EACH year the lieutenant colonel of Central High school's Regiment is chosen for his qualities of leadership, initiative and character. F. Robert Vierling possesses these to a marked degree. Under his leadership, the Regiment has maintained its high standard of excellence and gained new laurels. As usual, the lieutenant colonel has taken a prominent part in other activities. His services have contributed much to the program of the year.

F H. GULGARD, commandant of Central High school's Regiment, by his kindliness of nature and executive ability, has guided the Regiment through another year of successful activities. He has made the Regiment an efficient and progressive organization, retaining its place as the leading activity at Central. By encouraging and guiding the younger cadet officers, he prepares them in their first years for their higher positions as seniors.

CENTRAL’S REGIMENT, being like a large army, needs an advance guard, so the Engineers are chosen to fill this honored position. Weeks in advance of the spring encampment at Valley, they make plans for new equipment, repairs, and other things that are needed to make camp a success. About three days before the main body of troops starts for the camping grounds at Valley, these chosen scouts, under the leadership of F. Y. Knapple, sally forth to start things moving for their comrades back home. Soon the air resounds with the thud of stake-pounding and the bustle of continuous activity, until an empty city of tents lies ready to receive the main army of cadets.

The position of Engineers is an enviable one for although it entails a great deal of hard work, still there are special privileges pertaining to this job which more than compensate for the extra exertion upon the part of the boys. A number of the members of the faculty interest themselves in helping the Engineers in various ways, and not the least of these is “Papa” Schmidt, who keeps the boys from being homesick by cooking meals like mother makes.

Central’s Army feels confident that this year’s Engineers will make this camp the best ever, for they are “live wires” and “raring” to go.

Fred Hamilton,
Chief Engineer.
National Honor Society

At one of the largest mass meetings of the year, the election of thirty-seven members of the senior class to the Beta chapter of the National Honor Society was announced, April 18, 1929, by Dr. Frederick Clayton of the All Saints' Episcopal Church. Central High School prides itself in having its principal, J. G. Masters, originate this society which, for the past eight years, has been extended to high schools throughout the United States. This scholastic society signifies the highest achievement that the senior may attain in the service of his school. Its rank among high schools is comparable with the greatest honorary scholastic fraternity of our universities, Phi Beta Kappa.

Members of this group are chosen each year from the upper quartile of the senior class by a committee of the faculty, which is instructed to consider the past record of the senior in his active work at Central. The qualifications for an elected student are based on scholarship, dependability, initiative, and sincere willingness to co-operate in the various activities of the school. With these qualities in mind, the boys and girls chosen for the National Honor Society will be the leaders in later life in exemplifying the ideals of a true American citizen.

The committee of the faculty were: J. G. Masters, chairman; Miss Mary Elliott, F. H. Gulgard, Fred Hill, Mrs. Irene Jensen, F. Y. Knapple, Miss Helen Lane, Miss Bertha Neale, Andrew Nelsen, Mrs. Anne Lane Savidge, Miss Floy Smith, Miss Sara Vore Taylor, and Miss Jessie M. Towne.

Quill and Scroll

ONE of the departmental honors bestowed on a distinguished few is that of membership in Quill and Scroll, a national honor society for high school journalists. This society was organized at the University of Iowa, April 10, 1926, for the purpose of recognizing ability and achievement in writing and business management in high school journalism.

Quill and Scroll now numbers nearly three hundred chapters. These are located in nearly every state in the Union and represent most of the high schools in the country. Five thousand of the ablest young journalists in America wear the badge of the society.

The requirements for membership, as set down in the constitution of the society, are that the student must have accomplished outstanding work in writing, editing, or business management on either the Register or Senior Book staffs. He must be in the upper third of his class in scholastic standing and must be recommended by the supervisor, faculty, board of publication, and national secretary-treasurer of the organization.

This year the Quill and Scroll chapters of Nebraska held a state convention, May 3 and 4 at North High School, Omaha, Nebraska.

To be the first Nebraska paper to win first place in the Midland College Tri-State Press contest was the honor which The Weekly Register won in the annual contest this spring.

"The Queen's Husband"

COMEDY and tragedy were combined in the annual senior play, "The Queen's Husband," which was presented in the high school auditorium, April 26 and 27. It was a modern three-act play by Robert Emmet Sherwood, and was based on the life of Queen Marie of Roumania.

The production was completed in three weeks, while professionals usually take six weeks to present the same play.

The play was a story of the life in the Royal Palace in a mythical and anonymous kingdom situated on an island in the North Sea, somewhere between Denmark and Scotland. Queen Martha (Virginia Hunt), the dominating influence of the palace and her "browbeaten" husband (Paul Brawner), furnished the humor of the production. Maxine Stokes as Princess Anne, and Harry Stafford as Young Granton, the king's secretary, carried on an intriguing romance throughout the entire performance. Dawson Adams as Phipps, the butler, Paul Prentiss as Prince William of Greece, Herman Rosenblatt as General Northrup, Russell Baker as Lord Birten, the Foreign Minister, were other parts that help develop the plot.

Minor parts were: Irma Randall as Petley, Mistress-of-the-chamber; Adele Barnhart as First Lady-in-waiting; Ethel Foltz as Second Lady-in-waiting; Tom Austin as Major Blent, Aide-de-camp; William Ellsworth as Sergeant; Lazar Kaplan as Dr. Fellman, a Liberal; Alton Harris as Laker, an Anarchist, and Jerry Van Arsdale as Lady-in-waiting to the Princess.

Miss Floy Smith was director and dramatic coach and Edward Evans, business manager.

Florence Binkley.
FOOTBALL. The football team, after their early season defeat of Beatrice by a score of 25-7, was not as successful as usual and suffered many defeats, but always showed a real spirit. Schroeder starred at an end post while the passing combination of Lungren to Wilhelm was also valuable.

BASKETBALL. The basketball team finished the season on a balance as far as victories and defeats were concerned. Captain Clancy, Glue, and Means were the outstanding players and helped the team advance to the semi-finals of the city meet.

WRESTLING. The Central team finally came out of the cellar and had a very successful season, losing only two dual meets. They placed three men in the semi-finals of the city meet.

SWIMMING. Central lost only two dual meets and was second in both the city and state meets. Captain Gallup was outstanding.

BASEBALL. Central has made one of the best starts in years and is due for one of the best seasons in history.

GOLF. The tournament is being held and Bliss and Garver are the favorites.

TENNIS. Thomson and Goldner will need to be in top form all season to make up for the loss of the city champion, Ogden Lungren, who is giving all of his time to baseball.

TRACK. Central has three veterans on the team and, although it is too early for any predictions, is a strong team. Wilhelm, captain of the team, Poff, Niemann, and Willard are the most outstanding men.

Paul Prentiss.
ELEVEN seniors were elected from the June Senior Class of 1929 to membership in the National Athletic Scholarship Society. Eligibility to membership in this society is limited to those boys earning an athletic letter in one of the four major sports, or letters in two minor sports, whose average in their school work for three consecutive semesters is equal to or higher than the general average of the school, and who have exemplified the highest type of citizenship and sportsmanship. They must also be recommended by the principal.

This year's class far exceeds any previous class in that the athletes are not only versatile in the different sports, but that they can combine work and school spirit to such an extent that they are recognized as the highest type of athletes. Of these eleven, two were also elected to the National Honor Society. The idea of this organization, to develop high scholarship in athletes, to produce good leaders, to elevate the idea of sportsmanship and to stimulate a desire for balanced training has certainly been well carried out in Central High School.

When one considers that in previous years there have been only six or possibly seven athletes to make this society, it seems incredible that eleven of our classmates were able to do their best for Central on the athletic field and despite the hardships it may have caused them, to keep their grades above the general average of the school.

—Paul Prentiss.
Girls' Golf Tournament

ALTHOUGH this is the first year that we have had girls' organized golf at Central, a very successful representation was obtained. Only sixteen of the twenty-five girls who signed up for golf instruction, under Mrs. Glee Gardiner Case, entered the tournament, which eliminates these to eight and by the same process to four, two and one respectively.

The beautiful silver trophy so kindly donated by Mrs. Mark Levings is sought after by all in the contest, as a wonderful memory of school days, and fortunate will be the girl who finally wins it as her own. To do so one must be champion for three consecutive years. There is also a prize to the winner of each flight.

The winner of the first flight, and the grand champion for this year was Patsy Young, a freshman. The cup will be her possession for one year. Marjorie DeWold, a sophomore, was the runner-up. Both of the girls were awarded golf stick pins as permanent possessions.

From this it will be seen that golf is now taking its place as a favorite sport among the girls, due to its very nature of healthful outdoor recreation.

All girls who signed up for golf and went out for it, will receive points toward their “O” and also state league awards. It is not necessary to be a champion or to be in the tournament to the end to get these points. In the state awards these points are given under organized golf, if played under the supervision of Mrs. Case, and under unorganized golf if the girls participate and play by themselves, keeping their own time. Elmwood was the chosen links for all the matches in the tournament.

—LOUISE SONDREGGER.
Girls' State Athletic Association

THE NEBRASKA STATE LEAGUE of the High School Girls' Athletic Association has been organized for some time, but it was not until the spring of 1929 that Central joined the league. This league includes as members local associations organized in any junior or senior high school of Nebraska. Its primary purpose is to encourage and guide girls' athletics through organized associations and to standardize and promote ideals of health and sportsmanship. This league is a member of the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation and plays an important part in the girls' athletic program of this state.

Through this league two local awards are permitted to be given by the individual schools, these generally being the school chevrons, numerals and letter. These are given to girls who have earned six hundred and twelve hundred points respectively. The next two higher awards, the First State Awards and the State Emblem, are given by the State League, the State Emblem being the highest award it is possible to receive. Besides earning the necessary points for each of these awards there are certain requirements which must also be fulfilled. Every girl must make a passing grade in three academic subjects in the last semester before the award is petitioned for, she must have a good record in sportsmanship, pass a posture test, have a heart examination and keep thirty-six training rules each week.

Before joining this league, the "O" was the only athletic award towards which it was possible to work.

This league has created a greater interest in our athletic department and will have a tendency to unify athletic activities in Nebraska.

Louise Sonderegger.

Convict Rosenblabber Escapes; Public Is Aroused from Fear

Officers Give Identification Marks; Offer Huge Reward for Capture

All respectable citizens who value their lives are hereby warned to beware! The most dangerous criminal of all ages escaped in the murky midnight from his temporary boarding house, Sing Sing. Police are poring frantically and detectives are detecting, but at the time the paper went to press the criminal was still at large.

When last seen, Rosenchabber, alias Roaring Rosie, the Reprobate, Robber, alias Horrible Herman, known throughout the country as the awful author of "Everything is Rosie Now," was seen galloping away from the prison on the news-steam pictured above. (Note: It's Rosenblabber above the steed.)

Rosenblabber's crime record is such that it would chill the blood of our readers. (Suggestion: Say this paper and read it in August.) He started his career of crime at an extremely early age, the first offence on record being his face. Other atrocities followed fast and furious. He dulled the ears of thousands of defenseless little children by singing falsetto in grade school, and then committed an unpardonable sin; he developed the habit with which he has tortured thousands since.

The culprit may be recognized by a shock of curly black ringlets, and piercing, hawk-like eyes. The habit, however, is not infallible since the permanent will probably grow out in six months. It has been noticed in the prison that: Rosenblabber bears "Number One My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," played in a duet on the zither and sousaphone, to home, he is drawn irresistibly to the spot. The detectives will have tried this, but a's, they are not musically inclined. So anybody needing money, get up a zither and sousaphone duct and win the generous $5.00 reward offered for th descent. If any one does, let us know! And keep your windows locked! Rosenblabber knows no law! (He never took Cives from Mr. HCL)

Circus Comes to Town:

Roar! Roar! Too-too-too of the kallycope; "Peanuts, peanuts, get your peanuts right here, 6 cents..." ch. ter, chatter of the monkey... bawl of the elephant... and suddenly, HAHAHAHAHAHA, horrible laughter, freezing the blood. It's only Hysterically Hellish Hiller, explaining the guide... balloons, balloons—yes, the Tingling Twins circus is here.

The smurks is here—and from the tent-pole hoisters and water boys to the manager, all are former Omahas! Great Billboards hirik at the reporter. "Distorted Daredevil Devereaux," "Glowing Gloe, the fire-eater sensation of the century," the "Goldher Serves Twins." See them now, the Eight Modern wonders of the world!"

Sensational Daylight Robbery Perpetrated in Hollywood Mansion

Miss Gert Braic Loses Valuable Jewels in Public Stunt

Foul play suspected in sensational daring, daylight robbery! As I P. M. last night the luxurious, sumptuous villa of Gert Braic, sweetheart of Hollywood Heights, was broken into, and valuable jewels belonging to Miss Braic were lifted.

When this paper's star news shark, Jean Hall, interviewed Miss Braic this morning, the actress was copiously as she related the lamentable events of last p.m. "Ooo! Boo-hoo! Oh, my Diamonds, oh, my DUCats!" sobbed Gertie in true Shakespearean style. "Oh, it's BREAKING my heart!" However, Miss Braic was not so overcome with grief that she could not renew the rosy bloom of youth to her touched cheeks and smile precisely for the camera man.

But let us let Miss Braic tell the story in her winsome way that won her to the hearts of her public. "Well, you SEE, Rober GLOVero, my CO-star, and I had just come from a PARTY at the PALATIAL HOME of HOLLYWOOD's second Fiddle ROthers, none other than BURT SMYthe. Gee, it was a BIG party! Dyck OWDDerry, Clyde TELle, Eloys CATHetress, Consuelo Do RO, and everyone was there." At this point Miss Hall brought Miss Braic back to the subject in hand.

"As I SAID," gushed Gertie, "I had JUST said goodbye to Robber, and gone to my BOOwhah, to put my JUOIs away. And IMAGine my surprise when I discovered that ALL my DIamonds and RUBIES and KREESSc VALUables had been taken! I MEAN I was ALL of a BODah! So I rang and rang for the servants, and wouldn't believe it, all thirty-four of the oafs were OND asleep! Oh, to think that they don't care any more about WE than to watch my VAUables!"

At this point Miss Braic was so vroly that the interview was brought to a close.

(The Weakly Register wishes to hand Miss Braic's publicist, man, Edward Evans, for giving the pap-r fiasco information of the roh-c y.)
Requiescat in Pace

I hate to go away from you, Central.
I and some three hundred more
Just hate to leave your old hallways
And your rickety swelling old floor.
You're just like a stately old castle
Standing supreme on your hill;
And when I go away from you, Central,
I get a sad sort of a thrill.
Many's the time I've disliked you;
I've hated you long with the rest.
But we've learned to see things a lot clearer
And we know what you've done is the best.
The friendships I've made in you, Central,
With some of the girls and the boys
Will always help me to remember
That you were the source of my joys.
I get a sad sort of a feeling
When I leave your familiar old halls.
And we three hundred brothers and sisters
Go forth for all time from your walls.
Then some of us part at the doorway
Some must go East and some West, but wherever we go we remember That Central has given her best.

Heart Trouble

Dear Lary Mane:
I have several very important things to ask you. I have been very troubled about my dancing lately. Someone told me I was as good a dancer as Gert Braig. Now, dear Lary Mane, what do you think I should do—stop dancing entirely or start taking dancing lessons? Another thing, can you help me become popular with the girls? I have tried everything I know from reciting poetry to bringing along my portable accordion but it never works. Only once has anyone laughed at my jokes. That was Mary Alice Rogers, but after that I got home and read Breezy Stories over again, I found out I had told the joke wrong, so that was no consolation. Please advise me.

Thank you so much,
Hopefully,
BUN DOUGLAS.

Ode to Hamburger

How well we remember the lunch room,
The fights and the battles in line.
And we scrambled and fought for our places
At those roughened old tables of pine.
If there's Spanish Hamburger we bought it,
And ate it right down in great haste.
Then we drank gallons of water,
To drown out that leathery taste.
Then we consumed our potatoes,
As old as the time Grant took Lee.
Scenes of that bustling old lunchroom
What murderous thoughts you bring me!
Then we got up from the table
Shakey and awfully pale,
And (halfingly) wended our footsteps
On to that staunch old brass rail.
Then we stumbled along it
Until we got to the place
Where the Janitor waited for dishes
With a sickening smile on his face.
We climbed up the rickety stairway
And struggled and pushed with the door.
We fumed and we swore and said never again
But we always came back for more.

Perscriptions

Dear Bunny:
I will be glad to help you with your problems. Drop in and I will see what I can do.
Lary Mane.

P. S. I almost forgot to tell you where I live. It's down by the river.

P. S. 2. Tell your friend, Miss Braig, that if she sends a self-addressed, stamped envelope to this department, Lary Mane will recommend a good dancing teacher for her.

And as the generous convict said to the warden, "Never mind the chains."
Beautiful Bride Blushes

Amid Blooms Blossoming Before Big Altar

Miss Rhoy Weds Mr. Taylor
at Elaborate Church Wedding

The first beautiful evening wedding of the month was solemnized on July 12, at three a.m., at St. Timothy's Church, the Reverend Mr. Joe Hornick officiating.

Miss Lois Rhoy, the bride, was resplendent in a Molycavantano decolletée period robe de style of poudre neige white poussy vel- vet. From her wavy locks rested a three foot veil of hazy crocheted lace. Around her neck she wore a dazzling choker of rock salt, the wedding gift of her fiancé.

Sheppard Taylor, the groom, was resplendent in a Browning & King creation of sot black serge (special for Saturday, $24.98, extra pair of suspenders, $26.59). His shirt was white, with a novel fringe on the cuffs. He wore red, white, and blue suspenders.

Leading the bridal party came little Miss Virginia Seabrook, straying pansy petals down the aisle, and Master Paul Prentiss, carrying the wedding ring in a sunflower. Not far after came the little ribbon bearers, Dorothy Meyer and Don Jones. Then the bridesmaids tripped down the aisle, a bevy of beauty. Miss Maxine Stokes, in a fluffy creation of royal purple, and Miss Desdemona Conners, in a radiant red gown, came first, followed by Miss Frances Cummins in Missouri brown and Miss Alice Jean McDonnell in a lettuce green ensemble. They added a truly bright spot to the wedding as they brushed coyly and snatched for the bride's bouquet after the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated in bachelor's buttons, the bride's favorite flower. She carried a bouquet of Dandie Lyons, also a gift of the groom.

After the ceremony a lovely bridal breakfast of Kellogg's Corn Flakes, sliced oranges, fried eggs (boiled or poached, 5c extra) and Swift's Premium bacon was served at Emwood Park.

After an extended motor cycle honeymoon to G-tuna, Nebraska, U. S. A., Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will be at home at the First National Bank building. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are both graduates of Central High School, where they were casual acquaintances.

THE WEEKLY REGISTER

INFORMATION BUREAU

Conducted by Donald Paul White.

Question: What was the Great Strike?

Answer: Strike three.

O. Who was it that said, "If singleness is bliss, 'Ts folly to be wives?"
A. Adele Barnhart.

Q. To whom is the credit given for the writing of the song, Be it Ever So Holy, There's No Face Like My Own?
A. Bob Vierling.

Q. Who was it that said, "Give us liberty, or give us death," and what was the outcome?
A. The Senior Class of 1929. The result was that they failed to get Liberty?

Q. Someone told me, the other day, that they knew a person who wanted my eyes. Is that true?
A. Yes, a blind man.

Culinary Secrets Are Taught to Anxious Debs

Ye Cuisaine Cookerie Clubbe, established to teach the mysteries of cookery to debutantes, met in the salatal kitchen of Mary Alice Rogers yesterday, for the first lesson of the season, "How to Boil Water Without Searching." Mrs. Pat Turner, a young bride of the group, related to the sweet young ladies all the troubles she had had that morning getting Chuck's eggs rescued to suit him. Young Mrs. Alice Taylor, Swarming showed the group a painful finger burn she had received while trying to fry apples and recite "Woodman, Spare That Tree," to the jester's jest. She declared that the only way to mix, drama and food was not to let Leven do the cooking. Miss Varie Ardell and Miss Ruth hallowed the girls pretty battled nuns, "I've had gathered for their 'When hope chest's, and Miss Waterworth d'splayed a lovely tie and dye tea towel that she had received for her birthday. There was a slight catastrophe, however, since the girls forgot to watch the water they had put on the stove, and when they looked at it at the end of the afternoon it had boiled dry. However, the debutantes conspired to hide it, and they had spent a very profitable after-noon. The next meeting will be held a week from today at the home of one of the club's prospective brides, Miss Florence Blakley.

Bachelors' Club Holds Indiginition Meeting

After Wilhelm Falls

John McMillan Presides; B. Adams, A. Pinkerton Vigorously Warned

The Bachelors' Club, remarkable that it is composed of unmarried men only, met last night at the home of the club's president, John McMillan, to discuss the departure of Brother Wilbur Wilhelm into the holy bonds of wedlock. After much discussion the members decided to put aside all bitter feelings of resentment and each contribute $10 toward a wedding present for Brother Wilhelm. The scene was indeed touching as Brother Hollister rose to his full height and denounced any turncoat who might be contemplating consummation bliss, Brother Pinkerton was heard to mumble something sounding like, "Have a heart, Hollister. You never had a fagg day," It was also noted that Brother Blay Adams blushed and muttered, "But Bess," whatever that may have meant. As the meeting closed Brother Austin motioned that they rise and sing, "Oh, Where's My Wandering Boy Tonight," in honor of departing Brother Wil- liam. Additional members of the club are the Brothers H. Adams, Al- bright, Condon, Classen, Dever- aux, Hamilton, Peeler, and Rex- ord.

Young Abe was an Irishman
An' at the English hard.
'Is father was an Irishman
As was his father's pard.

Young Abe met a Englishman
An' popped him on the nose
'Sor Abe's left had quite a huff
When Abe's Irish Rose.

"Well, I don't know" haunts my brain,
'What a life?' is trite.
"So long!" and "Heavenly days!" Force me to say "Good night!"

"Apple sauce!" "Go tie a knot!" They ought to make a law
"Such crust!" and "Well I'll be darned!"

"This is the final straw!"
Review of Current Attractions Showing in Omaha Theaters.

Sensational! Soul-searching! is the sob-story Squeakie, ‘The Dance of the Spanish Hamburger,’ a tale of the wilds of Cafe-Tear-Ee, starring Gert Braig, America’s Techie heart, and Burt “Buildy Rogers” Smythe, which is appearing at the Porphium this week.

Despite the handicap of 200 pounds, Gert Braig handles her roll of too-dark hamburger doggily. She is just the type to portray her beautiful (?) but dumb role. Burt Smythe makes the girl sigh and cry every time they look at his face they begin bawling and he portrays the part of the poor criminal ham burger and zone with a sympathetic touch. (According to his agent, it was the sort of life he had formerly led.)

Evelyn Catherine Wood, as the poor old gray-haired mother of Burt brought many a tear to the eyes of the audience. Dew Cowdery is a realistic villain. Miss Braig’s sweet voice is, however, not her own, but Paul Prentiss’, who doubles for all her voice roles. She does her voice one herself.

The plot? Suffice it to be said that Russell Baker, who for years slaved and washed and died in the wilds of Cafe-Tear-Ee, wrote the scenario.

Direct from Broadway (Council Bluffs) is the rollicking tragedy "Get Your Men," starting tomorrow and ending today at the Brand Ice. Alice Taylor’s portrayal of Little Laughing Dies, queen of the jungle anes, is sympathetic and realistic and her inimitable ape walk will go down in history.

Walford Mars’ part of the poor little Monkey who loved Laughing Dies, was done so poignant and realistically that many a member of the audience wanted to give him a penny to put in his little red cap. Harry Honey, the handsome hunter from bee-Haw, and heir to the Basket-Bawl millions, with whom Laughing Dies falls in love at first, is well done by Ralph Thoman.

You will slit your soles with tears when the poor little Monkey dies alone in the cruel jungle, all far the unrequited love he bears for Laughing Dies. This sad comedy’s written from personal experience as to men hunting by the famous playwright, Norma Williams Hoe-

"Blue-hoo, Ah Got Those Lo-how Down Blue-hoo's," and you’ll have them, too, after you hear Eathyr Steinberg, Queen of the Blues and Mellerdrummer, at the Fairmount this week. She is supported by Harry Stafford, female impersonator, direct from Broadway and Sing Sing.

It is a mystery how Broadway ever let Miss Steinberg go (it did its best, however, we hear, with a straight jacket and a ball and chain)—for when she recites the floor on the harroom face and the humming of Man McGrue, she so deeply affects the audience that hats, bricks, pocketbooks and tomatoes fill the air. Ah yes, she’s a great hit.

Harry Stafford must have had long association with women, for he apes their ways perfectly; his voice can make the people laugh and cry; and when he sings "Just Once Again"—even before he sings it, when he announces it, the audience bursts into tears.

The squeakie, "How to be Happy Despite Your Face," stars Marvin Rex x.d and Bud Misson.

Circus Comes To Town!

"Balloons, balloons, 3 cents!" the voice sounds vaguely familiar. "Buy a balloon, missus, please, I'm starvin', and I got twelve kids and a child at home with not a bit to drink, please—why, why, it's Maegre-XXX Hayesed Hennessey," he cried, recognizing the reporter. It—it was none other than Fred Hamilton. He was making good use of the eloquence that he had practiced in school during home room on suffering listeners. "Yep, I've been chief balloon man (he a'way was up in the air) for th's mumkis for seventeen years," declared Francy Fred, and I sure have made the balloon trade boom. Well, I gotta sell more balloons, balloonos . . . ."

The reporter was dazed (ed. note, as usual). She walked a w-oin a dream until she bumped full into a bucket of water. "Hey, you, watch think you are, an elephant. Doncha know the elephants are dying of thirst, and here you tip over all their water. Aincha ashamed?"—a little, aggressive man was talking. It is—can it be?—Franklin Masters, now chief water wagon man for the greatest show on mirth-one other than Benjamin Frank-in Masters. "Yes," he declared dreamily, "that I am or ever hope to be I owe to my central high training," he chewed on a Mir-tam Leigh cigar (paid advt.), "Yeah, after that job, this'n is a pip—Hey, you, more water for Tiny," he ordered.

A sudden terrible hubbub "Watch out," yelled Masterful Masters, "the elephants are stam-peding. But suddenly a clarinet clarinet—"and behold and low—the elephants slowly sank to s'unber (that spring song would put anyone to sleep.)"

"How did he? Who is he? Where?"—but a modest unassum-ing man walked forward, brandishing his instrument of tor—er, we mean clarinet. "I can not tell two lics, I done it with my little cari-net," sobbed he. "Allee, we gasp-d, recognize him. "No, not Allee, Horribly Harmonious Hea'd," he corrected. "Yeah, that's me. It's my job now, to play the anima's to to sleep. I learned how to get the brutes to sleep at Central high mass-meetings. Pahdon me, I gotta go play the lions senseless," and he rushed away.

"And over here is none other than the world famed sensation

Swelling Gloe, the fire eater; he has swallowed fire before all the royalty of Europe. See him eat flame.

Strike a match, anybody, ladeez and gentlmen. See! Yeah, he got his training by eating chile with a who's shaker full of pepper on it in his high school daze, after that a'ire ain't nothing'. And this is, "a curta'n slowly opened and the most terrible face in captivity was disclosed. Gibbering, it tore at its hair. Women screamed, fainted

"It's Distorted Devereaux, the wild man from Centrallee. He claims the distinction of having the worst face in captivity."

The shrinks of the women were so terrible that Condole was forced to pass on to the next horror. "See,

right over here, the living skeleton of the world, Fragile Fiedler. Step on the scale At. Scale 40 pounds, and believe it or not, ladeez, gentlmen, and reporter, long, long ago he was electe the best all-around man in the senior class of Central g'high schule, but by running after the ladeez, the exercise made

'ose and lose until, look at him now:

00 and 1,000 lbs. And by his side-

's Gargantuan,iganianic Gardner, so fat that we had to rebuild this side show to fit him; so fat that everytime he falls down there's an earth quake. Do a toe dance for this ladeez, Gargantua. When he was had he was so thin that they'd use him for a toothpick, but he married

Getchen Needham, and he ate and ate, and ate, (her meals were a irresistible that, now, look at him he t's the scale's at 700 lbs.

Brawner's Balm For Bald Beans

Dear Doctor:

I have been bald for three years. I have tried numerous remedies and cures but none of them had the slightest effect. After taking one dose of your patent hair restorer I am happy to say that I am now as bald as a billiard ball.

Yours Sin-hairily,
John McMillan.

Dear Professor Brawner:

I was so troubled with bunions on my right arm that I lay awake at nights pacing the floor to the tune of Star Spangled Banner. (I play this piece so that I can stand at attention.) Believe me, doc, after taking your balm for bald beans I slept so sound that I did not awaken until I was in the hearse going to the graveyard.

Thanking you, I remain,
Virginia Maneuso

Beauty Hints to the Love-lorn. We will pay money for hints.

For a silky, lovely complexion, try this dear reader: mix about four pounds of three-weeks old butter together with four quarts of sour pickle brine, stir very excitedly for ten minutes with your right leg folded over your chin. After this operation add three quarts of old cylinder oil. Take the drippings of three bronze cuspidors, (they must be bronze) and add them to this solution at a temperature of about 75°. Stir continuously for about two hours and forty-five minutes. If, at the end of that time you still feel that you need beautifying throw the solution in the kitchen sink and beat it to the beauty shop.

What Graduates Expect of Parents

Not more, perhaps, than they hope one day to give. But this much surely: a fine watch at graduation. Why not make it a real exceptional watch—a Gruen! The cost is no greater than for any good watch—less in fact, when the graduate's pride in owning a genuine Guild watch is considered.
