. The principles of the National Honor Society, which are the encouraging of scholarship, leadership, character, and service, are also the requirements for membership in the Junior Honor Society.

The Junior organization consists of three chapters, Epsilon for the Freshmen, Delta for the Sophomores, and Gamma for the Juniors. A general council of five faculty members acts as sponsor for the organization. The body is composed of Miss Genevieve Clark, chairman, Mr. Joseph G. Masters, Miss Jessie M. Towne, Miss Katharine H. Hilliard, and Miss Bess Bozell.

Members of the society are elected by a committee including the general council, the sponsors of the three classes, and three members-at-large. The scholarship and activity records of each of the three classes are investigated since the election is based first on scholarship and second on school activities. The highest number that can possibly be elected is ten per cent of each class. A student elected to the Junior Honor Society holds membership for one year from the election. With the new election the next year, his membership automatically expires unless he is elected to the next higher chapter. For this reason it requires a continued effort to retain a membership in the society. The first election of students to the Junior Honor Society was held this year.

To the Undergraduates

They built a monument, not out of gold,
Nor marble, nor of any meaner stuff,
But of the sturdy growth of mind and soul,
Service and power that must mark their lives
In this great school. Three years they raised up walls,
Unseen or little noted, walls less fair
For splendor than for strength, walls straight and tall
And towering upward. And the fourth year came,
And seemingly by magic straightway fell
Over the rising summit a rich light
Which poured a glory like a waterfall
Of myriad colors down the somber sides.

O you, who do not go as we from here,
You, differing from us but in length of time
That these majestic walls, these corridors,
And every well-loved room between the two
Have nourished us, to you the leadership
Passes in turn and thence will pass again,
Made greater by your growth. But this is truth:
That on the morrow you will face no task
More noble than today's of which the work
Was but the laying of a base too firm
To totter in the wind, the building up
A firm foundation, the erecting walls
Through years of time, the making of your growth.
A thing well worthy that the glorying light
Of leadership hang over it. And you,
With whom we part, knowing that in the cause
Of learning and of Central you will strive
Your uttermost—for this we honor you.

The light of leadership passed with the year
And overhung a newer workman's craft;
Shedding its splendor, but the structure stood.
Not a day's glory but of four full years,
Each indispensable, the monument.

CLASS of 25! What memories will that title bring back in future years! Memories of our long gone, but not forgotten "Freshie" days when, as mere infants, we used the wrong stairway or wandered over the dear old building looking for rooms that never were and never will be, or when we un-successfully sought for someone from whom we could obtain those mythical elevator tickets.

Memories of our experiences as second-year classmen, a little proud, perhaps, of the fact that we were Sophomores.

Memories of this, our Junior year, which finds us gazing down in un-mitigated scorn upon the other undergraduates and thinking ourselves a little more learned than they. And, indeed, these memories of our Junior year, when we were well represented in girls' and boys' athletics, in school clubs, and on the "A" list, might seemingly be the brightest of all.

But not so, for our Senior year, not yet a memory nor an actuality but a glorious promise, will bring us more pleasure and honor than we or the rest of the school have yet dreamed of. Soon it will be our turn to hear the faculty say, "This class is the best yet."

It needs must be, since he lingers there.

Toasts to the Freshmen

CLASS of Twenty-Seven,
You are the last of those
Whom we shall remember,
May the splendid Purple of our victories
Mean more to you than superiority,
But the loyalty of staunchest patriots,
Even though defeat;
May the White of pure sincerity
Spell for you the inspiration
To high resolve,
And goad you on to nobler pinnacles;
And may the blended colors
Of the Purple and the White
Instill in you allegiance firm,
And truth and honor,
That we and all Central
Shall be proud of you.

Class of 1927

Sponsors

Mrs. Carol Marhoff Pitts  Miss Gayle M. Phillips
Gilbert E. Barnhill    Mrs. Grace Holmes McManus
Miss Amanda Anderson   Miss Elvera A. Johnson
Miss Carrie O. Brown

With due humility for our humble station in the ranks of Central high, but with conscious pride in our ability to uphold the traditions of the school, we proclaim ourselves the class of 1927.

Freshmen we are, with all the customary blunders to our credit, as well as penalties paid in full! However, we harbor no resentment but feel, rather, that the upper-classmen have earned our admiration for having “lived through” the same thing themselves.

By now the greenness has worn off (although they won’t admit it); things no longer seem so “different” or studies so difficult. Life has assumed normal proportions and with this adjustment comes the knowledge that we are a truly important part of the school. In us lies the hope of 1927. We have a record to make during the next three years.

The outgoing class has our highest regard. The cause for which it “fought and bled” we will carry on, and will strive to make the class of 1927 one of the most notable in maintaining the honor and dignity of good old Central.

—Herbert Senter ’27
The Regiment

ITH the largest enrollment, the greatest interest, the best discipline, and the most co-operative corps of officers in its history, the Regiment has this year staunchly supported all other school activities, decisively proving itself the "backbone" of the school.

The superior qualities of leadership taught by the Military Department are exemplified in the Commandant, F. H. Gulgard, who has so successfully piloted the Regiment the past four years. His unassuming manner, keen foresight, knowledge of human nature, and pleasing personality are characteristics which the cadets admire and strive to attain.

The activities of the Regiment during the past year have been numerous as it managed the Road Show, handled the ticket sales for the events of various organizations, and marched in six parades. The blue-gray shirts, West Point caps for the officers, and the guideon, a small banner carried by the right guide of each Company, have been added to the equipment. The Band, which has offered splendid service in parades, athletic events, and mass meetings, placed third in a contest in which it competed with bands of almost professional ability.

The privates, who make up the bulk of the Regiment, have shown exceptional ability in drill, a fine spirit of discipline, regularity in attendance, and an active interest in Non-Com drill. Their excellent Company spirit has brought the race between the Companies for the Flag to a close and heated contest.

The great success of this year's Regiment is due in a large measure, however, to the efforts of the officers. They have demonstrated a genuine knowledge of military tactics in producing the best drilled Companies the Regiment has ever possessed; they have raised the discipline and morals of the enlisted men to a higher level, by means of their own spirit of Company competition. They have not only possessed qualities of leadership but have exemplified these qualities in leading their subordinates.

The officers hope that the climax of perfection reached by the Regiment this year may not be its final climax but that this organization will maintain the standard it has set and, having profited by mistakes of former years, steadily increase in efficiency and quality.

The Band

Captain—Rollin Barnes
First Lieutenant—Sherman Pinto
Second Lieutenant—Paul Baker
Second Lieutenant—Harvey Pinto

The Central High School Band! That familiar name has endeared itself to every student in Central, to the Regiment, and to the entire city of Omaha.

To the present instructor, Mr. Cox, the school owes its respect and praise for what the band has accomplished in recent years. He has made of it a well organized body composed of students intent on playing the game squarely. He has made of it a school spirit circle which supports all activities to the tune of "Omaha." A word of praise should also be given to Mr. E. E. McMillan, the father of the band, for his wonderful co-operation in helping it win for itself a worthy name.

No small honors are those which the Central High School Band has earned. Although it can win no metals or flags on the day of "Compet," it has the distinction of being one of the most important factors in drill. It has set itself a standard in having the cleanest tents at camp. Last year it was presented a banner by the Y.M.C.A. for winning the most first places in inspections.

The Non-Commissioned Officers' Club was organized by Lieutenant Colonel Walter Key during the year 1922-23 to facilitate the training of the Junior officers. The intricate movements in military tactics are taught the non-coms at weekly drills first, better enabling them to perform the duties of their office. During the past two years the N. C. O. C. has proved an indispensable factor in the success of the Cadet Regiment.

—Edgar C. Bleick '24.
THE REGIMENT
Road Show

THE curtain of the Tenth Annual Road Show rose with seven representatives of the Cadet Regiment saluting to the patriotic strain of the national anthem. “The Seven Musketeers” presented one of the finest exhibitions of drilling that has ever been displayed at Central. The drill was composed of excerpts from Butts manual and a few bayonet exercises.

“Glimpses From the World of Art” was in a class by itself. Never before has such a difficult thing as making living pictures been attempted in a Road Show Act, but it was beautifully done.

Lady Luck in “Assorted Chocolates” left the audience breathless with laughs. What shivers ran down peoples’ backs when Cowpuncher Russell Suhr swore he heard pistol shots, three of them. No doubt he is still swearing. That chicken sandwich was a little feathery. Bean pie? Scrumptious. And can’t you taste that sugar cane right in your mouth?

Didn’t know King Tut was living, did you? No one did until Reuben Krogh appeared in the “Golden Doom.” DeLoss Schmid would never have dared to use the King’s crown for a hoop in the old days. The way that lightning flashed and that thunder roared was “superslobgoptious.” Well, the stars have spoken.

The Gym Club was clever and entertaining in its “Features from the Dance.” They taught the audience a new way to play Mah Jong when the three Chinese maidens tripped in. The ferize, “Cycle of the Hours,” was a thing of genuine beauty and art. The “Story of the Glove,” a dance duet, was delightfully enacted by Dorothy Rutherford and Faye Williams.

The Philharmonic Four, consisting of Beth Leidy, Sunshine Noah, Elizabeth Paffenrath, and Jean Borglum, carried the audience away with their program.

“The Captain of the Gate” was presented by the Cadet Officers’ Club with all the marks of professionals. No one could help but admire the courage and fearlessness of Hugh Talbot and his men, bringing upon themselves a tragic death for the sake of their country.

“They tumble yet they do not fall.” This can well be said of “Jimmy” Hamilton, John Staley, and William Reed, for the tumbling they did in their ten minutes of acrobatics. Mr. Reed may well be proud of this number.
“Dessert Frappe!” Sounds like something to eat, doesn’t it? Well, it was quite a mixture but it was good. The opening dish was served by Baker’s Omahans, who scored the hit of the show. “‘Tis rumored that Miss Towne’s engaged, Hello! Hello! Hello! Miss Holmes is our blushing bride, Hello! Hello! Hello! Zip is our favorite, Hello! Hello! Hello!” I should say he is.

“Dirty hands, dirty face.” No, they weren’t either, but that’s what Koxes Kickers said anyhow. Bill Johnson talked to us with his feet, and then we “Lingered Awhile.”

Kerschner took his usual role as the “Sheik” so naturally that you would have thought he really did have a girl for each month in the year. We surely felt sorry for Jack’s predicament when he sang

“I lose my January merry maid at New Years,
And when the February furries melt away,
I lose my breezy girl and arch
Who worshiped me through March.
My showery girl for April,
And my flowery girl for May.
I lose my rosebud girl
Who loved me through the June days.
My very independent lady in July.
And August one so warm.
In September like a storm,
And my brown October maiden,
Oh so shy!
My November lass who cheered.
And December still a dear—
Oh, I lost a girl for each month in the year.

Well, that’s the way it generally goes; so, dry your tears and cheer up, doggie. Don’t be blue, ‘cause the mince meat man will soon get you.

ATHLETICS
Coaches and Managers

Mr. Gilbert E. Barnhill
James Musgrave
Mr. Andrew Nelson
Mr. J. G. Schmidt
Clement Clark

Mr. Louis N. Bexten

Equipping, financing, and training winning teams has this year been the strenuous but successful task of five faculty members and two students. Mr. Bexten and Mr. Barnhill assisted Mr. Schmidt and Mr. Hill, the regular coaches. Mr. Nelson handled finances, and Clement Clark, assisted by James Musgrave, freshman, held the position of Athletic Manager.

Mr. Schmidt proved his ability as a football coach last year by turning out one of the best teams Central has ever had. The track team was his third consecutive winning state team.

The success of Mr. Hill’s basketball team, which was the runner-up in the state tournament, must be attributed to the coach. Mr. Hill also coached a winning baseball team.

Class teams in football and basketball were coached by Mr. Bexten and Mr. Barnhill. In addition, the former helped with the training of the baseball team, and the latter had charge of the tennis players.

Through the efforts of Mr. Nelson, Central men had the best uniforms available. Mr. Nelson also had charge of the golf tournament and picked the team that would represent Central.

Clement Clark, the first junior to hold the position of manager, and James Musgrave ably carried on the work of managing the team.

Past, Present and Future Athletics

As the school year closes Central athletes stop to look back over the athletic year to consider what they have done, and what they are going to do.

Football season has long since passed, but it is pleasing to recall some of those memorable battles on the gridiron. Central accomplished what was thought impossible when, by means of the stellar work of the whole team, she defeated Lincoln 27 to 3. With Captain Howell, Marrow, and Robertson doing some of their best open field running, Lincoln had no show. The defeat by Tech was due largely to the fact that the team had reached its climax against Lincoln, and two such games as Lincoln and Tech within a week was too much for them.

Graduation will not injure Central's team as much this year as usual. Oliver, Greenberg, Robertson, Marrow, Egan, Muxen, Gorton, Clarke, and Thomas will be back. Percival, Fetterman, Lawson, and May will be lost, but there is a possibility that Blue Howell will return. Altogether Coach Schmidt will have a well-trained crew for next year.

Basketball, while the playing season did not seem so successful, was gratifying to say the least. The Central team broke about even on the scheduled games, and at the Tournament went into the finals. They exhibited a fine brand of basketball and good sportsmanship, but they went under to Creighton by the score of 20 to 9. Even though they did not win the cup the showing made was to their credit. Graduation will take two of Central's stellar guards, Lawson and Gerelick, leaving their positions open for new material. She will also lose Church, Forcade, and Fetterman, forwards. This leaves but three veterans, Marrow, Robertson, and Horacek.

The track season has been very successful so far, Central having won every meet which she entered. As a preliminary to the State meet the team won the Council Bluffs meet with ease. At the State meet they were once more crowned State Champs. Marrow, Solomon, Thomas, and Robertson contributed heavily to the score column. Central also won the Medic Relay meet, which was not run on a point basis but as a team. Central's team was highest in the field of entries.

In baseball Central has won three and lost two games so far. Graduation will hit the team fairly hard this year as it will take Tollander, their crack baseman, Jorgenson, pitcher and short stop, Morris and Delong in the outfield. This will leave Bleicher at catch, Glade at pitch, Horacek at first, and Liley at second. There will be little difficulty, though, in filling the empty berths next year as there are many who are capable of stepping in to fill any vacancy.

THOUGH Central's team failed to grab the state honors on the grid-iron during the past season, followers of the pigskin sport will agree that Coach Schmidt produced a team which will long be remembered. Her ancient rival, Tech, defeated her in the final game.

The men who carried Central through six victories were Edward Howell, captain; Robertson, Marrow, Muxen, May, Oliver, Greenberg, Gorton, J. Fetterman, Percival, Lawson, Thomas, and Egan. These thirteen men received "O's" for their creditable work and constant toil in their attempt to bring to Central the championship.

Central will miss four letter men, Percival, Lawson, J. Fetterman, and Thomas, by this year's graduation, while coach Schmidt will build his 1924 team around Howell, Robertson, Marrow, Muxen, May, Oliver, Greenberg, Gorton, and Egan.

The crowning feature of this year’s basketball season was the showing made at the state tournament by the team. Doped to lose every game it played, the team battled and fought its way into the finals Saturday night. The final game for the state championship was played against Creighton before 10,000 spectators, who witnessed Central go down to defeat by the score of 20 to 9.

The season was not unsuccessful. Statistics show a total of 315 points by Central against 293 points made by the opponents, Nebraska City, Technical, Fremont, Sioux City, Lincoln, Hastings, South Omaha, and Council Bluffs.

The squad of regulars that made up this year’s basketball team consisted of “Wally” Marrow, “Manny” Robertson, Frank Horacek, “Vint” Lawson, Phillip Gerlick, Ralph Church, Porter Forcade, and “Jess” Fetterman. The mainstays on the team, Marrow and Lawson, landed their much desired berths at forward and guard, respectively, on the all-state team.

Central will lose five regulars by graduation, “Vint” Lawson, guard of the past three seasons, and his running mate, Phillip Gerlick, Ralph Church, Porter Forcade, and Jess Fetterman. Horacek, Robertson, and Marrow will return next season to fight for the championship.

—Ward Percival ’24
Reserves and School Tournament

The football and basketball reserves have had an active season. Champion over all the city high schools was a fitting title to go to Central’s well-balanced, hard-fighting football reserves. The basketball reserves did their share by helping the first team on to victory and were also entries in the Intra-school Tournament.

The strong South eleven received a 6 to 0 drubbing from Coach Bexten’s gold-jerseyed second-stringers in a tight contest in the mud. Tech fared little better, bowing to Central 27 to 0. The fast Creighton team, however, proved a stonewall on defense, and Central played it to a scoreless tie. The snappy Lincoln reserves spoiled Central’s record by steam-rolling an over-confident team to a 19 to 0 victory. By playing fast, consistent football, the Nebraska Deaf team also defeated the reserves 21 to 0.

The basketball reserves, men who did not participate in enough first team contests to win their O’s, fitted in nicely whenever they were given a chance to play. The excellent fight and scrap which the reserves gave at all times proved a big factor in the first teams’ success during the year. Three regulars were members of this year’s state runner-up team, and with these fighting subs to choose from, Central should be sure of another good year on the hardwood floor. Tolland and Drozda graduate, but Bleicher, Egan, P. Fetterman, Thomas, Solomon, Clarke, and Cheek will be back next year.

The Intra-School tournament was one of the most interesting features of the basketball season. The teams were classified into two divisions with a playoff for the championship at the end. Much interest was created, and a large crowd attended all games. The strong entries consisted of the “O” Club, Reserves, Long Tigers, Seniors, Independents, and Peps. Percival, ineligible Purple center, playing under the colors of the “O” Club, was high-point man of the tournament with 88 counters to his credit. Thomas, the Long Tiger star, was next on the score sheet with 46 points. The well-balanced Senior team, playing fast, consistent basketball, won the tournament.

FRESHMAN TEAM
Inter Class Debate

The Seniors copped the inter-class meet by piling up 65 1-3 points to their nearest competitors, the Juniors, 49 1-2 points. Thomas, senior, won the individual honors by nosing out Marrow, junior. J. Fetterman, Lawson, Howell, and Kinsey were also heavy point winners for the seniors. while Marrow, Solomon, Robertson, and Egan proved to be the best bets for the juniors. The Sophomore points were made by Jones, Lepecie, and Turner.

The meet tended to give Coach Schmidt a lineup on the men.

The summary:

- 60 Yard High Hurdles—Thomas, senior, first; Marrow, junior, second; J. Fetterman, senior, third; Kinsey, senior, fourth. Time 8 3-5 sec.

Council Bluffs Relays

THE Purple cinder path artists ran true to form, taking most of the places in class "A" in the first annual Council Bluffs relays. Coach Schmidt’s men captured firsts in three of the special events. Marrow won the broad jump and high hurdles, while Jones broke the tap in the 100 yard dash. The mile and half mile relays were also taken by the Centralites. They lost the 440 yard relay because the baton was dropped.

In the winning of this meet Central triumphed over two of its deadliest rivals, Abraham Lincoln and Technical high.

The summary and results:

100-yard dash—Jones, Central, first; Solomon, Central, second; Miller, Clarinda, third. Time, 10 1-5 seconds.

Mile relay—Central, first (P. Fetterman, Turner, Comine, J. Fetterman); Abraham Lincoln, second; Fremont, third. Time, 3:47 4-5.

Sprint Medley, one mile—Abraham Lincoln, first (Perkins, Shepherd, Murphy, Boyer); Tech, second; Fremont, third. Time, 3:54.

Shuttle relay—Fremont, first (Henddon, Cottrel, Gray, Paul); Abraham Lincoln, second; Central, third. Time, 29 5-10.

880-yard relay—Central, first (Solomon, Lepecier, Marrow, Jones); Fremont, second; Abraham Lincoln, third. Time, 1:38 4-10.

Pole Vault—Mynster, Tech, first; Clifton, Abraham Lincoln, second; Kinsey, Central, third. Height, 10 feet 11 inches.

Broad jump—Marrow, Central, first; Shepherd, Abraham Lincoln, second; McClure, Sioux City, third. Distance, 21 feet 11-2 inches.

High jump—Workhaven, Sioux City, first; Mann, Abraham Lincoln, second; Marrow, Central, third. 5 feet, 8 1-2 inches.

120-yard high hurdles—Marrow, Central, first; Bradbury, Sioux City, second. Time, 0:17 flat. Kinsey of Central disqualified for third.

State Meet

For the eighth time Central brought home the state track championship when Coach Schmidt's men won the State Meet at Lincoln on May 10, by scoring twenty-nine points to Hastings twenty-three and one-fifth.

Thomas was high point man with a first in the high hurdles and a first in the shot put. Solomon surprised the fans by breaking the tape in the one hundred yard dash. Marrow came through with a first in the broad jump, while the rest of the points were made by placing consistently in nearly all the events.

Summaries in Group III.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Thomas, Omaha Central; second, Roland, Beatrice; third, Fleming, Lincoln; fourth, Hann, Grand Island. Time, 16 4-5 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by Solomon, Omaha Central; second, Coffey, Hastings; third, Jones, Omaha Central; fourth, Hann, Grand Island. Time—10 7-10 seconds.

Javelin throw—Won by Roland, Beatrice; second, Root, Arnold; third, Nevens, Fairfield; fourth, Beckord, Waco. Distance, 144 feet.

High jump—Won by Fleming, Lincoln; second, Roland, Beatrice; third Albro, Scottsbluff; fourth, Greer, Columbus; Greuter, Hastings, and Raue, Kearney, tied. Height, 5 feet 7-12 inches.

The first game of the season against Abraham Lincoln was a reversal of last year's contest, the Purple team winning by a five to two score. "Heinnie" Glade was the main show in this game, as he struck out twelve men and made the majority of the hits.

Creighton was the next victim to fall before the Purple and White, the "Blue Jays" losing by a nine to six count. Again "Heinnie" Glade was pitching stellar ball. Dave Bleicher proved to be the batting sensation of this game with a triple, double, and single out of four times at bat.

Winning two games in succession was too much for the Central squad, however, and they proved this by losing the next two games; first to South 6 to 4, and then to their old rivals, Tech, by a 4 to 1 count. Many errors in both of these games were responsible for the Purple diamond mens' defeat.

Coach Hill's men, in one of the closest games of the year, won the last game from Creighton by a 1 to 0 score. Glade proved his superiority on the mound for Central by wiffing twelve of the Creightonites.

In the remaining games of the season, if Central succeeds in beating South and Tech and Tech loses one other game, she will have the pennant.

Abraham Lincoln may want to play the postponed game that was to have been played earlier in the season, and, if they should defeat the Capitol Hill nine, the chances for another banner to hang in Omaha's trophy case will be lost.

Among Central's athletic teams this year is an organization representing one of the most popular and one of the most scientific of sports, namely golf. For the first time Central high school has been represented by a golf team which is composed of the most efficient players found within the Purple ranks. The ability of these golfers was brought out in the annual tournament held at Central.

John Reed, Karl Mailand, Charles Chadwell, Robert Johnson, Caroll Young, Jack Pollard, and Stanfield Johnson composed the team. In sharp competition they showed their ability superior to that of the other fifty participants in the tournament.

The first match of the Purple golfers was with South, other matches were with Lincoln and Tech. Four of the seven members of the team participated in each match and the course in each case was 18 holes.

Nearly the entire 1924 team will again wield the golf sticks for Central next year.

—Bennie Morgan '24.
Tennis

CENTRAL for the first time this year has been represented by a tennis team composed of three players, Ralph Church, Paul Fetterman and Joe Clenegan, who were selected for the team by Mr. Barnhill, who has charge of tennis.

The first matches in which the Purple racquetees participated were those of the State tennis tournament which was held at Lincoln. In the singles Church went to the third round where he met his fate at the hands of Calvert, York racquet bearer 7-5, 6-8, 6-4. Fetterman was eliminated in the initial round of the fray when Buckley of Creighton Prep took his measure by a 6-4, 6-2 count. In the doubles Central went to semi-finals where they met their superiors in Creighton Prep. The Prep men composed of Deising and Buckley defeated the Centralites, Church and McClellan, 6-1, 6-1, and then won the state doubles championship from York 6-4, 6-4.

Besides the tournament matches in Lincoln, the Purple trio met Creighton Prep, present champs, Tech, and South. Prospects for success in 1925 are bright.

—Bennie Morgan '24.
DAVID BLEICHER
"EGG"
Famous for his wonderful line on the basketball floor as well as behind the bat on the ball team.

ARNOLD CISLER
"SIS"
Only consistent practice made him the diver he is today. "Sis" may be a deep sea diver if he continues to progress as well in the future as he has done so far.

CHARLES CHADWELL
"CHAD"
A sophomore and an out-fielder on the baseball team. He is nearly as good as Fug Griffin with the bat and when in the field can catch anything that looks like a ball.

RALPH CHURCH
"SCHLITZ"
One of the twins on the basketball team and a fighter from start to finish. A Milwaukee man and a strong supporter of Central’s teams.

JIM DAVIDSON
"GUS"
A regular duck in the water. Jim made his letter in the tank, tried hard to duplicate in track, but did not quite make the grade.
RALPH De LONG
"UNCONSCIOUS"

Ralph is a second Babe Ruth with the bat and an out-fielder that promises to enter the big league some day. This is his second year with the baseball team and Central loses a good sport as well as a consistent player when he graduates this June.

WILLIAM EGAN
"WILLIE"

Bill made his letter in football as the pilot of the team last year. His mile run in track shows his characteristic grit and "never say die" power. Willie enjoyed catching Zust, Tech's halfback, on the one yard line more than anything he has ever accomplished.

JESSE FETTERMAN
"MUTT"

Central loses a real track man when Mutt graduates. A three letter man and good in all three fields. A 440 yard man that can go the distance even though he is all in. Grit will make Mutt a great man some day.
PORTER FORCADE
"O'LEARY"
"Peter" played some excellent basketball during the past season. Being small, he was able to wiggle out of many an opponent's way and cage the ball.

PHILIP GERELICK
"JOHNSON"
Through Phil's guarding many games were saved in the basketball season. He is a man who spends most of his time on the gym floor and who plays a good game.

HENRY GLADE
"HEINIE"
Central should be proud of this man as he has pitched the baseball team to many victories as well as played football and basketball.

DONALD GORTON
"CLANCY"
An end who can take the knocks and still get up for more. Don may not be very fast but he has the willingness to stick with the game till the last whistle has blown. He made his debut in basketball by playing with the juniors last season.
ELMER GREENBERG
"CAKE"
Although only a sophomore, he played real football as guard. He enjoyed football even better than sleeping. Elmer promises to be one of Coach Schmidt's best line men for the team next year.

RICHARD HAYDEN
"DICK"
A sure bet for at least one first place in every meet and the main stay of the relay team. Dick is also an all state man and should prove to be a valuable man wherever he goes.

FRANK HORACEK
"HORC"
Frank made his first letter in basketball at the pivot position this year. He is also a good first baseman on the ball team and should prove to be one of the nucleus around which the basketball and baseball teams will be built next year.

EDWARD HOWELL
"BLUE"
Our last football captain and an all state man. A three letter man, football, track, and baseball, is Blue's record at Central.

WILBUR JONES
"MISSOURI"
Central's best dash man and a real whirlwind when he gets started. A 220 yard man who can usually be counted on to win his race. "Missouri" will be a second Paddock if he develops his running in the next three years as he has done in the past two years at Central.

HENRY JORGENSEN
"HEN"
Hen's a star baseball player. A second Willie Kamm and a consistent hitter. Hen can also pitch a good game of ball.
J. WHITNEY KELLY

"SHEIK"

A world famous diver and a joke teller, as his name will indicate.

VINTON LAWSON

"HERSHAL"

One of Central’s two four letter men in school. “Vint” played standing guard on the basketball team for three years and was justly rewarded with an all state position this year.

RAYMOND LEPECIER

"RAY"

A member of the relay team and a good weight man, who can throw the discus and heave the shot with quite some ability.

WALLACE MARROW

"SHEIK"

The second of Central’s four letter men. “Wally” is an all state man in both football and basketball. A hurdler who promises to be a record breaker soon. His future looks bright if athletics count for anything.
HARRY MAY “CAST IRON”
A steady man both in football and otherwise. A guard that could be depended upon to have his man out of the way when it is necessary. He is also a second Bill Tilden with the racket.

MARION MORRIS
“DUTCH”
A man who took John Riordan’s place at center field and was a Babe Ruth with the bat.

MATTHEW MUXEN
“BUD”
If he hits everything in life as hard as he hits the line in football, Bud will be a great man. One of Central’s best fullbacks and a runner on the track team.

FREDERICK OLIVER
“FRITZ”
“Fritz” played his first year at the pivot position on the football team and proved to the public that he could take the knocks and come up for more.
WARD PERCIVAL
"GRANDPA"

Too old to play in his senior year but he made up for it in the two years he was able to compete. "Perc" was an all state end in his first year in athletics.

LESTER PRICE
"MERCURY"

"Luster’s" famous saying, "Feet don’t fail me now," will go down in history. A 440 yard man that cannot be beaten and a half miler that can leave them all in the dust. "Luster" is working hard to be eligible for football and track next year.

BARTLETT QUIGLEY
"QUIG"

A duck when he practices swimming, and a high point getter.

EMANUAL ROBERTSON
"RED"

"Manny" proved to be one of the best fullbacks that Coach Schmidt has ever had. He has made his letter in basketball also and promises to make a real thrower of the weights in track.

WELDON SOLOMON
"SOLLY"

Nearly as fast as "Missouri" and a consistent man on the relay team. A hurdler with a good reputation and another 220 man that can stay right with the best of them.
MARTIN THOMAS
"MART"
"Mart" enjoyed the football game against Lincoln this year better than being out with his best girl. An all state tackle and a man who will break a record in the throwing of the discus some day.

WILLIAM THOMAS
"BILL"
Bill is a fish in the water and can not be beaten in the 220 yard breast stroke. The captain of Central's winning 1924 swimming team.

HARRY TOLLANDER
"EVER READY"
His nick name applies at all times, as he can hold down the hot corner any time. Harry can also play basketball, but he had too much competition this year to attain a regular berth on the team.

BASIL TURNER
"BRUVER"
Basil made his letter in track last year and has duplicated the feat again this year. A hurdler and a four forty man who is feared. Basil has another year in which to show his stuff in football and basketball.
J. G. SCHMIDT
"PA"

"Coach" Schmidt put out as usual a winning football team. He is also responsible for this year's splendid track team.

FRED HILL
"ZIP"

To "Zip" goes the honor of putting out a state tournament team in basketball and an equally good team in baseball.
SOPHOMORE GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

VOLLEY BALL TEAM
Hockey Teams
The Girls' Athletic Association was organized in the spring of 1923 under the leadership of Miss Constance Platt for the purpose of promoting an interest in girls' sports, providing physical development, and enlarging the range of sports to include more than basketball. From the original Association has grown the O-Club which is composed of girls having earned their O's.

The constitution provides for a physical efficiency point system giving credit for attendance to gymnasium classes, posture, neatness, various forms of gymnastics, dancing, swimming, tennis, basketball, baseball, and field-hockey. For every twenty-five points that a girl has earned up to one hundred she is awarded a chevron, and for one hundred points she is awarded a purple "O," which are presented at specially called meetings.

A remarkable increase in enthusiasm for all kinds of girls' sports has been the result of the "O" Club. Two large volley-ball teams and two hockey teams were formed in addition to the four basketball teams, and the interest which the girls have shown in tennis is without precedent in Central high school. But the surest proof of the success of the organization lies in the fact that twelve girls, Lucille Gannon, Marian Griffin, Burrđine Jones, Eudora Jones, Victoria Kunc, Blanche McClure, Lois Reichenburg, Ruth Richardson, Irene Roseborough, Lila Showalter, Ruth Stewart, and Maxine White, have earned "O's" this year.

THE Gym Club, organized in 1912 by Miss Bess Dumont, then head of the Physical Training department, has steadily gained increasing popularity and influence in the school. Under the sponsorship of Miss Constance Platt, present head of the department, the club has given many stage productions, and has also taken part in performances given by other departments in the school.

Gym Club members formed the nucleus of Central’s part, “Summer,” in the pageant “The Enchanted Year,” which was given by all the high schools in the city, helped entertain the Lion’s Club at an All-Central talent program given for that organization, appeared at the University Club in a colonial dance, and gave “Features of the Dance” as one of the acts in the Tenth Annual Road Show. The club’s act in the road show has been an annual event for the past four years, replacing the exhibitions which were formerly given.

During the latter part of the year the girls coached games and meets at the various grade schools of the city. The work was so successful that a more extensive program in this activity has been arranged for next year.

Page Two Hundred Thirty-Two
Upon the abundant annals of fine arts
At Central, Time once more inscribes with pen
That flows pure gold, a year’s events, and we
Our record leave, writ with the deep, fond love
We bear our school and each uplifting force—
Art, drama, music, taken with the rest
That brings it nearer the supreme ideal
Of each of us. Proud in achievement we,
And proud of those who dare achieve, but how
Made proud? By the sheer joy and keen delight
Of gentle Beauty conquered by the arts.

On the fair page that we have passed we saw
The poster, as it were, that bids us on,
The work of art that summons us to look,
As we sit one more brief hour between dim walls
In a dark room, where captured Beauty
Acts her part upon a lighted stage. In ears
Made eager by the love of harmony,
Pretty refrains and merry melodies
Play softly to and fro; or, from a sphere,
Distant, ethereal, there seems to fall
A song divinely wrought, so pure the tones,
So full of majesty, so rich. And now
We see the actors, acting on the stage.
Who turn the world to weeping with their tears
And teach it how it best may dry its eyes
With laughter, winning us alike
By gentle humor set in singing lights
Or serious brow on somber stage. Anon,
Vanished the stage, the room with daylight lit,
Not what we thought it was, but a room filled
With busy students, pen or brush in hand,
Picturing on paper all we heard
Or saw upon the stage. And in delight
We wonder what great man may some day spring
From out their rising ranks or the rich ranks
Of those who chose the other arts. And so
The scene passes, and we in silence muse.

The Enchanted Year

COSTUMES of gorgeous loveliness and the blending of artistic colors contributed to bring the presentations of "The Enchanted Year," given before the members of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association on the evenings of November 2 and 3, to the highest expectations.

The production was a pageant of the passing year portrayed by the four city high schools. Each school represented one season—Central, summer; South, autumn; Technical, winter; and Benson, spring.

Miss Lena May Williams was dramatic director of Central's part and generally supervised the production of "Midsummer Eve." Miss Constance Platt was in charge of the dances. Wonderful grace and technique characterized the movement of each dancer. The dances of the Central performers were beautiful and were perfectly given. Originality was predominant in their charm. The dances of the Pucks and the Revellers were especially different and pleasing.
Never before have the dancers in a pageant presented by Omaha schools been so beautifully attired. The four seasons wore costumes of distinctive charm and loveliness. Summer wore peach colored satin, with filmy folds of cloudlike chiffon, and in her hair were flowers of peach satin. The Queen of Fairies was dressed in a sparkling gown of radiant white. The Attendant on Summer was garbed daintily in lavender and gold.

Besides the costumes there were various touches of the exquisite which added much to the beauty of the pageantry. The fairies carried wands with tiny electric light bulbs on the ends and flitted about like fireflies. The Revellers on the stairs waved lovely scarfs and clapped genuine castanets.

Central's part was as gorgeous and exquisite as it was expected to be. Helen Willis was lovely as the Spirit of Summer. Mercedes Fairfield, as the Attendant on Summer, captivated every audience with the wild abandonment and supple grace of her alluring dance. Faye Williams was dainty and sparkling as the Queen of Fairies.

Miss Floy Smith planned, designed, and made samples of Central's costumes. Miss Verda Williams, head of the Household Arts Department, generously turned over her department to the costume committee. Miss Autumn Davis, assisted by Rose Winthroub and Ruth Romstedt, attended to the dyeing of the scarfs.

Assistants in the various groups were Miss Kelly, Miss Morrissey, and Miss Fisher who supervised the actual making of the costumes. Miss Bentz, Miss Craven, and Miss Johnson were other members of the committee who helped in instructing the members of their groups.

—Eudora Jones '24.
ONE of the very newest organizations at Central is the Girls' Band. Under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Noah, former director of the Helen May Butler Military Band, forty-three girls have purchased instruments and have met twice a week to receive instruction in the use of them. All the usual instruments except the bassoon are represented in the band.

The girls made their initial public appearance in the parade which was held to boost the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Their fine work and attractive uniforms brought many favorable comments. The girls also played at a banquet given by the Chamber of Commerce and were so well received that they were invited to appear again during Merchants' Week.

The band uniforms, short purple capes over white blouses and skirts, were made by the girls with the aid of the Household Arts Department. Purple and white caps complete the costume.

With so much already accomplished, in spite of a late start, the girls' band is assured of a successful future.

The opera, "The Bohemian Girl," presented by the two Senior Glee Clubs under the direction of Mrs. Carol M. Pitts, head of the music department, and Miss Lena May Williams, head of the dramatic department, was without doubt the most difficult and best work ever attempted by the music department. The work of the choruses which furnished the largest part of the action was exceptionally fine.

Josephine Koory, bringing her charming voice and bewitching dark eyes to the role of "Arlene," made an appealing heroine. Jack Kershner as "Thaddeus" added to the laurels won in his former performances. The difficult part of the "Gypsy Queen" was played by Marjorie Jones whose beautiful contralto voice and deep dramatic understanding and interpretation made this role a tremendous success. Charles Steinbaugh made an interesting "Count." Volcott Swift as "Devilshoof," with Herbert Westerfield as "Florestine" to counteract him, did much toward providing the humor of the opera. The gypsy and pony dances in the opera were under the direction of Miss Platt of the Gym department and Ruth Rigdon.

Much credit goes also to the Stage crew whose ability to create was shown in the scenery of the opera, and whose loyalty was shown by their unceasing work before and during the performances.

The costumes of the entire cast were furnished by Oscar Lieben.

Junior Glee Club

In 1922 Mrs. Elsie Howe Swanson became the instructor of the Junior Glee Clubs. The Junior Girls’ Glee Club has grown from a class of thirty members to two classes which now contains one hundred and twenty students. The Boys’ Club now has forty members.

The second annual concert given May 2, 1924, was in every respect a credit to the school and showed that marked improvement had been made in this musical organization.

For the first time a glee club was organized in last year’s summer school. Several important programs were given by this group over Central’s radio, at the memorial service of the late President Harding, and for an Omaha church.

The officers for the clubs this year are as follows: Girls’ Glee Club, Second Hour: Frances Hendrickson, President; Alice Leslie, Vice-President; and Abarilla Winslade, Secretary and Treasurer; Girls’ Glee Club, Sixth Hour: Jean Borglum, President; Helen Strom, Vice-President; and Jean Sterling, Secretary and Treasurer; and the Boys’ Junior Glee Club, Third Hour: Norwood Woerner, President; Donald Shoup, Vice-President; and Neil Carmichael, Secretary and Treasurer.

A joint banquet for the Junior Clubs will be the closing feature of this year’s work.

THE orchestra, under the direction of Professor Henry Cox, is divided into two distinct groups according to the experience and ability of the players; the senior group, composed of thirty-one members, and the junior group, composed of fifty-seven members. The plan of student leadership of the orchestra was introduced by Mr. Cox.

The senior orchestra has responded readily to every request that has been made for its service either by the school or by outside organizations. The members have always displayed a fine spirit of co-operation and willingness to work at all affairs in which they have participated. During the past year they have furnished music for the "Enchanted Year," the C. O. C. Road Show, "The Bohemian Girl" opera, radio programs, commencement, senior play, debates, and naturalization meetings. In addition, a concert was given on May 19 by the senior group.

Under the capable and disciplined leadership of Mr. Cox, both orchestras have made rapid progress in their study of music.

Dramatic Review

Aside from its part in the major dramatic productions of the year, the Dramatic department with its one hundred fifty members has been engaged in a variety of activities, in the reproduction of an old morality play, in bits of character work and comedy, and in the charming art of original story telling.

The Expression IV class presented for the benefit of English VII and VIII students the morality "Everyman," an old story of the fickleness of Beauty, Discretion, Pleasure, and Strength, who abide by man only in his prosperity, and of the faithfulness of Good Deeds even after the call of Death. Vinton Lawson played the part of Everyman.

Russell Suhr's presentation of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address as part of the program of the patriotic mass-meeting at the Rialto, February 22, was an excellent bit of character work, a true picture of Lincoln in his outward un-gainliness and in his magnetic simplicity.

Action and A Pair of Lunatics were one-act comedies given by the Expression IV classes. Action, a play which lived up to its name, had a cast drawn from both faculty and students. Harry Gidinsky as a New York silk merchant and Vinton Lawson as the son who thought he could not go into his father's business because of a desire for "action" played the leading roles. Mr. Louis N. Bexten was a theater manager, Principal Masters the rowdy in the audience, and Mr. McMillan the friendly voice. Ramsay Chapman and Robert Whippleman were loft burglars, Marion Morris and Ralph Church, bootleggers, Albert Anderson and Paul Pederson, policeman, and Joe Drozda and Donald Gorton, prohibition officers.

An even more humorous production was A Pair of Lunatics in which Vinton Lawson and Virginia Worst took the parts of George Fielding and Clara Manners, respectively. These young people, attending a dance at an insane asylum, mistake each other for inmates.

The study of story-telling in the Expression I classes includes both the writing and the telling of original stories. A selected number were this year submitted to Grace Sorenson, editor of Every Child's Magazine.

BURSTS of laughter and prolonged applause marked the keen appreciation of the audiences which witnessed "The Man From Home" in the high school auditorium on May 16 and 17. The play which was presented by the 1924 senior class under the direction of Miss Lena May Williams, was dedicated to Miss Jessie Towne and Mr. E. E. McMillan.

The play opens with a dash of life and color in the cafe of the Hotel Margharita in Sorrento, Italy. The tinkling of soft Italian music and the clinking of glasses blend with the gay laughter of beautiful young women in brilliantly colored evening dresses and their handsome cavaliers in dress suits. The graceful Italian dancers with their tambourines and flowers lent atmosphere and color to this charming prologue.

The action of the play takes place at the Hotel Margharita in sunny Italy, the land of music and romance. In such a setting are found the beautiful young American heiress, Ethel Granger-Simpson, and her brother, Horace, who have been in Europe for the past ten years. They are with what appears to be very illustrious company: the Earl of Hawcastle, an Englishman, badly in need of money; his sister-in-law, Lady Creech, who is Ethel's chaperone; his easy-going son, the Honorable Almeric St. Aubyn; and their friend, the Countesse de Champigny, a Frenchwoman, who is trying to win Horace.

Lord Hawcastle and his accomplice, the flirtatious countesse, are scheming for Ethel's money through her alliance with Almeric. Daniel Voorhee Pike, the jade country lawyer, who is Ethel's guardian, comes to Europe to see his ward before she marries. Ethel seems to dislike Pike, not only because he refuses to consent to the marriage settlement of $750,000, but, too, because he presumes to think that sometime she will sing his favorite song, "Sweet Genevieve" for him.

When Pike refuses to consent to the settlement, there is danger of his being sent to an Italian prison by Hawcastle, who knows that he and his "common" German friend have concealed a Russian "brigand" in the hotel. But Pike learns that the "brigand" is really Ivanoff, a professor, who was sent to Siberia through the infamous plot of Lord Hawcastle and the Countesse, who is really Ivanoff's wife. Ivanoff's pardon is secured by the German friend, who is really the Russian Grand Duke, Vasili Vasilivitch, traveling incognito. Ethel breaks her promise to Almeric when she learns that she still is expected to bring a settlement when she comes into the family.

The curtain falls to the sound of Ethel's clear soprano voice, singing the old-fashioned strains of "Sweet Genevieve" to the incredulous and over-joyed Man from Home.

Instead of giving the customary gift to the school, members of the class gave a third performance of "The Man from Home" on May 21, to furnish badly needed funds to the school. The entire proceeds of this performance was the 1924 senior class gift to Central.

Art

THE Art department of Central high school consists of over one hundred and sixty students, and is one of which any school might be proud. This department is of long standing in the school; but not until several years ago did it approach its present size and importance. At the beginning of 1922, under Miss Tompsett, it had become so large that another teacher was needed. Miss Angood took up this work, and in September of the same year a second room, 439, was added to the department, and new lines of work were introduced.

A variety of courses are offered which range from the elementary work of Art I and II to the more highly specialized forms of design and craft problems. During the first semester of art, the elements of composition, color, and perspective are studied, and instruction in lettering given. For the more advanced students, there are courses in costume design, commercial art, cartooning, and a new course in history of art, called the Survey of Art. It includes at least three semesters and a possible fourth.

An outstanding feature of the department is its poster work. Posters have been designed for innumerable occasions, not only through the art department but also through the art club, the Greenwich Villagers. To members of the art department, also, is due great credit for O-Book work, Register cartoons, and other commendable work.

Another interesting phase of instruction, apart from school activities, is the craft work. This comprises leather work, batik, tie-dye, and the making of plaques, printed mottoes, and parchment lanterns.

The various types of work offered embrace numerous mediums, such as pencil, charcoal, crayon, water-color, India ink, and transparent and opaque show card colors.

The work of the department having been so indispensable to the school in the past, there is no reason why it should not be still more so in the future. The course is not purposed to turn out finished artists however; it is to instill in the student artistic appreciation and knowledge, knowledge that may be a background for future work and enjoyment.

THE Greenwich Villagers, named after the New York society whose purpose is to pioneer art work, was organized last year. Under the leadership of T. Albert Anderson, president, the Villagers have participated in school activities, taken charge of black-board advertising, procured exhibitions of landscapes by Augustus Dunbier and Robert Gilder for the school, and accomplished such achievements as the making of the large tie and dye curtain for the auditorium.

This spring a sketch club was organized under the auspices of the Greenwich Villagers in order that all students interested might have experience in outdoor sketching in the woods near Omaha.

These young artists have made marked progress toward efficiency and toward a high type of art. They have proved themselves worthy of the task of beautifying Central, and have succeeded in raising the standards of art work in the school.

ORGANIZATIONS
Past and Future

Those who live through an era of inactivity into one of progress derive a certain gain. They can feel the unsatisfactory nature of the old condition and appreciate the new. Their interest is fresh, animated. They are eager to put forth their fullest efforts in making better what is already good. Organizations, the outgrowth of a desire to specialize, are signs of progress.

Many of the old clubs, prominent among which were the literary and debating societies, were organized at the very beginning of the century, lived together for almost a score of years, and died after 1919. Throughout this period there were from fifteen to twenty-four clubs and societies at all times. The Demosthenian, the Webster, the Athenian, and the Lincoln Debating Societies, all for boys, were some of the oldest and longest-lived of the clubs. Although in 1916 the Laurel Debating Girls was organized, the more strictly literary societies, were most popular, among which were the Elaine, the Browning and the Margaret Fuller. Specialization in languages led to the early formation of Latin, French, and German Societies. A Booster's Club was organized in 1908. The Art Society made its debut in 1909. The year of 1912 and 1913 saw the formation of the Gym Club, a Racquet Club, and a Hiking Club. Lam Ron for girls taking normal training, a Red Cross Society and a Bachelor's Club were a few of the organizations of the latter part of the period. A few organizations such as the Glee Clubs, the Student Club, and the Lininger Travel Club have lasted to the present day.

So much for the old. In 1922, the new began. Clubs sprang up out of the work of all departments. The Reyna Spanish Club, Le Cercle Francais, the Engineering Society, the Mathematics Society, the Bachelor's Club, the Type Club, the Greenwich Villagers, and the Girls' Athletic Association all seem to revive the spirit of the dead societies. The past year has seen a larger and broader interest in the new clubs. They are gaining strength daily. It is for them to perpetuate the new Era.

Student Association

In the fall of 1912 the Omaha High School Student Association was organized to provide a regular and unfailing source from which all athletic debts could be paid. The previous custom of paying all debts from Central's share of the gate-receipts had been at best an uncertain and unreliable method. To the advantage of members of the organization, tickets were sold for a nominal sum very much below the aggregate amount for the athletic events of the season. In 1912, 660 tickets were sold. In 1913 the number of ticket-holders was increased to 693, in 1915 to 793, in 1916 to over 1000, 758 of which were students and the remainder faculty and outside members. During the school year of 1917-1918 a ticket-selling contest was held, at which time the enthusiasm of the student-body was sufficiently aroused to boost the sale of tickets to 1300. During the preceding year over 1800 tickets were sold. Accompanying the increase in the number of tickets sold was a marked increase in school spirit and pep, the students having learned that the teams need the backing of the entire student-body.

The fund raised at the beginning of the year 1914-1915 was not sufficient. Some of the students volunteered their services in presenting a vaudeville performance under the direction of Mr. Mills, the athletic coach, as a means of furnishing the deficiency. A third performance was necessary to accommodate all who wanted to see it.

The actual organization of the association consisted of a president, a vice-president, and a secretary elected by the members. In 1915 an advertising manager and a chairman of the reception committee were also elected. Other positions were added later so that at present there are, in addition to those previously mentioned, two members of the athletic board of control, and five cheer-leaders. Up to 1922 it had been an unwritten rule that only senior boys were eligible for the office of president. In that year, however, the rule was disregarded, and Virginia Pearce became the first girl president of the Student Association. This election was a real stride forward, as it included the girls in the actual management of the organization.

The Student Association has risen from an organization created for the purpose of raising money to one that is a powerful agency for generating school spirit and enthusiasm in everything Central undertakes.

The Student Council, organized in 1911 for legislative as well as executive purposes, was the forerunner of the present Student Control. The original success of the Student Council gradually weakened until in 1919 the organization dropped out of existence. About two years ago, Mr. Bexten, who was in charge of the halls, asked for a few boys to help him in his work, and out of this group grew the present Student Control with Mr. Bexten at its head. Members are now chosen for scholarship and executive ability.

The efficiency and effectiveness of the Student Control has been shown by the increased order of the school. Duties such as controlling the lunch line, keeping the halls quiet, and assisting library registration are assigned members by Mr. Bexten.

Following the rule of precedent, the Student Control has elected to membership ten juniors, who will give the organization its start in the fall of 1924.

Second Semester
Speakers' Bureau
THE Speakers' Bureau has successfully completed its third year of service to the school. Meeting in room 129 during the home room period each morning, a group of seventy students, selected through special try-outs, organized themselves into a body of polished parliamentarians. They studied public speaking and practiced it to such an extent that even the most frightened freshman member does not hesitate to speak before the other home rooms of the school. The Speakers' Bureau made drives for many different purposes: to arouse school spirit and to boost the sale of Student Association tickets; to interest the students in the inter-class and school debates; to promote the sale of tickets to all school performances; and to advertise the movie machine. Between the drives, the members found time to design and purchase a club pin, to hear outside speakers, to adopt a new constitution, and to select a mascot, "Speaky," a tiny dog, for whom a custodian was appointed.

The Speakers' Bureau this year has been a success in every way, and all indications show that it will continue its program of service to the school.

THE Student Club was organized nine years ago as part of the Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A., under the sponsorship of Miss Ethel Niermeyer. For a time Mrs. Margaret Richardson was sponsor and later was succeeded by Miss Louise Hatch, who came to Omaha as Y. W. C. A. girls' secretary. At first the club was composed of girls from all the classes of the high school, but three years ago, due to increase of membership, both Freshmen and Upper Student Clubs were formed.

The aims of the Student Club are to further democratic spirit in the school, to instigate a bond of union between Central's girls, to create a more womanly type of girl in Central high school, and to make Central a better place for everyone. The Big Sister movement, an outgrowth of the annual freshmen aid program, is a plan by which the upperclassmen take the incoming freshmen girls in charge and help them to feel at home in the high school.

Each year since its organization the club has sponsored an entertainment. This year a carnival, "A Night in Central," was given instead of the usual dramatic production. To carry out the idea in the name, various booths and other attractions represented familiar features of school life. The cafeteria, the gym, Miss Towne's office, the Dramatic department, the Household Arts department, the Weekly Register, the Biology department, the study hall, and the office were all burlesqued.

The fact that the Student Club is one of the few organizations which any Central girl may join has given it a popularity of which few organizations can boast. The freshmen now have seventy-five members, the upper classmen two hundred and twenty-five.

THE Central Committee, organized late in April of 1924, is the outgrowth of a contest held in February for the purpose of finding a good definition of school spirit. The committee consists of students recommended by faculty members as having the energy, the reliability, the love of their school, and the time free from other activities to carry out the plans of the committee.

The work of the organization is, fundamentally, the promotion of school spirit and the cleaning up of Central. Although each member is individually responsible for taking advantage of all opportunities to serve Central, subcommittees, the Outside Decoration Committee, the Inside Decoration Committee, and the Trophy Committee have been appointed to look after special phases of the work. Of the two Decoration committees, the former has in view as a possible project the beautifying of Central's lawn with flower beds, and the second is working out a plan for cleaning up the statues. The Trophy Committee has submitted to the Board of Education a request for new trophy cases, preferably to be built in at the east or west entrance. It also plans to hang all school pennants under glass in frames.

The Lininger Travel Club, organized in 1903 by a group of girls in the old Omaha high school, was named in appreciation of the services of Mr. George W. Lininger, founder of the Lininger Art Gallery and the first Omahan to travel extensively. Mrs. Florence Lininger Haller, daughter of Mr. Lininger, and a friend of the organization from the beginning, has placed the Lininger Art Gallery at the girls' disposal. Mrs. F. W. Thomas is now the patron of the club.

Charitable work, and social occasions are provided for in the yearly program of the Club. During the year a Thanksgiving basket was donated to a poor family, a program was given at the Old Peoples' Home, and a Christmas tree was decorated for the Child Savings Institute. A freshman party to enroll new members and a clever initiation party were held at the beginning of each semester. The most important social affair was the mother and daughter banquet given with the intention of establishing a precedent.

The Reyna Spanish Club, founded in the fall semester of 1922 by Mr. Reyna, has endeavored from the first to promote a sympathetic understanding between Spanish and English speaking people. The work of the club has been, therefore, to present all phases of Spanish life, including the literature, customs and traditions, the history, and the art in a manner interesting to those students who have already shown their desire to acquaint themselves with Spanish speaking people by studying their language.

A part of each program is usually presented in Spanish. The members of the club have participated in Spanish plays, have told legends, have read biographies of great Spanish authors and artists, and have started the study of the history of Spain. The club recently adopted a system by which each member graduating from Central high school who has attained the required number of merits is to be awarded a silver ring bearing the emblem of the Reyna Spanish Club.

Le CERCLE FRANCAIS was founded in February, 1923, by a group of students who were interested in the furthering of the French language and literature at Central high. Madame Chatelaine and Miss Bozell, instructors in French, were chosen sponsors. Enthusiasm grew quickly, and by the end of the year the club began to make its influence felt.

This year, with a membership of over seventy-five, Le Cercle Francais has taken an active part in school affairs. Many interesting programs, including several lectures by Madame La Contesse de Toqueville and a talk by Miss Phelps on her trip to France, have been presented at the meetings. At the carnival, A Night in Paris, given at the city auditorium under the auspices of the Women’s Service League, the club attended in a body. On April 29th Le Cercle Francais presented La Grammaire, a comedy in one act by Labiche. The proceeds of the play went to the support of the French orphan whom the club adopted at the beginning of the year.

This was the end of a very successful and prosperous season for the French Club. It is hoped that the organization will continue to show the steady growth and advancement which has marked her course this year.

THE Engineering Society, organized last year for the purpose of aiding students in preparing themselves for a technological profession, has been a worthwhile asset to Central high school. To its persistent efforts must go the credit for starting Central's Radio Station, and the rapid progress of KFCZ is in part due to the co-operation of many of the members.

The Society opened the season with a banquet and installation of officers at the Central high school cafeteria. Mr. C. D. Robinson, utility expert and supervising engineer in charge of the city gas plant, gave the principal address of the evening. At different times during the school year, the society has secured other speakers who have addressed the members on the various phases of the engineering profession, and the regular meetings have thus been made both interesting and educational.

In the coming year the old members hope to interest a greater number of boys in the study of engineering and thereby gain new members to take the place of the graduating seniors. This society also hopes to foster some technical displays and exhibits.

The Mathematics Society, having increased its membership to sixty, has, during the past year, successfully carried out its purpose "to broaden and to encourage the interest of Central high school in the history and study of mathematics." Through a series of talks planned by the program committee and given by members of the club, the philosophy and chronological history of mathematics has been studied. At an open meeting held in February, Mr. Woolery was presented with the organization's pin, which was, as he said, "the first club-pin I have ever owned." It is a graceful gold M including the three letters O. H. S.

"Co-operation with the mathematics department" has been the watchword of the club. Last September a slide-rule class was started by George Lorenz and has since met under Miss Ryan's supervision. During the year, explanations of Einstein's Theory of Relativity and common mathematical instruments have been made, while a number of mathematical fallacies have also been demonstrated and exposed.

R. CHATELAIN, debate coach at Central for the past four years, is the man responsible for Central's excellent record in the past season. Faced with the difficulty of having practically new material, only one experienced man being back, Mr. Chatelain built up a team that won the city and district championships. Mr. Chatelain is the driving force behind debate in Central, and through his untiring efforts the team won nine victories.

CENTRAL has had a very successful debating season. Coach Chatelain's championship team composed of six students, who at various times during the season represented Central, won eleven debates of the fifteen participated in and received for Central thirty-one decisions out of a possible thirty-nine. They captured the silver loving cup offered by Mr. W. E. Reed, President of the Board of Education, to the city debate champions; in the Lincoln-Central debate they gained a leg on the Amherst cup which must be won three times in succession before it may be permanently kept; and by defeating Plattsmouth, Luther Academy, South, and Tech they won the district championship and the right to represent Central in the debate tournament held in Lincoln May 8, 9, 10.

David Sher, the only experienced debater, established his reputation as a fiery and eloquent debater more firmly than ever. During his four years at Central he has taken an active part in all inter-class debates, was on the sophomore team which won the school championship, and this year coached the senior school champion team.

Sam Minkin, David Fellman, and Gerald Vasak, all three of whom have a record in interclass debates, had their first experiences on the school team this year. Sam's brilliant oratory and keen sense of humor made him a valuable asset to the team. With unerring logic and pleasing presentation, David proved his ability in several of the hardest debates of the season. Gerald, one of the strongest members of the school team, took part in the majority of the debates.

The two girl debaters, Helen Willis and Gladys Reynolds, made excellent records.

Senior Debate Squad

The debate squad has represented a real part of the successful debate season of this year. It has been not only a boosting organization, but also the every ready reserve supply from which at any time a splendid team might be drawn. Its steady support and fine spirit of competition were largely responsible for the team’s continued victories.

This “squad” method is a new one in training Central debaters. During the early part of the season, the students were divided into two groups; a Senior squad, composed of members with some training or experience; and a Junior squad, composed of those new to the work.

During the first semester, the inter-class debates occupied most of the time of the two squads. The organization at this time was loose and temporary, and meetings were held at irregular intervals of one or two weeks. The second semester saw the two organizations devolve into regular classes, Debate I and II, with additional meetings Seventh Hour, and on Saturdays. The positions on the team were secured by sheer superiority in debate. Thus every member was accorded much actual debating experience. Another operating principle worthy of note was the contribution of evidence which the squad made to the team. In this way the final presentation became the combined effort of all and not the work of one or two.

A public exhibition of the squad’s work was the banquet given the evening of the first district debate of the Nebraska State League. Its success resulted in the offer of the Reed cup by Mr. W. E. Reed, President of the Omaha Board of Education, for the city champion team. The event promises to be an annual affair.

—Gladys Reynolds ’24.
SPURRED on by the desire to develop prospects for the school team, the Junior Debate Squad carried out its years' program in a splendid spirit of enthusiasm and co-operation. A study of the fundamentals of debate and the presentation of short talks on current-event topics preceded the debate work.

The scheduled work began with a series of two-man team debates. The finals of this series found Harold Holtmeyer and Henry Hirsch champions, having won from Luther Munson and Fred Larkin by a 2 to 1 decision. Following this came the three-man team debates. Six students were chosen from the class to meet in a final debate for squad championship. Harold Holtmeyer, Henry Hirsch, and Elizabeth Halsey defeated Nathan Mandel, Robert Lampman, and Fred Larkin, thereby winning the championship.

The members of the Junior Squad have done fine work this year. This is especially true of Harold Holtmeyer, James Mason, and Charles Haas who have distinguished themselves by means of their argumentative powers, their deep thinking, and their efficiency in securing the best material.

—Robert Lampman '27.
Interclass Debate

WITH an unanimous decision to their credit in the inter-class debate finals, the seniors defeated the sophomores and emerged school champions for 1923-24. The question for debate was "Resolved: That the United States Should Further Restrict Immigration."

In the first forensic clash of the season, the seniors, upholding the negative of the question, won a 3-0 decision from the juniors, while in the second battle the sophomore negative team defeated the freshmen affirmative squad by a 2-1 score.

Sam Minkin and Gerald Vasak with Richard Johnson and Paul Hoffman as alternates upheld the honor of the senior class; James Hoyle and David Fellman with Lawrence Mollin as alternate represented the junior class; Mary Claire Johnson and Elizabeth Mills with Catherine Southard and Harley Moorehead as alternates made up the sophomore team; and Luther Munson and Robert Lampman with Leo Rosenblatt as alternate represented the freshmen. The debaters chosen from the school debate squad showed great ability.

This year the entire school has displayed keen interest in the inter-class debates, and the enthusiasm backing the four class squads helped to make the season a tremendous success. Inter-class debate is now firmly established as a part of the school program.

Journal of the Weekly Register

1886—I have come into existence through two boys, J. Wallace Broatch and Herbert Taylor. My four pages are printed at their home and issued alternate Thursdays at fifty cents a year.

1887—I have been enlarged to a monthly magazine, a twelve-page, bound pamphlet.

1889—My October number contains the Register's first illustration, an original cartoon. It is not signed by its ultra-humorous artist. It shows a supposed horse and dog, drawn in the Judy to Daddy-Long-Legs mode. Beneath it these words are scrawlingly printed:

"See the horse and the dog.
Is it not a nice horse?
See the horse laugh?"

I wager there is a story connected with that cartoon, one that this editor of mine will chuckle over for a long time.

1897—I have a new baby sister named the Annual. She is printed by the graduating Seniors.

1902-3—The Register Stock Company owns me. The students are the stockholders, at twenty-five cents a share, but I fear control is passing into the hands of a few. The Annual has two stockholders, members of the Senior class. They will sell their rights to two Senior successors.

1904—The faculty has taken control of me through an Executive Committee. My subscribers elect the Editor-in-Chief, Assistant Editor, Business Manager, and the Assistant Business Manager, who share in profits up to $450. The editor chooses the other staff members, subject to the approval of the Executive Committee. With quill spurs and the lash of words, these young pioneer journalists are making the Annual and me real school citizens.

1906—The first girl editor, Margaret Kennedy.

1922—I am now a weekly paper, put out every Tuesday by the newly organized journalism department. Entrance to the class requires the recommendation of one's English V teacher. Journalism I is newspaper training; Journalism II issues me every Tuesday at 5c a copy; $1.00 a year.

Miss Janouch, journalism instructor, chooses the heads of departments and the reporters; a committee of the faculty selects my editor and his assistants.

At the suggestion of Miss Burns the Annual was re-named the O-Book. Gradually it has come into the control of the entire Senior class.
1922-3—I am now a seven column newspaper. I took first place in the Better Publications Contest, Weekly Division, conducted by the Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity of the University of Nebraska. A silver loving cup is the award.

I have joined the Central Interscholastic Press Association.

The Omaha World-Herald has presented me a purple and white banner for winning the Journalistic State Championship for 1923, held by the Central Interscholastic Press Association at Madison, Wisconsin.

Agnes Dunaway, my star reporter, has won first prize for the best news story on student politics through a national journalism contest conducted by the American Boy magazine. The winning article, "Elliott Chosen President of Student Association in Hottest Election in Years," appeared in my October 3 issue. The award is a typewriter for my headquarters and a month's subscription to ten of the largest newspapers in the United States.

Fourth place in the tourney was given to the article, "Team and Students All Prepared for Tomorrow's Game," of the November 29 issue. This article was written in collaboration by Mary Fischer and Victor Hackler. Mrs. Weisendorff is instructor.

1923-4—My columns have been reduced to six—but I receive nationwide comment on their contents. Miss Elizabeth White, instructor, chooses her staff from the journalism class with the approval of a committee composed of Mr. Masters, Mr. McMillan, Mr. Woolery, Miss Towne, and Miss Taylor.

The February issue of The Scholastic Editor announces that Alice Hollander, one of my best reporters, has won a close second in the news story contest held by the Central Interscholastic Press Association. My issue of December 18 contains the prize article, "Central Senior Receives Prize for her Story." Alice is awarded a certificate stating the honor given my publication.

I have taken fifth place in the All Western Make-Up Contest sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Press Association, of which I am a new member. Seventy-two entered the contest, judged by Professor Martin of the University of Missouri.

1924—My co-workers and I hope for a linotype machine and a seven-column printing press. They would lessen my cost and I would be god-father to a printing class.

I am now an acknowledged school activity, and have reached my majority. I seek the fulfillment of these words: "Ye were but little at the first, but mighty at the last"—for Central.

HISTORY OF MANKIND

[Image of a cartoon scene with various characters and symbols, likely illustrating different historical events or milestones.]
Once upon a time there was a big black forest that stretched for miles and miles. (In fact, to tell the truth, the forest covered the whole earth.) Of course this was long before there were any humans.

Now right in the very center of this extensive woodland (it would be a nice game for the kiddies to argue over the exact center of the earth) there was situated a little community of monkeys. They were all happy, care-free little monkeys, and spent their days in swinging from the tree-tops, playing hide-and-go-seek, baseball, and other sports. That is, the little boy-monkeys did. The little girl-monkeys played house, and had each other into tea served in cunning little leaf cups which, like those of their modern descendants, were very pretty but didn’t hold anything.

Not a care did these monkeys have, not one shadow in their sunny lives. But one day, the great circus day, the soothsayer of the monkeys warned them that something unusual was going to happen. Naturally, they were all curious, and they all rushed to the meeting place as quickly as possible. From all directions, popping out from under low bushes, dropping straight into the meeting place from the branches above—big, tiny, talkative, silent, all excited they scrambled as fast as their arms and legs and tails could carry them. When they were all assembled, the old soothsayer got up and addressed them. He had been studying for a long time, he told them, on the mystery of the future which the stars revealed, and only last night he had reached an idea of what was to be. Of course at this point a great clamor broke out, and such a noise was made that the old magician could hardly go on.

At last, however, he quieted them and told them all about it. It was necessary, he said, for them to be “evolved.” At this dreadful-sounding, unknown word, a great chatter and babble arose.

The monkeys were in an uproar.

The soothsayer raised his hand and there followed a breathless silence.

“It means,” he said slowly, “that all this”—he waved his arms to include the whole forest—“must change. We must all become—humans!”

“What are humans?” asked an inquisitive little monkey.

“Well—well humans are people. You must learn to walk on your feet, never on your hands. You must live on the ground and forget the trees, and you must wear flowered bonnets and tight shoes, and make yourselves generally uncomfortable.”

“But we like our life as it is,” protested the monkeys. “We don’t want to be humans.”
"That makes no difference," they were told. "You have nothing to say in the matter."

The old soothsayer spoke truly. The next morning—lo and behold!—could this be the same place? There was not a glimpse of a monkey anywhere! What had become of the trees? Well—I declare! Do you know what had happened? Those little boy-monkeys (O, I forgot, they were just little boys now) what do you think they had done? You know from recent history what gallant gentlemen they always were, well, they were up early next morning and built a house for the little girls so they would have a place to live in!

It turned out to be an orphanage. Somehow—I don’t know where she came from, but there suddenly appeared on the scene a lady whose express purpose was to run the orphanage. So everything turned out beautifully. But the rebellious orphans hated any kind of rules so they decided to set out in a body and explore the world.

So the clever boys made a great big ship, and away they sailed. They discovered Europe and Africa and finally came to America. Like the true patriots they still are, they decided that America was the place for them. They thought that perhaps they would not have enough room to develop on the coast so they moved inward to the center of the country; here they founded a state in the middle of the land and a city which they called Omaha, and built their homes. I have forgotten to say that they left several of their members in the East for awhile in order that they might organize a government, draw up a constitution, name and design the different states in the Union—and, in short, put the nation on its feet.

In Omaha they put up a wonderful big building, and because it looked like a school, they decided to use it for that purpose. Thus was old Omaha High School originated. Of course they needed no grade school education so they all started in at Central high. In a surpassingly short time they had reviewed all the knowledge of the world and were ready to graduate. The little monkeys of long ago had never dreamed of becoming anything so superior as Seniors, and they all went around in a sort of daze their last year at school. You can hardly blame them. In all the world there is perhaps no other state as exalted as that of a Senior.

But—this is the funny part—on the last day when the graduates received their cards, and were parading around with their black gowns on and trying to look impressive, the combined pressure of civilization and intellect was so overwhelming for some of the boys that for pure joy they ran out and jumped over bushes and walked around on their hands.

Showing: THEY HAVEN’T CHANGED SO MUCH AFTER ALL.

June Prophecy

Life is made of gongs and bells,
Every gong a fate foretells;
Hearken then to every one;
Know the fame that we have won.

A gong clanged sharply.
It was the approaching street car.

"Get out of the way!" yelled the motor-man. Ralph Barris and Dale Lloyd were still working for the city—cleaning streets.
The bell tinkled clearly through the long corridor.
It was the door bell.

Helen Krug, matron of the Deaf and Dumb School, answered the ring. "I'd like to see Virginia Worst," said the girl in the doorway. "I'm sorry, they took her over to the school for the feeble-minded yesterday."

The gong clanged melodiously once again.
The curtain rose.

Kenneth Abbott stepped out upon the great stage of melodrama, a dagger brandished high, and the unmistakable seal of villainy stamped upon his physiognomy.
The bell rang twelve times.
It was midnight.

A fast and furious fight was raging between two young ladies. Gertrude Pollard hurled something at Bonney Brown who returned the blow with remarkable speed. Several girls gathered around them, gasping and shrieking. It was a fierce pillow fight.
The bell tinkled suddenly.
The office door opened.

Dr. R. A. Church, M. D., swung around in his easy chair to give his patient the once over. Above his door swung the motto: "The man who takes my medicine will never take any other."
Suddenly the clanging of the great gong changed to the tinkling of a little bell.
It was the telephone.

Melba's voice came clear and sweet over the wire. "Send me a dozen eggs and a porter-house steak for Mr. Howell."
The gong clanged again the single melodious note.
It was the fire alarm.

Spencer Benbow wrapped his lengthy legs several times around the fire pole and slid carefully into the driver's seat of the hook and ladder.
"Ding-a-ling," rang the bell.
Down came the elevator.

A typical little baby-doll, exercising a piece of Spearmint energetically between her bicuspids, swung open the elevator door. It was Rix herself.
Again the gong clanged.
The prize fight was on.

"Vint" Lawson, weak-kneed and starry-eyed, rose shivering from his $3.50 seat to watch the combat.
The gong clanged across field.
The steeple-chase was on.

Morris Okun sat dejected in the grand stand. He was broken-hearted. He had been rejected as a jockey—the poor boy was under-weight.
The gong clanged to call the crowd together.
It was to announce the baby-contest winners.

"Helen Pancoast leads the list for having the most babyish face. Helen Hartman the most babyish proportions, Dick Vette the most babyish talk, Ruth Grimmel the most babyish smile, Florence Seward the most babyish actions."
The great gong clanged again.
The monastery gates opened.

Ward Percival passed solemnly through with his fellow monks, his elegant robes trailing in the dust of the earth, and his still bald head gleaming in the sunlight.
The gong clanged a single note.
Closing time.

Frances Johnston closed her office desk. She was indeed deep in the stock markets.
Her speculation for the day had been concerned with oil wells, artesian wells, and Ted Wells.
Again the single clang of the gong.
It was the police patrol.

"Mutt" Fetterman stepped from the live man's hearse. Shining on his chesty front was an officer's badge—which he had just copped from the bull who now had him handcuffed.
The bell rang clearly from the operating room.
The nurse answered the summons.

Dr. Edmund Benson sharpened his knife and leaned over his patient. "Help me hold down this cat while I cut her whiskers," said the veterinarian.
Again the clang of the gong.
The train came to a standstill.
T. Albert Anderson got off and looked out upon the great city that he was to be the guest of. He stood for a moment contemplating its magnificent size and opportunity—then crept back under the caboose from whence he had come.

The bell rang a last warning note.
It was the four o'clock bell in the old school.

Porter Forcade, a broom in his hand and a dust cap on his head, called the janitors and janitresses to their cleaning.

The bell sang out its final note.
It was the tardy-bell.

Professor Fred Hill, D. C., at the head of the class in modern methods of dog-catching, called the roll.

Hugh Smith—Specializing in bull-dog collections.
Ralph Bergsten—Disposal after capture.
Ted Wells—Alley cun.
Paul Baker—Driver and general boss.

The tardy-bell rang in the room next door.
Professor Jessie M. Toune rose.

“Dorothy Rutherford, start building that wall. Katherine Allan, shake these dice. Alice Wixon, have you any wind? Margaret Davison, three bamboos for you. Oh, you girls will never learn how to play Mah Jong.”

The bell tinkled softly somewhere in the wilderness.

“It was a cow-bell.”

“Dutch” Morris’ voice rose clear and sweet above the tinkling bell. “Hey! Get thee for home, cows!”

The bell tinkled a commanding note.
It was the bell-boy’s bell.

“Say, where’s that pesky bell-boy?” yelled the clerk. David Sher poked his head around the circumference of a huckleberry pie. “Coming.”

The bell rang furiously.
It was the town-crier.

“Hear ye! Hear ye all! Helen Moore of Squeenduck, Mo., has used Sloan’s Liniment since childhood and is now able to walk.”

The gong clanged again.

The next attraction began.

Gladys Reynolds, the snake charmer, stepped into the ring. Several snakes coiled lovingly about her neck and waist.

The bell rang from the high seat of the bailey-hoo man.

The side shows were open.

Inside the tent, Russell Suhr, the famous “Shadow of a Chalk Line,” was hurriedly called on from the animal tent. “We gotta have a tent pole; the old one just broke.” “Good Gosh!” ejaculated the emaciated Suhr, “do I have to play tent pole again?”

The gong clanged loudly.
The police patrol stopped.

Jim Pollard, welfare board moral squad man, put his hand roughly on the shoulder of his culprit. “I arrest you, George Beal, for shooting dice on a panches board on Sunday.”

The bells tinkled sweetly with the music.
The cabaret was in full swing.

Out stepped the dancers, Ernestine Dunaway and Ruthie Bethards, tripping the light fantastic across the floor.

The bell of the organ grinder, Rollin Barnes, called out.

The crowd gathered.

“Hey, Sonny, will you play monkey for me?” asked the grinder of a freckled-faced, sunnied boy. Nick Amos came bashfully forward.

This time the bell tinkled again.

It was the door-bell.

Eudora Jones’ sunny head loomed up in the open doorway. “Madame I’m selling Golden Glint—the Crimson Hair Wash. I’ve used it all my life and have never known it to fail.” Miss Ann Peasall, standing on the threshold, rubbed her fingers thoughtfully through her streaked gray hair and replied, “Yes, I’ll take three gross.”

The bell tinkled sharply.

Some one pushed the street car button.

Conductor No. 6,432,691, otherwise known as Arey, gave the bell-cord a lazy jerk and pushed open the car door.

The gong clanged a single melodious note.
It was the lunch hour.

Dick Walker picked up his shining aluminum dinner pail and meandered lazily out of Dinty’s pickle factory into the street where he sat down in his calico overalls to eat.

Life is made of gongs and bells,
Every gong a fate foretells,
Now you know the fame we’ve won,
Take it as it’s meant—in fun.

Every Graduate of the Omaha High School

Should go to college and thus be the better able to meet the problems encountered in the great battle of life.

PARENTS should consider seriously the duty they owe their children. To perhaps leave them at a critical time without the financial means to complete their education, would be a great injustice.

THE WOODMEN OF THE WORLD, Omaha’s great, successful Life Insurance Association, will provide the necessary funds to guard against this contingency.

CERTIFICATES—$250 and up.

SPECIAL FEATURES—Cash and Paid-Up Withdrawal Equities. Temporary disability benefit after five years continuous membership. Particulars, rates, etc., gladly furnished.

GOODWILL

GOODWILL is that intangible asset which makes a man, a woman, or a business of more value to the community than is indicated by mere dollars and cents.

It has been our aim to build GOODWILL by selling at reasonable prices the best pastries, salads, butter, and eggs we can obtain, with a full measure of courteous treatment thrown in.

DEVOTED TO BETTER HOME-MAKING
You can buy furniture at almost any price—as cheap as your conscience will permit, as expensive as your purse affords. But if you seek furniture of character at prices well within your means, you will patronize a store which urges you to weigh well the life-long investment in creature comfort you are about to make.

It is the earnest aim of this store to reflect in its advertising the cordial, conscientious spirit which rules its organization.

We have only one thing to sell—CHARACTER; a vigilant integrity in every relation with the customer.
